CAPT. HARRISON TELLS OF DRAKE MURDER ROOM

Let us enter room 836.

It is within that room on the eighth floor of the Drake hotel that Mrs. Adele Born Williams was mortally wounded the night of Jan. 19. Most of you are familiar with the published story: That about 6:30 p. m. an unidentified "woman, wearing a black coat and with flowers in her hat or hair," emerged from behind the bathroom door, fired one shot at Patricia Goodbody, and then three more shots, one of which struck her mother, Mrs. Williams, in the head. She died 25 hours later, in St. Luke's hospital. The "woman" escaped.

Room 836 is located in the north wing of the Drake. It overlooks an open courtway, and beyond that, the Oak st. beach and the Outer dr. It is normally quiet here in the winter; in summer the laughter of children and the echoing swash of the waves on Oak st. beach float into the room.

Thick Red Carpet in Room.

Both in an official capacity and an unofficial capacity, I have made a detailed study of room 836. It is a spacious room, with cream colored, paneled walls. Thick red carpet, with what might be a leaf design, covers the floor. As I walk across it I cannot hear my own tread.

Room 836 has the usual accommodations of a room in any distinctive hotel. The bedroom proper is large and contains twin beds, a vanity table, two dressers, a writing table, a telephone stand, a luggage stand, two desk lamps, a floor lamp, a lounging chair, and three wood chairs. Two etchings and a color print decorate the walls.

There are several closets, a hallway or anteroom, and a sizable bathroom.

Details Figure in Case.

I believe that careful study of the case—a detailed description, with measurements—of this mystery room is in order. It will give you a clearer view of the whole case to observe these details, especially in relation to the diagrams and pictures that will accompany this report.

Room 836 has its windows at the north end. The greater part of its area comprises the bedroom proper, which is 18 feet 6 inches long and 13 feet 10 inches wide. The north wall of the bedroom is broken by two windows, each 6 feet 1 inch in height, 4 feet 7 inches in width.

At the wall between these two windows stands a three mirrored

INDUSTRY WINS RACE TO PRODUCE RUBBER FOR WAR

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—America's two year old synthetic rubber industry is producing adequately to meet military and necessary civilian requirements. The artificial product will continue as a substitute for natural rubber in most uses, including the bulk of tires, in the post-war era.

The construction of the plants has defeated the Japanese hope for victory thru their capture of plantations growing 90 per cent of the world's rubber supply.

In September, 1942, with synthetic plant construction bogged down, the Baruch committee reported that America was threatened with military and economic collapse for lack of rubber. Today America is safe from this threat.

Production 860,000 Tons Yearly.

Production now is at a rate of 860,000 tons a year, and the plants will soon reach their capacity rate of a million tons a year. This is greater than war time requirements itemized by Rubber Director Dewey, as follows:

[In thousands of tons.]

	1943.	1944.	6 mos. of 1945.
Military	271	325	186
Trucks and buses	90	173	92
Passenger tires	47	134	93
Other uses	33	65	40
Exports	71	147	72
Canada	30	39	22
Totals	542	883	505

Part of this requirement is for natural rubber, 167,000 tons in 1944 and 61,000 tons in the first half of 1945. America still uses some natural rubber, mainly for extra large tires. The nation's stockpile of natural was 103,000 tons June, 1. With the current rate of imports from Ceylon, Liberia, Mexico, and South and Central America, the stockpile will be 100,000 tons next July 1.

Price Ranges Vary.

In the post-war era synthetic rubber is expected to enjoy advantages over natural rubber in price and in quality for most uses. Dewey has estimated synthetic rubber can be sold, after the war, for 15 or 16 cents a pound. The British-Dutch cartel in pre-war years rigged the f. o. b. New York price as high at $3 a pound in 1910 and $1.10 in 1925.

The prices, at different times and for different qualities, ranged from 13½ to 23¼ cents in 1936, from 14 to 27 cents in 1937, from 10¼ to 17¼ cents in 1938, and from 15¼ to 25 cents in 1939.

Stable Level Expected.

In the post-war era American consumers of rubber goods, including motorists, will be protected against unfair prices imposed by the British-Dutch cartel. Manufacturers of rubber goods will be protected against instability of the London quotations on their raw materials.

America's pre-war consumption of between 550,000 and 650,000 tons a year is expected to increase from 50 to 100 per cent in the post-war years. The increase will be brought about by new uses for rubber, such as flooring, by the superiority of synthetics for some uses, and by the stabilization of rubber prices.

The more economical synthetic rubber plants will continue to operate. Only the more economical plantations will continue to have a market.

Democrat Leader Assails F. D. R.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 6 [Special].—Assailing President Roosevelt for playing "politics with labor-management and with radical groups," Howard W. Jackson, four times Democratic mayor of Baltimore, today asserted he would vote in November "against one-man government, against Earl Browder and Sidney Hillman."

"I am for many principles of the Roosevelt administration — unemployment insurance, old age pensions, aid for dependent children, collective bargaining [which should be a two-way and not a one-way street], and guarantees of bank deposits," said the state Democratic party leader, "but I am against most of his administrative policies."

Makes Other Charges.

"He has played politics with labor-management and with radical groups," Jackson said, "purged members of congress who would not be subservient to him; ordered congress to pass legislation of doubtful constitutionality; endeavored to reorganize the Supreme court and make it subject to his views; he plied bureau on top of bureau; he serves the radicals; he commits us to so many things that we do not know our obligations and liabilities; he pretends to distribute wealth, which cannot be done, and he favors legislation to limit income."

Jackson's attack on the President's fourth term candidacy was made in a statement replying to a charge by Harold A. Keene, city Democratic chairman, that the former mayor previously had bolted the party.

Denies F. D. R. Is Democrat.

"If I had been against the nominees of the Democratic party in 1928, 1934, 1938, and 1940, I would have said so as I am now doing in reference to President Roosevelt, who long since in my judgment has ceased to be a Democrat," said Jackson.

Jackson was defeated for reelection last year by Republican Theodore R. McKeldin.

SEIZE GAS STAMP THIEVES IN BANK

Two Caught with 3 Bags Full of Coupons.

In an investigation filled with surprising turns, Maxwell st. police had in custody yesterday two thieves caught in a bank with a large number of gas coupons. The men entered the bank with a key which was still in the unlocked but closed door when police arrived to answer a call from a bank employe who lives across the street. The employe said he saw three men ride around the block and two of them enter the bank thru the front door.

The men, who told police three different stories in 10 hours of questioning, are John Walek, 39, of 619 N. Racine av., a well known hoodlum, and William Daddano, 31, of 4053 5th av. They were caught in the lobby of the Halsted Exchange National bank, 1929 S. Halsted st., early yesterday.

Stamps Found in 3 Bags.

Near-by were three large burlap bags filled with enough stamps to obtain more than 500,000 gallons of gas and a large number of meat stamps. George Weiner, vice president of the bank, said the stamps were stored in the directors' room on the second floor of the bank, which was locked when police arrived. Other parts of the bank, including the vaults, were untouched.

Asst. State's Atty. Julius Sherwin said the men must have had "inside" help in obtaining the front door and directors' room keys. He said that he will appear at the bank this morning to take statements from all employes who might have had access to the keys.

Bank officials said at least six keys to the front door are held by employes and two by former employes. One of the former employes, a 20 year old youth, was questioned yesterday by police. Sherwin said the key recovered by police appeared to be a cheap duplicate. There are only two keys to the directors' room—one held by a bank official and the other by a trusted secretary.

Janitor Also Is Quizzed.

Police said the coupons, pasted on cards, were loose on a table in the room and were uncanceled and thus reusable for ration banking purposes.

Sherwin also questioned John Schader, 58, of 1725 W. 25th st., a janitor, after Walek and Daddano told police "the janitor" had asked them to watch the place while he went out for a cup of coffee.

Walek, who, police said, is a friend of Sam Battaglia, hoodlum, has been arrested 20 times since 1923, but has won freedom on most of the charges,

Assert Britain Is Pleading for Lend-Lease After War

New York, Aug. 6 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers today said British leaders have told the United States that extension of lend-lease beyond the war in Europe was "absolutely necessary to stave off a serious economic situation in England."

Top administration circles, the association asserted in its weekly publication, N. A. M. News, already are giving serious consideration to a proposal for such assistance, at least until the fall of Japan, and perhaps well into the transition period.

"The proposal under discussion," the article said, "is a wide departure from the present lend-lease program, in that its primary purpose would not be to aid the prosecution of the war, but would be very frankly to support Britain's domestic economy. The program would cost United States taxpayers $2,500,000,000 and up a year, above war costs."

Tell of Lost Exports.

Declaring that, according to unofficial estimates, Britain's exports have dropped 60 to 75 per cent since the outbreak of the war and that she has lost and liquidated an estimated 50 per cent of her foreign investments, N. A. M. said British leaders were worried especially over how they are going to get along the first few years after the fall of Germany.

"Thus far," the publication added, "the British have rejected all suggestions that such post-war assistance be placed on the basis of direct loans, or that they go to the proposed international bank for assistance. 'They tell us they would rather have it lend-leased,' one top United States official explained.

"The British are determined to avoid, insofar as possible, going deeply into debt, or liquidating any more foreign holdings.

Debt Is Held Down.

"As a result of our assistance to date they have managed to keep their entire national debt, both foreign and domestic, down to around $75,000,000,000 — and that includes about $5,500,000,000 owed us from the last war, which they still carry on their books — while our own debt is soaring toward an estimated $300,000,000,000."

N. A. M. said a primary concern of administration officials was how to "make congress understand."

"There is already considerable feeling on the hill that the British may come out of this war stronger, fiscally than ourselves," the publication added. "Also, if we grant such aid to the United Kingdom, will not Russia, France, Belgium, Holland, and so on infinitum, expect the same sort of treatment? they ask. And if we don't give it to them, will not a policy of playing favorites win us enemies?

Turkish Ship Sinks; 246 Jewish Refugees Drown

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 6 (AP).—The Turkish ship Mefkure, carrying 250 Jewish refugees to Turkey from Constanta, Romania, sank in the Black sea today with the loss of all but four of the passengers, said reports reaching here. There were no details.

FOUR COLUMNS SPEED FOR FORMER CAPITAL; BESIEGE FIVE BRETON PORTS

5 War Vessels Sent Down in Attack Nearest Tokyo.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Aug. 6 (AP).—American warships and planes have wiped out one Japanese town, sunk 11 ships, and hit 30 other surface craft in their boldest strike at enemy islands guarding the southern approaches to Tokyo, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

Warships shelled Chichi Island in the Bonin group, 600 miles from Tokyo. Never before have United States naval surface units attacked ground installations so close to Japan's capital.

"Omura town on Chichi Island was destroyed," Nimitz' bulletin said. Omura is on the northern shore of Port Lloyd, Chichi's best harbor.

Four other islands in the Bonin and Kazan [Volcano] groups were attacked. Thirteen Japanese planes were destroyed.

Convoy Wiped Out.

Biggest bag of the two day raid last Thursday and Friday was a Japanese convoy which was virtually wiped out. The 11 ships sunk included five destroyers or destroyer escorts, five cargo ships, and one oiler. Two smaller craft and several barges also were sunk. A light cruiser and five smaller vessels were left in flames and possibly sunk.

Damaged craft included two escort vessels, one large freighter hit on two successive days, three landing ships, and 18 small vessels, including five barges. Two of the barges carried troops.

The attack cost the carrier forces 16 planes and 19 American airmen, brought down by anti-aircraft fire.

Six Japanese planes were shot down in air battles over Iwo Island in the Kazan group, 150 miles south of the Bonins. Six others were destroyed on the ground at Iwo and one at Chichi.

Six Previous Attacks.

The small number of defensive planes indicated that the Japanese have made no attempt to replace their heavy air losses from the six previous American strikes at the two strategic island groups.

Since carrier forces first struck at the Bonins and Kazan Islands June 14, they have destroyed 280 Japanese planes, sunk 27 ships, and probably sunk or damaged 80 other vessels, excluding barges. Forty-one United States planes have been lost.

In the newest strike, first reported by Tokyo radio last Friday, air fields and ground installations were raided on Chichi, Haha, Muko, and Ane [Ani] Islands in the Bonins and Iwo in the Kazan group.

JAP VERSION OF RAID.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Japanese radio said cruisers and destroyers shelled Chichi and that both Chichi and Iwo Islands had been bombed by "large-type carrier-based enemy planes."

The broadcast said 150 planes attacked Chichi Friday and 120 made the assault on Iwo. Yesterday, the Japanese reported, "several large enemy planes" followed by "about 80 carrier-based enemy planes attacked Chichi." The Japanese claimed 22 of the raiders had been shot down.

At the same time a Domei dispatch said a "powerful enemy task force" had concentrated in the Bonins and the adjoining Volcano Islands group.

RENNES GREETS AMERICANS IN DELIRIUM OF JOY

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RENNES, France, Aug. 4 [Delayed.]—The people of Rennes accepted their freedom this morning with a stunned caution you would expect in a lifer who had served four hopeless years and suddenly was granted an unconditional pardon.

The first reaction was a kind of timid joy which quickly gained courage until by midafternoon thousands of deliriously happy people gathered in the center of the town square, sang "La Marseillaise" and "God Save the King" at the top of their lungs, and held thousands of outstretched hands in a mass "V" salute when the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

They surrounded American vehicles in the street, plied the occupants with wine and cookies—made of recipes sadly lacking in butter and sugar—formed little processions to inspect our anti-aircraft guns, held little children up to be kissed, enthusiastically shook hands with every one who could be reached, and tried out their knowledge of English or hopefully sought Americans who could speak French.

Streets Are Jammed.

You knew how they really felt only when a girl said quietly, "We are so happy," or a woman clasping your hand fervently murmured, "Bon jour, monsieur, merci. Thank you ver' much," or a little boy who said his name was Andre insisted on giving you the only gift in his power—a tiny fresh tomato—then clambered into your jeep and refused to move from beside you until his mother left the square.

Rennes had a peace time population of 90,000, and whatever portion of that number was within Rennes today must have jammed the main streets.

A Day for Delirium.

But you would have thought to see them that nothing unpleasant had happened. It was simply that freedom from the hated Boche meant more than any material loss.

We paused opposite a police station to ask directions when we first entered the town a short while after the first troops. The police handed glasses of wine out of the windows, and a man ran out of a house and handed the men in our jeep and the one ahead of us a bottle of cider each and ran into the house again. As we drove on people shouted, clapped, and cried: "Vive l'Amerique."

A tiny impromptu parade of 11 young men and women went down the street waving a flag, and then the celebration gradually gained momentum until it was uncontrollable.

Cheers for Eisenhower.

They cheered Gen. Eisenhower's proclamation, cheered Gen. De Gaulle's representatives and cheered madly for the newsreels. Finally, boys, girls, men, and women, including a few of our soldiers, joined hands and began dancing "Ring Around a Rosy."

Toward evening the celebration in some instances took an unpleasant turn, with men and women who had collaborated with the Germans being beaten and dragged thru the streets.

Allied civil affairs in Rennes are under the direction of Lt. Col. Charles T. Johnson, 2132 Howland av., Chicago, president of Mount Greenwood cemetery. His job is to restore law and order and get the local government on a self-operating basis. Rennes has a new mayor and a new prefect as of today.

Civil affairs issued orders today forbidding the populace to possess photographic equipment, carrier pigeons, and arms, and telling them they must observe the curfew and black-out regulation. There is no food problem in Rennes, altho the town has been without sugar for a couple of months and has been rationed on meat, salt, butter, bread, and coffee.

British-Canadian Forces Advance on Caen Front.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, Aug. 7 [Monday].—American armored forces today had plunged at least 20 miles toward Paris, striking east from the line along which they had sealed off the Breton peninsula, which was rapidly being mopped up as other United States forces battled for its five major ports.

From Caen south to the suburbs of St. Nazaire, allied forces were on the move all along a 160 mile front and were ripping new holes in the Germans' tottering Normandy lines only 120 miles west of the former French capital.

At least four American columns, their spearheads sheathed in tank armor, were driving for Paris and had leaped across the Germans' Mayenne river line. They won the strategic road hubs of Mayenne, Laval, and Chateau Gontier. The first two, some 75 miles south of Caen, are on main highways to Paris, while Chateau Gontier, 17 miles south of Laval, is a junction on a Paris railway.

Threaten Whole German Front.

Advance units pushed 20 miles east of Mayenne. The American drive in this area represents a new outflanking threat to the whole German front up to the channel coast.

In general the American smash was along a line running south from Barenton, 25 miles southeast of Avranches, thru Mayenne and towns along and across the Mayenne river, to within 25 miles of Angers, which is 75 miles up the Loire river from St. Nazaire. Other forces have reached the mouth of the Loire.

As the armored spearheads burst across the Mayenne line, infantry moved in swiftly to consolidate the capture of the towns and advance the whole front.

Battle in Streets of Brest.

Tightening their grip on Brittany's strategic peninsula, American forces pushed to within 15 miles of the Loire port of Nantes. They hacked into the suburbs of St. Nazaire and Lorient. They fought the Germans in the streets of Brest, and dug into the approaches of bypassed St. Malo on the northern side of the peninsula. Altho the United States forces moved slowly against the garrison troops defending these five important Brittany ports, their early capture seemed assured. Tanks, infantry, and mobile guns were being drawn up for the sieges.

A front dispatch received here tonight said the German troops at Lorient had asked the American tank force driving on the base to accept their surrender before the battle was started.

Between St. Nazaire and Lorient, the coastal town of Vannes was captured. When the Americans arrived they found French patriot forces in control. In this same region British and Canadian destroyers sank a convoy of seven German ships attempting to flee St. Nazaire and drove another back into port.

Resistance Mostly 'Passive.'

Generally the advancing Americans are encountering resistance described as "varying but mostly passive," such as blown-up bridges, hastily laid mine fields, and snipers.

In mopping up the Rennes area, at the heart of the base of the Breton peninsula, the allies captured a first class airdrome, probably the most useful they have taken in France.

Estimates of the number of prisoners captured by the American troops since D-day, greatly expanded by the Breton mopup, rose to 84,000.

British, Canadians Gain.

British and Canadian forces yesterday advanced generally along their front between the Vire and Aunay rivers and pushed across the Orne. Their drive rolled back the German eastern flank along a 25 mile hinge of the enemy front.

Canadian troops tightened their grip on the west bank of the Orne and now hold almost all of it from the coast inland to Thury Harcourt, 14 miles southwest of Caen. They also retook May-sur-Orne and again battled into the streets of Tilly-la-Campagne. Both villages have been fought for several times in the Normandy campaign.

Between this sector and the top of the Breton peninsula, the Americans were meeting tough resistance east of Avranches, where the Germans were fighting hard against the threat of envelopment of their forces in the rear of the Caen front. Fighting raged from Mortain, east of Avranches, northeast to Vire, which still is not in allied hands altho apparently almost surrounded.

Push on in St. Sever Forest.

It is believed that the tough German resistance here is aimed to cover withdrawals on other sectors. However, allied armored units gained a stretch of ground in the forest of St. Sever, west of Vire, altho at Le Mesnil Gilbert, south of the forest, German paratroop units were holding up the American advance.

Supporting the ground troops in France, 9th air force Marauders blew up two fuel dumps near Alencon and southwest of Orleans and bombed bridges northwest of Dreux, north of Le Mans and Courtesin. The bombers, escorted by fighters, met no opposition and all returned.

German planes bombed Rennes, Pontorson and Avranches early yesterday, causing slight damage.

Nazis Caught Off Guard.

WITH U. S. FORCES IN BRITTANY, Aug. 6 (AP).—Completing a 43 mile road dash in 10 hours, American forces sped into Mayenne so fast last night that they caught the Germas flat-footed. The spectacular dash cost few casualties and netted 75 Germans captured and 25 killed.

In Mayenne the Americans found deep, well built fortifications empty and the Mayenne river bridge intact, altho it had been mined. Before his main body escaped, the enemy succeeded in destroying one secondary bridge.

In conversations with prisoners, a German speaking Texan learned that some Germans were due to reach the town by auto soon after the Americans arrived. Two staff cars and a truckload of Germans rolled in as scheduled. The occupants of the staff cars were cut down by the waiting Americans. Those in the truck surrendered.

"Then along came an elegant limousine. It careened thru a road block. One of three officers in the car was thrown out by the collision with the block, the second was killed when he jumped, and the third finally fell out of the door with both his legs cut off as American fire stopped the car. Yelling and cursing, he was carried to a first aid station by Sgt. Frank L. Doll of Chicago.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Of France, yesterday's broadcast German war bulletin said:

"The enemy again launched repeated vain thrusts south of Caen. Also in the areas northeast and west of Vire and east of Avranches strong enemy thrusts supported by tanks yielded but little success during the entire day.

"Our counter-thrusts against enemy forces are still in full swing in some sectors. Motorized enemy forces are advancing in a southeastern direction from the break-in area south of Avranches.

"Fierce battles developed near Mayenne and Laval. Very bitter fighting is also raging in Brittany for some of our strongholds. At least 57 terrorists were annihilated in fighting in the French area."

BRITISH RESORTS CROWDED WITH HOLIDAY MAKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—An August week-end holiday rivaling those of peace time was reported from several south and west coast resorts tonight. Brighton, most popular resort among Londoners, was crowded. At Southend many visitors were turned back by police.

At Torquay and Paignton scores slept in the parks or on the promenades. Scarborough officials said the rush of holiday makers was greater than on any week-end since the war began. At Seaford one beach had to be closed because of overcrowding. Fleetwood experienced one of its busiest week-ends. Bognor had 5,000 visitors. At Torquay a bus strike was threatened by overworked conductresses.

In addition to the holiday makers another 19,523 official evacuees left London in special trains to north Wales and west England. They included 1,621 unaccompanied children and 7,902 mothers and children. The next party will leave London Tuesday, as 17,500 evacuees have registered for departure in the last two days.

BRITTANY'S FALL TO SPELL DOOM FOR U-BOAT WAR

Subs' Ports to Become Key Bases for Allies.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP).—Fall of Brittany, with its U-boat nests of Brest, Lorient, and St. Nazaire, may cripple enemy submarines so badly they never again can strike efficiently and in great strength, naval officers predicted today.

Packs of U-boats now at sea must return to more distant bases for refueling and rearming, the officers said, and many allied planes and ships now patroling the Atlantic will be released for other tasks.

The value of the harbors themselves is immense. In World War I, Brest was the port most used by the Americans in pouring troops and supplies into France.

Ports May Be Wrecked.

As at Cherbourg, the Americans expect to find Brest, Lorient, St. Nazaire, and the river port of Nantes badly wrecked, but the allies have made plans well in advance to get them back into use quickly.

U-boats in these ports are expected to get a severe mauling as they try to escape. Some probably already have been destroyed. A heavy air raid preceded the American entry into Brest yesterday, with 100 R. A. F. bombers throwing down six ton factory busters in an effort to block the U-boat exits.

The Germans' major remaining French Atlantic base is Bordeaux, 190 miles southeast of St. Nazaire.

Not only will its submarine facilities be overtaxed, but German supplies must be brought over uncertain transportation routes already badly disrupted by allied bombs and French resistance forces.

Subs' Efficiency Cut.

One officer, tho warning that the U-boats are not yet whipped, said their operational efficiency had been greatly reduced.

He emphasized that the fall of Brittany also would sharply curtail the E-boats. Those swift little torpedo boats based on the Breton peninsula now must go hunting for a home far south of the battle area, altho their comrades in northern French ports remain a menace to channel shipping.

Brittany's ports will provide the allies with repair bases for all types of ships. Brest was a great French naval base, with huge repairing and shipbuilding facilities.

Planes to Get Aid, Too.

Allied air forces also will gain more than a dozen good bases.

Scores of allied planes now sweeping the Bay of Biscay area 24 hours daily in a search for U-boat packs will operate elsewhere as the situation improves.

Shipping experts hailed the capture of Brittany's harbors because gales in the future may forbid allied use of the beachheads, and Cherbourg is not large enough to handle the flood of troops and supplies waiting to pour into France.

It was because of these ports that the Germans were able to increase the tempo of the battle of the Atlantic.

Now the battle of the Atlantic seems to be nearing an end.

LT. GEN. DEWITT NAMED TO POST OF GEN. M'NAIR

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6 (AP).—The assignment of Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt to succeed Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair in an undisclosed command of great importance in Europe was announced tonight by the war department. McNair, former commander of the army ground forces, was killed in Normandy July 25 by a bomb from an American plane. He had just been given an unexplained new assignment.

Lt. Gen. John L. De Witt.

De Witt, former commanding general of the 4th army and the western defense command with headquarters at San Francisco, has been commandant of the joint army-navy staff college in Washington for 13 months. In his west coast command, he headed the mobilization of defenses of the coast after Pearl Harbor.

SWISS HINT WAR CRIMINALS WILL GET NO REFUGE

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 6 (AP).—Switzerland has restated her position of the right of political refugees to asylum here in a declaration which may parallel the allied definition of war criminals. Instructions recently to frontier guards state:

"Foreigners unworthy of asylum because of despicable acts or of their activities or attitude violating Swiss interest are in no case to be admitted."

Specific definitions of such foreigners are not given. Frontier authorities will decide minor cases; the federal council major cases.

INVASION BEACH ONE OF WORLD'S GREAT SEAPORTS

INVASION BEACH, France, Aug. 6 (AP).—In two months this sandy resort beach where the first invasion blood was shed has been converted into one of the world's greatest ports—capable of handling a bigger daily tonnage than New York.

The roar of guns has been replaced by the rumbling and grinding of hundreds of trucks, tractors, and cranes. It has more the appearance of a big construction job than anything else. It is not like any harbor you ever saw. There are no big buildings, docks, or piers. It is just a beach, half a mile wide when the tide is out, that has been turned into one of the main lifelines of the American army in France.

Supplies are being fed over it to the army thru a network of new roads engineers have cut right thru picturesque cliffs and the concrete wall that Hitler boasted was impregnable. They link with main inland highways. Trucks haul the freight directly to supply dumps in the rear, eliminating storing and congestion on the beach.

Towers Control Traffic.

The war now seems remote and far away except for a concentration of anti-aircraft batteries, but there is evidence of the bloody battle that raged here June 6, 7, and 8 in the battered Nazi gun emplacements, rows of wrecked houses and a dust coated sign marking the site of the first American landings.

Both water and land traffic is controled from towers similar to those used by air ports to direct plane traffic. The work goes on 24 hours a day. During darkness communications are maintained over walkie-talkies.

Big freighters unload their cargo into ducks, landing craft and barges. The crows nest is constructed on top of the concrete foundation of a German 88 mm. gun.

Berwyn Man in Tower.

In the tower were Lt. Col. Jacob Mottorn of Punxsutawney, Pa., commander of one of the combat engineer beach groups that handles the transfer of the cargo from the ships to inland supply dumps, and two of his assistants, Lt. Anton Pristo of Berwyn, Ill., and Lt. Harold Olin of Ashland, O. The three of them came in early on D-day.

"Eighty-two men from my brigade were killed or wounded that day," Mottorn said.

In another control tower was Capt. Gilbert R. Butts of Omaha, Neb., who directs truck traffic. His assistant, Corp. Ralph M. Richie of Akron, O., barks out orders over a loudspeaker to the trucks and ducks which form a continuous chain to and from the ships to the rear.

Reds Hail Yanks' Drive in France as Top War News

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 (AP).—Moscow today hailed the American breakthru in Brittany as the best foreign news in weeks. Soviet newspapers published a detailed account and maps of the accomplishment. The performance in the west, along with similar operations by the Russian armies in the east, is the quickest way of bringing the war to a close, it was said.

CAPTURED NAZI ARMS REVEAL HIGH QUALITY

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

CHERBOURG, Normandy, Aug. 4 [Delayed].—Captured enemy weapons examined by a United States ordnance technical intelligence unit here have been uniformly of high quality. There was no evidence of any lack of critical raw materials. The steel alloy content and construction of most of the Nazi guns were described as on a par with allied equipment.

Maj. Gen. Henry B. Sayler, ordnance chief in the European theater of operations, said an 8.8 centimeter [3.4 inch] rocket gun with a breach had been captured. None had been seen in this theater. Another piece is a 17 centimeter [6.6 inch] beach defense gun with an ingenious mechanical range computing system. A paratrooper's automatic rifle is still another unusual arm. Other trophies include 65 new types of ammunition, a field gun manufactured in 1940 by Krupps' subsidiary in Brazil, Russian, French, Belgian, and Czechoslovak guns, midget tanks, and half tank motorcycles.

A volkswagen, German equivalent of a jeep, had no counter-weights on its crankshaft. Vertically opposed cylinders may be the compensating factor.

HITLER APPEALS FOR BLIND FAITH AND FIGHT TO END

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The army officers who tried to assassinate him were "small in number but of considerable influence," Adolf Hitler told Reich leaders and gauleiters whom he received at his headquarters on Friday, according to a German news agency broadcast today.

Hitler asserted "these traitors" had been saboteurs ever since the Nazis came into power and had increased their resistance to "open treachery against the fighting troops." The overwhelming majority among the German officers, he added, had nothing in common with "this criminal gang."

Asks Blind Confidence.

"I am not afraid of fighting with external enemies," declared Hitler, "for at the end we will finish with them all the same. All I need is the conviction that in the rear there is absolutely blind confidence and faithful collaboration."

He asserted that "mobilization of all the force of our people could not have been undertaken if the criminal dealings of the eliminated saboteurs had continued."

Thanking fate for leaving him alive, Hitler said:

"I believe the nation needs me because it needs a man who will not capitulate in any circumstances but will continue to bear the flag of faith and confidence, and I believe no other person could do it better than myself.

"I have been filled with confidence by the events of July 20 [the day he was bombed] as never before. Therefore we shall emerge victorious at the end of the war."

Reported in Fine Health.

Reichsleiter Gen. Ritter von Epp, spokesman for the Nazi party leadership, said Hitler was in excellent health and fit for work.

Joseph Terboven, German commissioner for Norway, said on the Oslo radio today that the officers expelled from the army in connection with the attempted assassination of Hitler probably would go to trial on Tuesday in the People's court, which has been set up by Hitler to hear the cases. He asserted July 20 was a turning point in the war as it marked "the birth of the National Socialist People's army."

"Now everything not serving the war effort will be closed down," Terboven continued. "While division after division is leaving for the fronts, hundreds of thousands of German men will flock into barracks for training. Still more hundreds of thousands of men and women will take their places in munitions factories. The war potential has not been reduced by the enemy's bombing terror but has been stepped up.

Arms Output Stepped Up.

"We are not only about to catch up with the enemy's technical developments; we shall even overtake them."

He said German armament production, from small arms to the heaviest guns, reached the highest level in July since the outbreak of war. He said the V-1 [flying bomb] was only the beginning of other V weapons only waiting Hitler's orders. Terboven asserted the Germans "have only one desire—retaliation against Britain until London—nay, even the whole of England, is laid waste."

13 GERMAN DIVISIONS REPORTED THOROLY ELIMINATED IN FRANCE

ON THE BRITISH FRONT, Normandy, Aug. 6 (AP).—Thirteen German divisions already have been "thoroly eliminated" in France, a senior British staff officer said tonight, and "the next two or three weeks may be the most critical of any time of the war for Germany." He said about 22 Nazi divisions are facing the British and American armies in France, but may be forced to withdraw inside Germany for a final stand.

The officer, one of Gen. Montgomery's senior staff officers, hailed the "tremendous victory of the American army" in sweeping across Brittany, and said:

"I cannot see the Germans holding a Siegfried line on the west with the Russians pounding against them on the east. I don't think it possible for Germany to hold out under those circumstances. It is very difficult to see how the German can stay here and fight with any hope of success. The extremely exhilarating display by the Americans has badly shaken and demoralized the German 7th army."

France Battle Can Be Last Round: Gen. Somervell

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell said in a radio address tonight that "the battle in France tonight can well be the last round." The commanding general of the army service forces cautioned, however, that to prevent the Nazis from getting their second wind there must be increased production of the "brass knuckles with which to finish off the job."

NEW RED ARMY TAKES POLAND'S BIGGEST OIL HUB

Russians Drive 8 Miles Toward E. Prussia.

LONDON, Aug. 7 [Monday]—(AP).—An eleventh soviet army, joining Russia's offensive, struck a blow at Germany's fuel supplies yesterday by capturing Drohobycz, pre-war Poland's largest oil center.

Other soviet forces striking toward Krakow, last big bastion before Germany itself, appeared to have trapped another German force in the San-Vistula river triangle, and on the front opposite German East Prussia the Russians smashed eight miles thru Nazi lines beyond the Dubissa river.

Premier Stalin announced the storming of Drohobycz by the 4th Ukraine army led by Col. Gen. Ivan Petrov, co-defender of Sevastopol in 1941-'42.

City Once Bombed by U. S.

Drohobycz is in the part of Galicia annexed by Russia in the 1939 portion of Poland, and was the target of American shuttle bombers last June 27.

[Figures compiled by the United States bureau of mines indicated that Poland's oil production in 1941 was about 3,300,000 42 gallon barrels. This was approximately one-twelfth of the probable production of Romania, which had supplied about one-fourth of Germany's war petroleum needs, according to figures obtained by Sam Brewer, correspondent in Turkey for THE TRIBUNE. These figures indicate the Polish fields could have supplied about 3 per cent of Germany's needs.]

Petrov's army raised to 11 the number now attacking on the eastern front. Other armies are poised toward Romania. German broadcasts for the second time in a week told of Nazi air attacks on Odessa, Black sea port, suggesting that Russian ships might be gathering there for a strike at Romania.

Smash Toward Tilsit.

Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's 3d White Russian army, attacking northwest of Kaunas, Lithuania, forced the Dubissa river in the Airogola sector and captured 30 localities on a 12 mile front. This force was striking above the Niemen river in an apparent drive toward Tilsit, railway center, and the Baltic seaport of Memel.

South of the Niemen river the Russians were drawn up from five to 25 miles from the East Prussian border and admittedly were meeting terrific resistance from fresh German troops. Thousands of Russian planes still were hammering targets inside East Prussia.

The midnight soviet bulletin said "steady reinforcements" were arriving in the Virbalis sector, where Russian troops were only several miles from East Prussia on the main Kaunas-Konigsberg road.

Bitter Fight East of Warsaw.

German stubbornness also was apparent in battles raging east of Warsaw, Polish capital. Moscow's bulletin did not mention this sector. The German high command bulletin, however, claimed that the 3d soviet tank corps had been trapped and wiped out after several days of fierce fighting.

Inside besieged Warsaw Polish underground forces were still fighting, according to a message released here by the Polish government. Altho short of ammunition, the patriots were said to have seized several buildings in the northwestern part of Warsaw, including the Polytechnic institute. A German barracks in the ghetto district of west central Warsaw also was seized, the Poles said.

Gen. Bor, the underground leader, said "wanton killing of civilians taken from their homes by the Germans increases."

Reds Gain at River Pocket.

Russians in the San-Vistula triangle, more than 100 miles south of Warsaw, have cleared the Germans from a 14 mile stretch of the Vistula's east bank between the mouth of the San and Tarnobrzeg, the Moscow bulletin said.

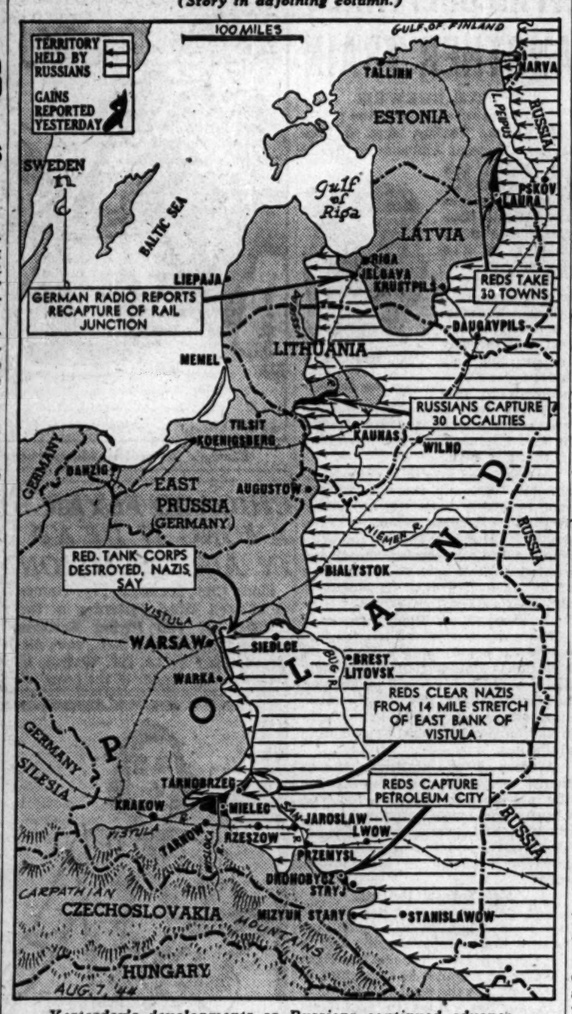

A body of German troops appears to have been trapped between Tarnobrzeg and Wojkow in a 66 square mile area extending into the triangle from Baranow.

BATTLE TO SAVE ROBOTS' VICTIMS IN LONDON DEBRIS

Bombers Smash 56 Flying Bomb Depots.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP). — Flying bombs exploded intermittently today in London and southern England as rescuers dug the dead and injured out of last night's debris and the air ministry announced that 56 flying bomb storage depots in northern France had been destroyed and 44 heavily damaged in recent heavy bomber counter-assaults.

As the American 8th air force for the third straight day hammered Germany with more than 1,000 heavy bombers, the best the Germans could do with their robots was sporadic cross-channel fire.

Long Lulls in Attacks.

This was punctuated by fairly long lulls and strong combat by fighter patrols and anti-aircraft fire.

Today's incidents did not compare with last night's attacks when a bomb, which fell in southern England, caught several villagers working in their gardens, killing 11 and trapping others in smashed houses. There were many other incidents during the night which caused multiple deaths.

Nazis Tighten Defense.

In bright weather over the straits defenders had a good score today against the robots.

The air ministry, detailing results of the recent heavy assaults on rocket and robot bomb installations and depots, said Nazi fighter planes were appearing in increased strength to resist the allied attacks and that the Germans have erected flak towers to help defend the depots.

R. A. F. Lancasters, attacking a robot depot north of Paris during the day, beat off 20 to 30 German fighters.

Nazi General Killed on West Europe Front

New York, Aug. 6 (AP).—DNB, German news agency, broadcast today that Maj. Gen. Rudolf Stegman, 50, a German commander on the western European front, had been killed in action.

YANKEE MAJOR BAGS 6 GERMAN PLANES IN SINGLE AERIAL BATTLE

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP).—Maj. George E. Preddy of Greensboro, N. C., today reported he shot down six enemy fighter planes in a few minutes of fast action near Hamburg, a feat seldom equaled in this war. The 8th air force Mustang fighter's record rose to 24½ in the air and six on the ground, sending him close to the top of the allied aces. Flying as a group commander, Preddy attacked 30 ME-109s heading for a heavy bomber force.

"The 109s were flying a tight formation at 28,000 feet," he said. "I guess they figured their top cover would take care of me, for they didn't waver from their course. I closed right into the pack and shot down five in less than five minutes. Then I got on the tail of the sixth and chased him down to 5,000 feet. The first five never had a chance and none fired a shot at me but this guy gave me a real dogfight. I finally caught him smack in the fuselage just below the cockpit."

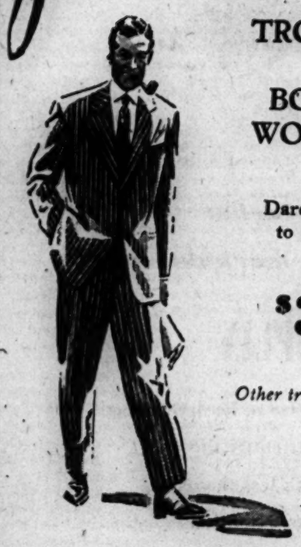

Preddy's other multiple scores for one day include a double, triple, and quadruple. He holds the silver star, the distinguished flying cross with four clusters, and the air medal with three clusters. He formerly fought from Australia.

Lt. Robert Doseff, 25, Wounded, Parents Hear

Dr. and Mrs. Dosu Doseff, 200 N. Menard av., were notified by the war department yesterday that their son, Lt. Robert Doseff, 25, was wounded in action July 15 in Italy. Lt. Doseff, who was among the first officers on the Cassino front to make contact with the Anzio beach forces, was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1942. He had been overseas since August, 1942, and was attached to a tank destroyer unit.

YANKS TAKE TWO TOWNS IN 2 MILE GUAM ADVANCE

All Will Be Given Chance to Cast Votes.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., PEARL HARBOR, Aug. 6 (AP).—Continuing their steady progress northward, American forces on Guam destroyed several strong Japanese defensive positions and captured two towns yesterday, Adm. Nimitz, Pacific commander, announced today.

The Yanks now control three-quarters of the island, the bulletin said. Fighters of the marine aircraft wing are operating from captured Orote airdrome.

On the west flank, the Americans advanced more than two miles and occupied the towns of Ukudu and Liguan, five miles northeast of Agana. The marines have pushed almost to Haputo point. The bulletin reported no substantial changes on the east flank, where American positions are near Lumuna point.

Nimitz also announced army and navy aerial strikes against by-passed Marshall Islands, and against Wake and Ponape.

TROOPS GET VOTE CARDS

BY AL DOPKING.
[Representing the Combined American Press.]

ABOARD REAR ADM. CONNOLLY'S FLAGSHIP, Guam, Aug. 6 (AP).—As marines and doughboys wiped out small bands of Japanese and drew a noose tighter about the enemy on Guam they had an example of democracy—the right to vote—shaping up behind their own battle lines.

Officers are passing out to them preliminary cards which they may fill out and return to their own states if they want to cast a ballot in the forthcoming elections. Marine Col. William J. Scheyer of Fredericksburg, Va., personnel officer of the 3d amphibious corps, said even fighters at the front would be given time out to fill out the cards.

As this American activity goes on the Yanks are pressing ahead thru undergrowth so dense that in some parts tanks are hardly detectable 15 feet away.

8,000 Japs Buried.

Marine Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, commanding the Guam campaign, is moving men forward over this wild country methodically and is affording the Japanese slight respite.

Gen. Geiger declined to speculate when the last Japanese resistance on the island would be broken, but with both air fields and all important installations and towns in United States hands there can be no doubt of the outcome. What Japanese are left—more than 8,000 already have been buried by Americans—are fighting delaying actions while their territory grows smaller and smaller and only one height, 700 foot Mount Santa Rosa on the east coast, is still in their hands.

Thirty Japs Wiped Out.

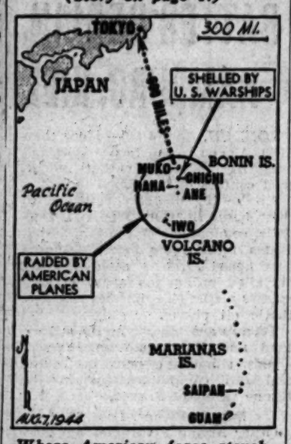

The Japanese are throwing up roadblocks and battling from hastily constructed pillboxes, but are being cleaned out with slight loss to American troops.

Thirty Japanese rushed the 3d marine division line in a fanatical night attack which ended with the enemy fleeing in more confusion than when he arrived. Nearly half of the Japanese were left dead.

Reconstruction of housing accommodations has begun but it promises to be a long job with all buildings wrecked.

VONPAPEN, AGAIN A FAILURE, TAKES ANOTHER TRAIN

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 4 [Delayed].—German Ambassador Franz von Papen left Ankara on the Istanbul express tonight and thus closed one more chapter in his devious career.

Franz von Papen.

Von Papen, who organized sabotage in America during the last war, undermined Austria's independent government to prepare the way for anschluss, and was commissioned to lead Turkey in Nazi Germany's wake, has failed in this last task.

He has failed also in his cherished ambition of being the man on the spot to dicker with the allies and eventually become Germany's Badoglio. [Marshal Pietro Badoglio was the Italian premier who signed armistice terms with the allies soon after the overthrowal of Mussolini and Italy's Fascist government.]

Tears Mark Departure.

There are few places left for him where he could carry out such an ambition. Unless sent to Sweden, Spain, or Lisbon, he will be shut up in Nazi territory, and if he escapes suppression by the Nazis he still won't have scope for intrigue with the allies.

A score of axis diplomats and as many Germans clustered around the private car provided for Von Papen, who was accompanied by six men and two women. Dapper as ever, the old fox of German diplomacy managed to look unconcerned.

Met Several Defeats.

Von Papen was sent here as the war loomed in 1939 to keep Turkey neutral if he couldn't swing her to the German side. He lost the fight for chrome supplies so important to Germany, lost the fight to allow German auxiliary ships to pass from the Black sea to the Aegean sea thru the straits, and finally Wednesday lost even the right to keep his embassy here.

Von Papen clung to the hope for a compromise peace. People who knew him were convinced he was personally ambitious to be Germany's Badoglio so he could float to the surface again as the rest of Germany's leaders sank in defeat.

Future Fate Problematical.

Von Papen's ambitions are well known to the Nazis, and it was believed he was tolerated only because of his alleged influence with the Turks, particularly former Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu, and because he was a possible lifeline for a last attempt to negotiate with the allies if all else crashed.

A regular nightly blackout of Istanbul will begin Monday, it was announced officially tonight, as a precautionary step following on Turkey's severance of relations with Germany.

HINT B-29 BASE MAY BE SHIFTED TO SAIPAN FIELD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6 (AP).—A hint that the major base of B-29 Super Fortress operations again Japan may be shifted to the Marianas soon came today from two high air officers. Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the Super Fortresses as well as chief of army air forces, said or the army hour program of NBC: "At the moment the B-29s are operating against the enemy from China."

This indication that the operations will become only a part of a strategic air war directed at the enemy from several quarters was implemented by remarks of Brig. Gen. Robert W. Douglass Jr., commander of the 7th air force, with headquarters at Hawaii.

"Our aviation engineers are racing to build huge bases in the Marianas that threaten the very gates of Tokyo," he said. "Today Saipan is one of our most important and busiest bases in the Pacific."

CHICAGO GUNNER HELPS CLEAN UP SAIPAN VILLAGE

SAIPAN — [Delayed].—A Chicago tank gunner helped to clean out a Japanese village of three houses and one store. Corp. George L. Mazarakos, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hronopolos of 735 Wrightwood av., Chicago, Ill., a bow gunner, said four tanks shelled the houses, harboring Japanese soldiers, and claimed a total of 150 Japs. Earlier, his tank rescued the crew of a vehicle which had been knocked out by enemy fire.

Marine 2d Lt. Leonard W. Catugno, 23, of 6503 S. Claremont av., Chicago, mortar commander of a platoon, offered high praise for his men, despite losses they suffered.

"Shorthanded as they were, they were dropping fire practically pinpointed within 25 yards of the front lines of one of my platoons on D-night," he said.

JAPS THREATEN TWO SOUTHERN CHINESE TOWNS

New Drive Bursts Out of Luichow Peninsula.

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 6 (AP).—Japanese forces in a new drive in southwestern Kwangtung province have burst out of Hoiheng [Luichow] peninsula and are threatening their apparent immediate objectives of Limkong and Fahsien, the Chinese high command announced today.

The attack was launched in two directions, to the northeast and northwest, against Chinese positions just across the strait from the Japanese held island of Hainan.

The high command bulletin also announced that fighting is raging along the entire Hengyang front, which indicated the Japanese were making determined attempts to storm the defiant city, as Chinese forces still were trying to smash the enemy's encircling ring.

Penetrate Suburb.

One enemy column infiltrated into a southwestern suburb of the city, the bulletin said, but most of the attackers were annihilated and the remainder driven out.

Some Chinese saw in the Japanese move in the Luichow peninsula a diversionary move intended to prevent further Chinese reenforcement of positions threatened by the Japanese offensive in Hunan province.

Others said the operations might be the start of a drive on Luichow, junction of the Hunan-Kwangsi and Kwangsi-Kwelchow railways. Such an operation, if successful, would neutralize the value of Kweilin, provisional capital of Kwangsi, as an allied base and threaten it with attack from the rear.

May Abandon Railway.

Another view was that the Japanese merely were engaged in mopping up operations to secure their positions in the peninsula.

Chinese have become inclined to believe the Japanese might abandon their plan to conquer the entire Canton-Hankow railway on account of the unexpectedly stubborn resistance of the Hengyang defenders and the growing severity of the attacks of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's planes on their communications in Hunan.

M'ARTHUR CUTS SUPPLY ROUTE TO JAPS IN GUINEA

Threatens to Isolate Foe Near Aitape.

GENERAL HDQ., Southwest Pacific, Aug. 7 [Monday]—(AP).—American troops in British New Guinea have cut the main enemy supply route to the Driniumor front, headquarters announced today.

Gen. MacArthur said the American maneuver threatened to isolate an enemy force in the inland area around Afua village. An additional 526 enemy dead have been counted along the Driniumor river battle lines 17 miles east of Aitape.

The total of Japanese dead since renewal of activity July 12 in the Wewak-Aitape sector now stands at 5,935.

Today's bulletin observed:

"The total of counted dead includes only those abandoned outside his lines. The usual conservative ratio of dead to wounded would increase his losses to 9,000 to 12,000. This estimate does not include losses on his lines of communications, where 20,000 men of his total force are constantly subjected to intense daily air and naval bombardment."

Landing Surprised Japs.

Headquarters disclosed that prisoners of war reported that the recent American landings at Sansapor, on the northwest tip of Dutch New Guinea, 700 miles west of the Aitape area, caught the Japanese by surprise.

The prisoners said an American attack upon Manokwari, 150 miles east of Sansapor, had been anticipated, and the by-passing move caught the Japanese off guard.

Attack Enemy Convoy.

A headquarters spokesman said the landing confused the Japanese second army in the Geelvink bay area of Dutch New Guinea and left the enemy forces "in a state bordering on demoralization."

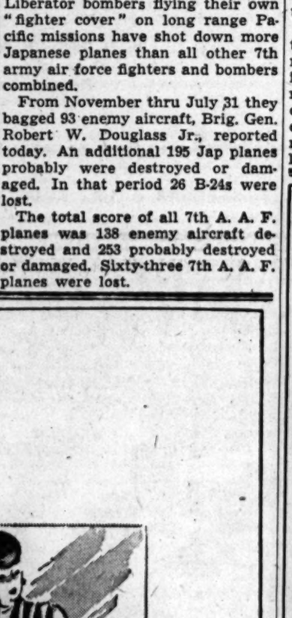

"When maneuver and surprise were employed rather than direct assault, and the enemy's defenses were by-passed and enveloped by the unsuspected landing at Sansapor, his main coastal communications were cut and he has been thrown back upon the jungle in his effort to extricate himself," said MacArthur's bulletin.

"This operation, which can now be regarded as completed, was accomplished with very small forces and involved only a handful of casualties."

Allied bombers attacked a Japanese convoy near Amboina in the Netherlands East Indies Saturday, sinking a 1,000 ton freighter and damaging two others.

B-24S BLAST 288 ENEMY PLANES IN 'SOLO' RAIDS

SEVENTH U. S. AIR FORCE HDQ., Central Pacific, Aug. 6 (AP).—Liberator bombers flying their own "fighter cover" on long range Pacific missions have shot down more Japanese planes than all other 7th army air force fighters and bombers combined.

From November thru July 31 they bagged 93 enemy aircraft, Brig. Gen. Robert W. Douglass Jr., reported today. An additional 195 Jap planes probably were destroyed or damaged. In that period 26 B-24s were lost.

The total score of all 7th A. A. F. planes was 138 enemy aircraft destroyed and 253 probably destroyed or damaged. Sixty-three 7th A. A. F. planes were lost.

CHINESE SCALE ANCIENT WALLS, ENTER JAP BASE

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 6 (AP).—Chinese troops have occupied the inner defenses of Tengchung, main objective of the Salween offensive and key to a junction with Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Burma forces, after scaling the centuries-old walls of the city with ladders and using flame-throwers to cut their way forward.

The Chinese also swarmed thru gaps punched in the 15-foot thick walls of the town by skip-bombing B-25s of the United States 14th air force. The medium bombers, coming in at tree-top height, sent delayed skip bombs hurtling at the base of the city wall, blowing skyward massive rocks which had been in place since the days of Marco Polo.

2,000 Japs in City.

The story of the Chinese entry into Tengchung was reported from the headquarters of Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn of the American "Y-force" operations staff, and said savage fighting was in progress inside the city as 2,000 beleaguered Japanese desperately tried to fight their way out.

After repeated Japanese failures to break out, Chinese renewed their assault and swarmed into the city. The operations were observed by hundreds of Chinese villagers from posts on the hills around the city.

Fight Hand to Hand.

Gen. Dorn's headquarters said the Chinese penetration into Tengchung was made possible by the coöperation of the 14th air force and American observation officers in tiny liaison planes, directing artillery fire by radio. Hand-to-hand fighting developed.

Many of the wounded were carried by stretcher three miles back to an old Buddhist temple where Americans had set up a portable hospital.

Tengchung is 70 miles from fallen Myitkyina in Burma.

Imperials Capture Tamu.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 6 (AP).—Allied troops driving the Japanese out of India have captured Tamu and crossed the Burma frontier from Manipur state, a bulletin from Adm. Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

It said Japanese resistance in Tamu collapsed Aug. 4 and that large numbers of dead Japanese were found in the wreckage of the town. Some prisoners were captured.

British imperials advancing along the Tiddim road now are about 50 miles south of Imphal, allied base in Manipur from which the Japanese are back pedalling. Northeast of Imphal the British also have driven the Japanese back into the mountain exits to the Chindwin valley in Burma.

FLYING 'APACHE' OF CHAMPAIGN 'SCALPS' A BOAT

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AN ADVANCED SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AIR BASE, Aug. 6.—Capt. Max Mortensen of Champaign, Ill., is the most veteran airman in the Air Apaches, a Mitchell bomber outfit. After 16 months of combat flying, he stopped counting his missions when he passed 80 and his flying time after 400 hours.

He tells all sorts of exciting stories—about having his bomb bay blown up over Rabaul, New Britain; coming in on one engine, and causing no end of trouble for the Japanese.

Today Max went on a strafing and bombing mission up in the Halmaheras. The Japs fired back but didn't hit him. For him it was a dull day and he started home disappointed. Then he saw a nice Japanese sailboat. He never had tackled a sailboat; this was going to be fun.

Then Max remembered he was out of ammunition and bombs, so he put his B-25 into a dive until it barely skimmed the water. Straight into the boat he dashed. Debris, chopped fine by the whirling propellors, flew everywhere.

Max came home happy.

WITH U. S. FORCES ON GUAM, Aug. 2 [Delayed]—(AP) via navy radio].—The Marines, who garrisoned Guam before the United States Marianas Islands outpost fell to the Japanese in December, 1941, have become interested in the restoration of normalcy here, particularly in financial circles.

In the old marine barracks on Orote peninsula, they found the prewar marine recreational fund of $24 in a cigar box and two war bonds belonging to a marine's wife.

Next they retrieved a bank book showing the marine fund had a balance of $604 in the Bank of Guam.

MOSCOW TALKS BEGUN BY RIVAL POLISH GROUPS

Confer for Four Hours; Meet Again Today.

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 (AP).—The Polish national committee of liberation and Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the Polish government in London took the first step toward Polish unity today with a conference that lasted more than four hours and will be resumed tomorrow.

Premier Mikolajczyk

Meeting in the former Polish embassy, the exiled government, represented by Mikolajczyk and Tadeusz Romer, foreign minister, discussed reconciliation terms with the committee's president, Edward Boreslav Osubka-Morawski; Wincenty Witos and Wanda Wasilewska, vice presidents, and the committee's defense chief, Gen. Mihail Rolia Zymierski, who flew here yesterday from the temporary capital of Chelm.

Hope of Accord Raised.

The negotiations were understood to have ranged over the widest aspects of their problems and the fact that they set the earliest possible time for the next meeting was considered a hopeful sign.

The American and British embassies kept in close touch with Mikolajczyk's mission. The soviet government's attitude, made plain at last week's Stalin-Mikolajczyk conference, is to let the Poles try a direct settlement of their differences.

Mikolajczyk declined to comment and committee leaders have been inaccessible to American correspondents.

Mikolajczyk was understood to have been greeted cordially by his old acquaintances, Witos and Zymierski. One of the premier's intimates said later that what happened at the meeting "would make two chapters in any Polish book."

SEE REDS DICTATING

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Recent attacks by the Russian press on the Polish government in London headed by Premier Mikolajczyk are interpreted here as an indication of soviet officials' determination to deal only on their own terms with the group recognized by the United States and Britain. It appears that Russia is bent on negotiating with the Polish government of its own choosing, which has shown itself agreeable to soviet territorial demands.

This is the so-called committee of national liberation, whose stock has been boosted in Russian newspapers. At the same time these papers have assailed the Mikolajczyk government, which has demanded a Polish liberation based on the 1939 frontiers.

The allies' recognition of the London Polish government has been regarded as a guarantee of Polish territorial integrity.

Tito Case Recalled.

Should the Russians maintain what appears to be their position, it will mean that they have dictated, and again made stick, their appointees as heads of a government opposed to governments acceptable to the United States and Britain. The Russian choice of Tito as leader of the Yugoslav government was such a case.

It is understood here that Premier Mikolajczyk and Premier Stalin discussed only military problems. They talked of the Polish underground army, which is fighting inside Warsaw, and Mikolajczyk is said to have insisted that these forces were bound to obey the orders of the government in exile in London while standing ready to coöperate with the soviet forces.

ITALIAN LABOR ASKS CITIES BE REBUILT TO END UNEMPLOYMENT

ROME, Aug. 6 (AP).—Representatives of the general confederation of Italian labor appealed today to Giovanni Gronchi, minister of industry, commerce, and labor, for urgent, immediate measures to relieve unemployment in liberated Italy.

The representatives asserted the real solution of the problem lay in sponsoring public and private works for reconstruction of devastated villages and cities, but that if the government delayed starting such works their organization would be forced to demand exceptional provision 'to guarantee unemployed the elementary right to existence."

They also said salaried workers, particularly in Rome, were in a deplorable situation because of the cost of living. Gronchi said he recognized the gravity of the situation and that his ministry was planning to re-activate those industries at least able to operate on a reduced scale.

LT. KRICHBAUM WINS HIS 2D OAK LEAF CLUSTER

Lt. Milo D. Krichbaum, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Krichbaum, 9401 Longwood dr., has been awarded his second oak leaf cluster to the silver star for gallantry in action in Italy, the army announced yesterday. The award was presented to him by Maj. Gen. Robert L. Spragins at a review in his honor at Fort Benning, Ga.

A graduate of Morgan Park Military academy in 1937, Lt. Krichbaum was commissioned in September, 1940, and fought in the Tunisian campaign. He won the silver star at the Cassino front and his first cluster for gallantry on the Anzio beachhead.

His second cluster award was for his gallantry on June 24, 1944, when, his citation stated, he "exposed himself to enemy artillery, tank, machine gun, and small arms fire to lead his company in an attack on an important crossroad along the fighting front in southern Italy."

REPORTS $1,000 RING LOST.

Mrs. Robert Belmont of 5480 Cornell av. yesterday reported the loss of her $1,000 wedding ring from a dresser drawer in her bedroom. The ring has 36 diamonds.

This recorder, who has spent many years of his life in hotel rooms from coast to coast, has considerable sympathy for hotel management in these dislocated days. We at Schenley, because we have distilleries in a number of states and sizable wine interests on the Pacific Coast, in California, normally do a lot of traveling. And we, like other American industrials whose businesses have "gone to war," nevertheless now travel only when it is absolutely necessary. American hotels, the world's finest, have become, in effect, the quartermaster corps of the army of essential travellers.

One prominent hotel man made an analysis of his business for the past year. His records reveal that of the many thousands of men and women accommodated in the preceding twelve months, seven out of ten were in uniform or engaged in a branch of vital war work. This single record is quite general among hotels. All over the nation, in spite of drastic shortages of trained manpower, materials, and replacements, hotels have a mighty fine wartime record.

Remember before the war how we wrote or wired to a hotel for a reservation? We'd ask for a high-up room, or one with cross-ventilation or southern exposure, and we'd state the day of our arrival. Well, that doesn't go now.

Today, if we find it necessary to travel, the hotels need know the hour of our arrival, not merely the day. And, they would like to know, too, the hour that we expect to leave so that somebody who is waiting patiently or otherwise, for a room, can get ours. We can save time, energy, and tempers, if in making a hotel reservation, we are thoroughly specific in stating as much information as possible that will assist the hotel manager in taking care of an overload in these critical times. And we mustn't forget to cancel the reservation immediately if we change our plans. An idle hotel room today is a luxury that America cannot afford. Prompt cancellation may enable another soldier, sailor, or marine, to enjoy a good night's sleep.

NAZI ARTILLERY POURS SHELLS IN SOUTH FLORENCE

ROME, Italy, Aug. 6 (AP). — Bullets whistled thru the streets of Florence today and the Germans, despite promises to respect the Tuscan art center as an open city, poured heavy artillery fire into the southern sections where the British 8th army is deployed.

[The London raido said "Florence is virtually in our hands," with the city something of a No-Man's land. The broadcast said South African troops had thrown pontoon bridges across the Arno river to replace those destroyed in the city by the Germans.]

Allied headquarters said British artillery had not been turned against the northern district, containing the bulk of Florence's art treasures. Strong German forces have staken a stand there.

On both sides of Florence the 8th army planted itself along the Arno river, and the position of German forces still south of the river was considered untenable.

River Has Wide Bed.

The Arno's bed from Florence westward is from 250 to 600 feet wide. Within Pisa and Florence the river flows between masonry banks about 20 feet high. The flow is reduced in summer and the stream shrinks at points to a width of 40 feet.

Small arms fire was exchanged inside Florence across the Arno. Most of the shooting came from buildings demolished near Ponte Vecchio. Only this span, of six historic bridges in the city, was not destroyed by the Germans.

Adriatic Nazis Pull Back.

On the Adriatic end of the Italian front, the Germans were drawing back toward Rimini, the eastern coastal anchor of their Gothic line, with Polish troops in pursuit. The Poles captured the villages of Brugnetto, Monte di Ripe, and San Vito, two to three miles beyond the Misa river and about 40 miles south of Rimini. They also took Cavallari, Scapezzano, and Roncitelli.

The British sent patrols into Empoli, 15 miles west of Florence. From Florence westward to the sea the stage was being set for the battle of the Arno.

Yank Patrols Out.

On the western end of the river line, American patrols crossed the stream and probed enemy positions. A German patrol trying to infiltrate American positions was wiped out. The Germans were firing on the southern sections of Pisa.

Eighth army units straightening the line between Florence and the Adriatic seized Bibbiano, in the upper Arno river valley about 27 miles east of Florence, and near-by Monte Grillo.

Farther east, Alpe di Catenaia and Monte Altuccia fell to the 8th army after sharp fighting.

[Berlin's broadcast war bulletin yesterday said: "The enemy made reconnoitering thrusts toward the entire Arno sector. An attempt to cross the Arno south of Florence was foiled by artillery. The enemy achieved a local breach north of Arezzo, but was repulsed in a counter-thrust."]

CAPT. HARRISON TELLS OF DRAKE MURDER SCENE

Criminologist Describes Mrs. Williams' Room.

vanity table of deep cream color. On the night of the shooting, Mrs. Williams had an assortment of costly cosmetics, ash trays, and a panel of family portraits on the top of the table. The vanity drawer contained only her personal keys.

To the right of the desk is a green lounging chair, and behind it, a standard floor lamp. To the left of the vanity table stands a regulation hotel writing desk, with desk lamp, white enameled arm chair, and waste basket.

Now let us move farther into the room. On the right center of the east wall are two glass top dressers, a wall mirror centered above and between them. On Jan. 19 the drawers were filled with lingerie and other apparel. On top were pictures of relatives.

Twin Beds and Dressers.

Against the west wall and opposite the twin dressers are the twin beds, and between them, at the heads of the beds, 2½ feet apart, a small telephone stand, lamp, and telephone. Against the west wall, and at the southern side of the southernmost bed, was a luggage stand.

We have now examined the north, east, and west walls, and the center of the room which, of course, is occupied by the beds; we get then to the south wall. This wall is broken by a three mirrored door closet, 11 feet long, 2 feet 5 inches deep and ceiling high. The door mirrors are almost full length. This closet held most of Mrs. Williams' wardrobe. The rack was heavy with formal gowns, street wear, a winter coat; it held, in fact, a most complete wardrobe. On the shoe rack alone 15 pairs of shoe were found. Atop a closet shelf were at least six expensive hats.

The closet does not cover the entire width of the room. To the east is the entrance to the hall or anteroom. This hall cuts thru the eastern section of the room, in the south third of the combined bedroom-bathroom. It is 11 feet, 7½ inches long, 3 feet 10 inches wide. The doorway between the bedroom and the hall is 3 feet 10 inches wide.

East Wall of Ante-Room.

I take you along the east wall of this ante-room, looking south. There is a two foot alcove, serving no purpose, and immediately south of it an interlocking space connecting with room 837. It has a door. This space served Mrs. Williams as a utility closet because room 837 was not occupied. She stored two empty suitcases in it.

At the south end of this hall, or ante-room, is the entrance door to room 836. Now we follow the east wall of the entrance and go north. Coming into the room we find on our left, on the west wall of the hall, only 12 inches inside the door, an electric switch for the hall light.

Still following this west wall, we turn left again, this time into the bathroom, the entrance of which is only three feet one inch from the entrance door. The bathroom door is 2 feet 3½ inches wide. Still moving north, we find only wall, 6 feet 3 inches of it, and we are back to the doorway between the hall and the bedroom, and back into the bedroom again.

I want you to follow me into the bathroom to scan its dimensions. It was here, you know, that Mrs. Goodbody says the killer lurked, shot at Mrs. Goodbody, ran out, and shot her mother.

This bathroom, ceiling high, is 8 feet 4½ inches long, north and south; 7 feet 10½ inches wide, east and west. Against the south wall are a radiator, towel rack, hamper, and utility table. On Jan. 19 a bag of "groceries" [oranges] lay on the table. Against the west wall are a wash basin, above it a medicine closet, and a wicker chair toilet. Against the north wall is a bathtub and shower.

The east wall is cut by the bathroom doorway, and when the door is opened, swinging inwardly into the room, it forms a triangular space in the northeast corner of the room just behind the bathtub.

Space an Important Factor.

As you will discover, that space is all important. From the end of the tub to the east wall is 2 feet 4½ inches, from the north wall to the door hinge line, 3 feet 1 inch. On the night of the shooting this space behind the door held a full size ironing board, the overall length 4 feet 9½ inches, all draped with a sheet; an electric iron on the floor, and a cord from the iron to the inner door knob.

It was there that Mrs. Goodbody said that her mother's murderer hid.

Could Mrs. Williams have had any forebodings that night? I doubt it. Did she have any enemies? We have no evidence that she did. She was rather a gay person, socially minded. She loved her life in Washington, broken now and then by travel or short visits to other cities. She was witty, she was well poised.

No doubt she had her share of egotism. She had a big bank account and, as we now know, 100 crisp $1,000 bills in a bank cache. Generally, Mrs. Williams was a high spirited person, and friendly. At the same time she was known as a gossipy woman.

It has been said that she "had an acid tongue," that she would not and did not hesitate to criticize those who disagreed with her.

Mrs. Williams possessed normal motherly attributes. I do not know how close she was to her elder daughter, Elizabeth. It is doubtless true that she more often sought the company of her younger daughter, Patricia.

Twice Married and Divorced.

Elizabeth was older and had been married and divorced twice. Her first husband was Alfred M. Stein, son of a garter manufacturer, and her second was Jerry Bernstein, an advertising man. Patricia has been married only once.

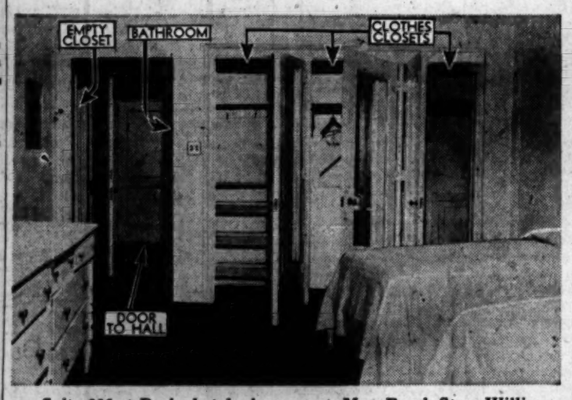

Mrs. Williams treated both daughters alike in her will. She left her estate to the girls. It was to visit with these daughters that Mrs. Williams came to Chicago. Here she visited and dined with friends and planned a tea to introduce her diplomat husband to her Chicago friends.

The mystery woman in room 836 called that off.

HARD PROBLEMS MADE EASY BY A SUPER-BRAIN

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 6 [Special].—A huge mechanical calculator capable of solving virtually any known mathematical problem will be presented tomorrow to Harvard university. It was invented by Comdr. Howard H. Aiken of the navy, associate professor of applied mathematics on leave from the Harvard graduate school of engineering.

The algebraic super-brain, which will be used by the navy, will be presented by the International Business Machine corporation. Six years of design, construction, and testing performed at the company's laboratory in Endicott, N. Y., were required to transform Comdr. Aiken's conception into a working machine.

51 Feet Long.

The apparatus, which is 51 feet long and 8 feet high, comprises 500 miles of wire, 3 million wire connections, 3,500 multiple relays with 35,000 contacts, 2,225 counters, and tiers of 72 adding machines.

Employing a unique automatic sequence control, the device is operated by a coded tape. Completely new in principle and unlike any calculator ever built, it will be used after the war to explore mathematical fields previously barred from research by excessively intricate and time consuming calculations.

It Works Rapidly.

A typical problem, solved by the machine in 19 hours, took four girl experts three weeks to compute.

The machine is the first step toward the establishment of a computation bureau which its inventor views as a consultation center for research laboratories of science and industry.

MOSCOW OBSERVERS EXPECT EARLY FINN STEP TOWARD PEACE

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 (AP).—There is reason to believe that the new Finnish government still may save itself and the Finnish people and get out of the war.

Well informed diplomats in Moscow said there was hope of Finland working out some kind of agreement with the Russians. There were indications in Moscow that the resumption of peace discussions was probable.

A foreign diplomat usually well informed on Finnish affairs said he would bet a considerable sum that under the leadership of Field Marshal Carl Gustaf Mannerheim the Finns realized the situation they were in, and perhaps within the next two weeks might take steps to accept the original terms of the Russians.

Attendance will be limited to delegates and alternates, with sightseers asked to remain at home. The meeting will be devoted to the pres- and will abandon the parades and sideplays of former years.

TRANSIT STRIKE COLLAPSES; 95% TO TAKE UP JOBS

Service Almost Normal, Says Spokesman.

Soldiers Bitter

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 6 [Special].—Soldiers sent to Philadelphia last night to break the paralyzing transportation strike were reported bitter about the situation today. One sergeant, saying he expressed the views of the majority of the soldiers now guarding buses, trolleys, subway and elevated trains thruout the city, asserted:

"Every one of us guys should be over there killing Nazis, but instead we're here in Philadelphia ready to fight a lot of mugs who may not be shooting people but still are doing a good job for the axis."

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 7 [Monday]—(AP).—Philadelphia's six day old transportation strike apparently collapsed today under the weight of drastic action by the army as a transportation company spokesman announced 95 per cent of its striking employes had signed up to restore bus, trolley, and subway service.

J. H. McMenamin.

Just before the army's 12:01 a. m. back to work deadline, the transit spokesman said service was "90 per cent of normal for a Sunday night."

Yesterday helmeted soldiers armed with rifles guarded every vehicle that moved in the city's public transportation system. The strike paralyzed the nation's third largest city, crippled war production, and caused race violence.

An ultimatum from Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, who seized the transportation company Thurday on orders of President Roosevelt and the arrest of four strike leaders on charges of violating the Smith-Connally act, broke the back of the strike last night.

Sullen and resentful, strikers straggled back today to register for work before the 12:01 a. m. Monday deadline set by Gen. Hayes.

Leader Arrested.

James H. McMenamin, leader of the general strike committee, broadcast a back-to-work appeal to the 6,000 employes, who walked out over the upgrading of eight Negroes to operating jobs, and was arrested as he left the radio studio.

Immediately arraigned, he pleaded innocent along with William C. Dixey, Frank P. Carney, and Frank Thompson. Each was held in $2,500 bail. After a night in jail, McMenamin posted bond and registered to return to work at his scheduled hour of 4:30 a. m. Monday. The others also were released on bond.

United States Commissioner Norman J. Griffin, setting hearings for Aug. 14, told the four:

"You men have given Philadelphia one of the worst weeks in its history."

Negroes to Keep Jobs.

The men returned to work knowing that they had lost the issue for which they struck. The eight Negroes who were to receive instructions as trolley car operators the day the strike began will get that instruction tomorrow, the army decreed.

Gen. Hayes issued his ultimatum —"work or be fired" without unemployment compensation or certificate of availability for the duration; Atty. Gen. Biddle ordered a grand jury investigation which was set for Wednesday; selective service, in a blunt "work or fight" action, ordered cancelation of occupational deferments for all draft age strikers: and the Smith-Connally act was invoked against the four leaders.

Human Torpedoes Hit 21 Ships in Day, Nazis Claim

New York, Aug. 6 (AP).—The German radio claimed tonight that on Thursday morning human torpedoes scored 21 hits on allied ships in the Seine bay area, sinking a British cruiser of the Fiji class. The attack cost the allies 3,400 men and 400 tanks, the announcer claimed.

COMMUNISTS AID SLAV RALLY IN BOOST OF F. D. R.

Pepper Lauds 'Chief,' Neglects Lucas.

"Mobilization day" ceremonies for Chicago Slavs took on the hue of a political rally for President Roosevelt in Pilsen park yesterday. Communist sympathizers helped promote the meeting, and the Stars and Stripes and the red banner of soviet Russia were carried side by side in the parade to the park.

Sen. Pepper of Florida, one of the most vocal exponents of the New Deal, was the chief speaker and emphasized the "commander in chief" claim in urging that President Roosevelt be given a fourth term.

Police Lt. Anton Piksa estimated the total crowd at from 5,000 to 7,000, including the regular Sunday afternoon habitues of the park at 26th st. and Albany av.

Communist Domination Charged.

Advance warning that the American Slav congress, co-sponsor of the meeting, is dominated by Communists was given by Rep. Busbey [R., Chicago], a member of the special house committee to investigate un-American activities. The American-Czech National alliance was the other sponsor.

Giant photographs of President Roosevelt and Joseph Stalin, Russian dictator, were carried in the parade, which also included tributes to Marshal Tito, Yugoslav leader who has been identified as a Communist. Less prominent attention was given to Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain. Banners asked for a permanent union of Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Russia.

Slav Groups Shun Rally.

Many paraders wore European costumes. Banners indicated that Polish, Croatian, Slovak, Czech, Ukrainian, and Russian organizations were in the line of march. Because of advance word of Communistic support, many Slavic groups declined to participate.

Pepper asked for continued Slavic support of the President and gave him complete credit for American victories.

"This time we won't, as we did a generation ago, strike down the commander in chief who won the war," said Pepper. He was referring to President Wilson. In his speech, the senator neglected to put in a good word for Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], whose 1944 election hopes had been commended in the formal address prepared in advance.

Sheriff Mulcahy, who appeared as spokesman for Mayor Kelly, also asked for election day loyalty to "our commander in chief." Democratic Committeeman John Toman of the 23d ward and Judge Otto Kerner of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals attended the meeting.

Democratic Job Holders Attend.

Leo Krzycki of Milwaukee, national president of the American Slav congress, urged that "closest friendly relations" between Russia and Poland be cemented at once and sent a message of encouragement to Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the Polish government in exile, who is now in Moscow to meet with the Polish committee on national liberation. Others on the program included John J. Cervenka and Adolf Kacer of the American-Czech National alliance.

3 CIO OFFICIALS HELD ON CHARGE OF EXTORTION

New York, Aug. 6 [Special].—Three CIO union leaders today were held in $5,000 bail each when they were arraigned in Brooklyn Felony court on charges of conspiracy and extortion growing out of an attempt to shakedown a war industry.

The defendants, Joseph Rizzo, Jerry Festa, and Rocco Laurenzano, all of Brooklyn, are officers of local 844, United Automobile Workers of America.

They were arrested yesterday on charges that they tried to extort $1,500 each in return for calling off a strike at the E. & A. Laboratories, Inc., manufacturers of gunsights.

Magistrate Charles E. Hirsimaki put the case over until Tuesday on request of the defendants' counsel.

Trix, a War Vet, Doesn't Forget One of His Tricks

Daytona Beach, Fla., Aug. 6 (AP).—Dr. and Mrs. William W. Hendricks wondered how Trix, their 3 year old Dobermann-Pinscher, would readjust himself to civilian life after 15 months as an army war dog. But Trix, after being home only a few hours, brought in the morning paper just as he used to, and in the evening, as Dr. Hendricks settled into his easy chair, Trix trotted in with his master's slippers.

Bystanders Injured in Vancouver 'Zoot' Riots

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 6 (AP).—Several bystanders were injured and 12 seamen and "zoot-suiters" are in jail following rioting in downtown Vancouver this morning. The feud between the merchant seamen and the drape-shape devotees, in progress for two weeks, broke out afresh at the seamen's manning pool.

A Switch in Time saved Mine...

Leave me out of it.

I'd rather skip any new car rush—worse than a nylon stocking sale after War. More cars have already gone out of the running than ever were built any year! How'll everybody get his new one overnight? But I've come this far with my engine OIL-PLATED, so I figure I'll be all right. I'll just keep it safely OIL-PLATED by staying with my good old friend Conoco N*th* motor oil. If you think you can beat it, okay. But remember, any engine is bound to have acids inside from every explosion. Therefore you'd risk too much grief from corrosion, as I understand, except that OIL-PLATING is made to check it. The cans of N*th* oil tell you about a modern synthetic that does the OIL-PLATING. You'd imagine it's kind of magnetized to working parts, making a protective surface to shed off acids, before the worst happens. Good thing you needn't wait for an OIL-PLATED engine; you can have that whole improvement now, using Conoco N*th* oil.

DIES ASSAILS PAC IMMUNITY IN ELECTION DRIVE

Cites Huge Funds Being Raised in Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—Rep. Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house special committee on un-American activities, today formally called on Atty. Gen. Biddle to investigate dealings of the CIO political action committee with government officials. Dies said it would be strange indeed if the PAC, with its Communist alliances, is to enjoy immunity from the law that is denied the Republican and Democratic parties.

Dies wrote Biddle that he had been authorized by a majority of his committee to make available to Biddle evidence subpenaed by the committee which involves possible violations of the Hatch act by government employes and the PAC.

Dies told Biddle that the forces now marshalled by Sidney Hillman, chairman of PAC, and Earl Browder, head of the Communist party, are using different organization names to "cloak their activities and skirt the edges of the law."

Tells of Fund Drives.

He said they now have established, in addition to the PAC, an organization called the National Citizens Political Action committee, and charged that thru it they plan to raise two funds of 3 million dollars each to support the campaign of President Roosevelt and Sen. Truman for Vice President. He asked Biddle to scrutinize the setup closely.

"One fund will be raised from CIO members and the other from citizens generally," Dies wrote. "In this case Hillman and Browder will have at their disposal, by the use of two subsidiary organizations, twice the amount permitted by law to carry on a political campaign."

The Hatch act limits to 3 million dollars the annual expenditure of any political committee.

The discovery thru study of telegrams and long distance telephone slips that showed that Sidney Hillman and his fellow officials of PAC had been in frequent contact with 77 government employes in the White House, Biddle's own department of justice and 24 other government agencies between December, 1943, and last May, was reviewed by Dies in the letter.

13 Calls for Niles.

Dies wrote that David K. Niles, administrative assistant to the President, received 13 calls. In the case of Jonathan Daniels, also administrative assistant to the President, there are six calls listed, and in the case of Vivien Adele Ford, of the foreign economic administration, there are 27, Dies said.

He asserted that while the mere fact that a government official receives a call from an individual or organization in New York is of no particular consequence, suspicion should be aroused when the calls are made by a political organization and it should be determined whether section 9 of the Hatch act has been violated. This section makes it unlawful for any officer or employe of the executive branch of the government to engage in political management or campaigns.

Particular attention was called by Dies to the case of C. B. Baldwin, former administrator of the farm security administration at $10,000 a year and now assistant chairman of PAC. He charged that Baldwin was working for PAC as early as December, 1943, but continued to draw his government salary until April 11, 1944.

W. G. STRATTON PLEDGES AID TO G. O. P. TICKET

State Treasurer William G. Stratton, whose aloofness caused Republican leaders some concern after his defeat in the April primary for the nomination as secretary of state, last night declared himself 100 per cent for Gov. Green and the entire state Republican ticket.

"I am happy to cooperate in every way," Stratton said in Springfield. "I shall do all I can to re-elect Gov. Green and the entire ticket. I am not merely saying this; I am proving it by action. I have no personal quarrel with the governor and never have had."

Plans to Join Caravan.

Stratton was reached shortly after his return from Carbondale where on Saturday he addressed a Negro Emancipation day rally, along with Arnold P. Benson, of Batavia, who with the backing of party leaders defeated Stratton for the secretary of state nomination. The treasurer said that when the fall campaign gets under way he expects to join one of the caravans touring the state in the interest of Gov. Green and the other candidates.

The supposed estrangement grew out of party leaders' choice of Benson over Stratton when the Republican harmony ticket now in the field was made out. At that time he was promised party support for nomination as clerk of the Supreme court if he would clear the way for Benson as secretary of state.

Stratton rejected this offer, however, and ran as an independent candidate. During the campaign he charged that state employes were being threatened with dismissal if they failed to make a strong showing for Benson. After the primary Stratton remained silent.

The son of the late William J. Stratton, who was state treasurer, he is only 30 now and was elected to congress in 1940 when he was 26. After two years in Washington, fighting measures he felt were dragging the United States toward war, he sought and won the nomination as treasurer in 1942.

The first indication that Stratton bore Gov. Green no ill will was seen during the Republican National convention in June when he attended a dinner for the governor and made a brief address. More recently he publicly presented to Green a 5 million dollar check, representing part of the state 32 million dollar purchases of war bonds.

He has spoken in behalf of the ticket at several recent rallies, Stratton said last night, and expects to speak at more. He said his statement might be characterized as a formal declaration for Gov. Green and the state Republican ticket.

BARKLEY WINS IN PRIMARY; G.O.P. NOMINATES PARK

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 6 (AP).—Kentucky Democrats renominated Senate Majority Leader Barkley in yesterday's primary while the Republicans named Commonwealth Atty. James Park to oppose Barkley's bid for a fourth term in the November election.

Six of the state's seven Democratic congressmen and its two Republican representatives also were renominated in primaries which brought only a light vote because there were no national issues involved. The seventh Democratic congressman withdrew from the primary in the face of labor opposition. Both parties nominated a candidate in the district.

Barkley piled up 79,905 votes while his six opponents polled a total of only 10,797 in 3,430 of the state's 4,282 precincts. Park, youthful prosecutor in the state courts at Lexington, received 41,621 votes; Circuit Judge Clarence Bartlett polled 19,596; Silas W. Sullivan, 3,303, and G. Tom Hawkins, 2,878.

MacARTHUR'S TACTICS.

Within a few days after Gen. MacArthur finished his two year, 1,500 mile progress to the western tip of New Guinea, the Jap garrisons whom he had by-passed and left to starve started to pull out across the jungles and mountains. Some of them may survive that perilous journey to continue starving in some other isolated and useless stronghold.

MacArthur has demonstrated that hitting them where they ain't pays as big dividends in war as in baseball. His army has fought hard and well when it was necessary, but time and again he has avoided costly casualties by passing the main concentrations of enemy troops to seize lightly held areas as bases for his next move. He destroyed the Jap air strength at Madang and Wewak, then ignored the large ground forces there by leap-frogging to Hollandia. In his latest seizure of Sansapor, a week ago, he passed and isolated another big Jap force at Manokwari.

Tactics such as these explain in part why MacArthur's operations have never produced such casualty lists as came from Tarawa and Saipan. The comparison, admittedly, should not be pressed too closely. He has been operating on large islands and the navy has been attacking small ones. For the casualties on Saipan we won air bases that will put B-29s over Tokyo, and airports can't be built in 30,000 feet of water. But the fact remains that in the Pacific operations MacArthur has won his objectives by a far lighter expenditure of men than has any other commander in the area. This is not accidental. It flows from his long experience in battle. He had the same reputation for conserving his men's lives in France.

He should be placed in command of all of the landing operations in the Pacific. Not only will that save thousands of American lives, but it will coördinate all of the attacks, now that we are approaching the positions from which the final blow can be struck.

THE CITIZEN AND HIS PARTY.

Illinois Republican leaders have shown National Chairman Brownell their plan for carrying the state this fall for the Republican ticket. A detailed program has been set up for the enrollment of 70,000 precinct workers, far more than have ever set out before to educate the voters on behalf of either party in this state.

Every Illinois citizen who wants to end the New Deal and to work for the principles that the Republican party has advanced should offer his services to the party organization as one of these precinct workers. It is thru regular party organization that the citizen can make his most effective political contribution.

Mr. Willkie didn't think so. The campaign four years ago was needlessly complicated by the largely futile activities of amateur politicians operating as Willkie clubs. They got under the feet and into the hair of the regular Republican organizations thruout the country. They diverted to their own activities a very large proportion of the campaign funds, without which no political organization can function, and wasted the money. They were all out for Willkie but they didn't give a whoop, and admitted it, for Republican candidates for congress or state or local office. The Willkie clubs didn't beat Willkie; his own fraudulence took care of that. But their diversive activities did prevent the election of a good many other Republican candidates in close contests thruout the country.

In the pre-convention campaign this year most of the party organization was against Willkie. One of the reasons for this antagonism was the same that caused the voters to reject him. The professional politician has no use for a man who doesn't keep his word. But, in addition, the party organization was against Willkie because in 1940 the great Wall street organizer ran his own campaign with all of the ordered precision of a rat race.

That mistake is not going to be repeated. There is a strong, well disciplined and confident Republican organization everywhere outside the solid south. Citizens who look for Republican victory should enroll in that organization. Too many of them affect a contempt for organized politics, which merely betrays their ignorance of political processes. The political payroller obviously isn't any brighter or more persuasive than the citizen who earns his living thru private enterprise. The payroller carries elections because he works at it and the "private" citizen doesn't. If the citizen doesn't like the way the party organization runs, the remedy is for him to get into it and take part in it and help run it.

ARMIES OF OCCUPATION.

Any American government which tries to keep troops of occupation in the defeated countries had better make preparations which do not include the forces now serving abroad. The men who have fought will not understand peace plans which keep them from the well earned reward of their homes. Delays in demobilization in 1918 created a troublesome military situation and the American army of occupation at Coblenz irritated people in the United States more than it annoyed the Germans.

The most grandiose schemes for the enemy countries contemplate a police job of indefinite duration, even to the raising of new generations in the proper respect for force in other peoples' hands. Professional soldiers may have no dislike for continued service abroad, altho the sullenness of a conquered country does not provide a very cordial atmosphere. The men whose great hope is for a chance to get home, whose families join them in desire for this, the greatest favor which could be granted, would be impatient and discouraged policemen.

Possibly young men of 18 and 19 who have not been in the fighting would not object to service abroad when the shooting stops. That would be an adventure and an experience in which the boys might take interest and pride. It would extend the advantages of military training into peace time. The young men would have to be disciplined to an understanding of the proper conduct of an army of occupation in a defeated country. At their age their start in life would not be seriously affected and might be influenced on the right side. While the military system was taking in these young men the country could consider the question of military training as a continuing institution. It was rejected after the other war in a recoil against the conflict, its causes as then interpreted, and its consequences.

An administration which tries to put the burden of a civilian concocted peace of extraordinary measures on the shoulders of men who have won the war will be in trouble, and deservedly so.

WE CAN THANK GOD IT'S A REPUBLIC.

Bernard De Voto, the editor of Harper's magazine, is a sensitive person, a man of good will, and, to judge by his writings, a more or less warm New Dealer. Mr. De Voto, outraged by some recent incidents of physical violence against racial minorities in Boston, where he lives, went to ask public officials why such indecency was tolerated. The reply of one of these officials disturbed and outraged him even more. Let him tell it in his own words:

"This is a democracy," he summed up, "and we must abide by the democratic principles." "Democracy," he said, "means majority rule, and Jews and Negroes are in the minority hereabouts. . . ." He is an honest man, an honorable public servant, and a man of charity and good will, a faithful communicant of his church. But somehow, unquestionably in good faith, he had been betrayed into a blasphemous heresy. Democracy, he said to me, is majority rule, and the Jews and the Negroes are in the minority here. I wondered what priest or pastor had confirmed him in that heresy, the heresy that Jews and Negroes must submit to torture because men of white skin or Christian faith outnumber them."

Mr. De Voto was sending his indignation up the wrong street. He was so indignant over the theological heresy with which he was confronted that he overlooked entirely an equally vicious political heresy. Granted, race prejudice is un-Christian, but Mr. De Voto was interviewing the man, not as a church member, but as an official of an American local government. By strictly logical definition, democracy is majority rule, and if the majority rules untrammeled it can, and will, ignore the rights of minorities. But we Americans, thank God, do not live under a democracy. We live under a Republic.

Athens was a democracy and a citizen of Athens could vote to exile Aristides, denying him thereby a whole category of civil rights, for no better reason than that he had tired of hearing Aristides called "The Just." We can't go that here. We have a Constitution and a Bill of Rights.

The first President elected under that Constitution had not finished his first term and the ink was scarcely dry on the ratifications of the Bill of Rights when the world had a spectacle in France of the horrible, bloody workings of an unrestrained democracy. Not a decade has passed since but what the American people have seen somewhere else in the world a fresh demonstration of the value of the restraints which they placed alike on themselves and on their government.

Recent years have seen an unprecedented volume of ardent poppycock, cant, and plain muddled thinking in this country on the subject of democracy. Mr. De Voto has contributed his share. Some of this discussion has been sincere, if bemused and benighted. A good deal more of it has been inspired by the manipulators in Washington, who are no more democratic than Stalin or Hitler.

The last thing they aspire to is democracy. They want to concentrate government in the hands of a restricted party of "elite." As a means to that end they have urged assiduously that anything the majority wants it should have, and any constitutional restraint that stands in the way of such a program should be swept aside because the majority wills it. All this they assert in the name of democracy.

The Boston official was not wrong. Under the kind of majority rule that the New Dealers propose it would be quite all right to subject Jews and Negroes or, for that matter, Catholics, Baptists, Poles, Irish, Communists, or Republicans to all of the tortures that Hitler and Stalin have devised for dissidents and minority groups. The only mandate necessary for such tortures in a pure democracy is the transitory will of the majority.

We can thank God again that we do not live in a democracy, but in a Republic, whose founders recognized that no man or group can be entrusted with unlimited power, even if that group is a majority of the citizens.

THOSE DUMB RUSSIANS.
[Detroit Free Press.]

An official Nazi broadcast picked up in London explained that by attacking "where large scale operations should not have been undertaken," the Red army had pierced lightly held German lines, and, as a result, the "whole prudently calculated German defense system was threatened."

Maybe Der Fuehrer never heard of Napoleon as a military expert. But obviously those "stupid" Russians have.

Hitler is learning the hard way that a three front war is very like a three horse parlay. If any one blows, he loses the works.—Washington Evening Star.

EXCUSE TARDINESS, PLEASE.

What with one thing and another, we must admit we have fallen behind in our correspondence with Adolf Hitler these last few years, and in all fairness we must say he has been patient about it. He sends us message after message, and to make sure we receive them he uses the radio and the press instead of trusting the postman. So we may as well reply in the same way—altho if, for sentimental reasons, he would like to have the autographed manuscript we'll be glad to send it on receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope.

* * *

Well, Adolf, a good many of your messages have answered themselves, but we have saved a few for belated acknowledgment, and now is the time. Do you remember telling us, back in June, 1938, how you were "building for the next 300 years," how you had ordered a vast system of new roads thru Germany because [and we liked the way you phrased it, Adolf] "the nations of the world will come to Germany." How right you were!

* * *

Another of your notes that we kept, because it seemed to be a good illustration of your gentleness of heart, came the following April, a few months before you got into all that trouble with your neighbors. "Providence," you said, "has let me find the ways for liberating our people from the deepest misery without bloodshed." We made a memorandum to send you our congratulations, but perhaps they are even more timely now, considering the heightened happiness to which you have led your fortunate flock.

* * *

Too bad, Adolf, how those Russians disappointed you. Remember telling us early in 1940 how Germany and Russia had been friends "thru centuries" and, six months later, that there was "no possibility of estrangement"? Well, the best of friends sometimes part and sometimes wish they never had met at all. But you must have been feeling pretty good in the fall of 1941 when [after quite a row] you told us, "Russia will never rise again."

* * *

Lately, Adolf, you seem a bit depressed. Last New Year's eve we got your note saying, "There will be no victors—only survivors." So perhaps we won't be seeing you. But don't worry about your place in history. You'll always have lebensraum there. The world won't forget a man like you. Chin up, Adolf—with a knot beside the ear!

FELICITOUS FIREFLY.

(A Brookfield Ballad.)

There's a most amazing firefly
Who flits in far-off Paraguay;
Upon his sides green lights appear,
And there's a red light in the rear!
Thru crowded jungles, dusk to day,
He gaily flashes on his way,
And those who pass may quickly find
If he's ahead or far behind.
It would be nice, it seems to me,
If thoughts of every one we see
Were thus made plain, so we might know
Just when to stop and when to go!

Quizzicuss.

As Buck to Duke.

Last night I was countin' sheep to see if it would bring the rest I needed, but it seemed they couldn't pull the wool over me eyes.

"Faith," sez I, "there's something haunting me and I'd like to put me finger on it, or maybe all tin of thim." Thin it was I realized who it was on me mind. It was the Peepin' Tom of the Chewsday Chaw and Chowder club, the keyhole connoisseur of the column, a certain Duke Bakrak.

A duke he calls himself, and him with a baron mind. Sure, even if he was a count his first name would have to be Noah. I kin see him now in his black satin pants and silk stockings, a bowin' and a scrapin' before the nobility. Bejabbers, the first thing I knew if he wasn't a jumpin' thru the fince with the sheep and gittin' me all mixed up in me countin." Now why in thunder should he git in with the sheep unless he was a black one. "Bad cess to you," sez I, "and I hope you catch those fine silk pants of yours on the fince, I do, I do," but the sheep kept jumpin' thru the fince, with the number of black ones increasin' all the time.

Thin all of a sudden it happened. He caught his pants on a splinter and there was a great rippin' and tearin', and a terrible noise as he fell. Sure, I couldn't stop meself laughin' at the sight of him. 'Twas thin me own bad luck set in, it did that. Right in the middle of me laughin' I woke up and there I was on the floor, with Molly beratin' and scoldin' at me because of the noise, and for wakin' her up in the middle of the night, and for tearin' the sheets. Ah, the pain of it all; the realization it wasn't happenin' to himself at all, at all, the humiliation of me position, and the great tear in me flank from a safety pin holdin' me nightshirt together. 'Tis only one more black mark agin that Duke fellow, it is that, and I'm bidin' me time till I see him, that I am.

IN ANSWER TO AN OLDER FRIEND.

Does youth fear death? I do not know;
I think not of it, while the blood
Runs sweetly in my veins, while love
Awaits, and dreams are at their flood.

How can one know until the hour?
But this much I can truly tell
That I would trust that Being still
Who cares for me in life so well.

SEEK EXPERT AND HONEST MEDICAL ADVICE.

RECENTLY I devoted a few evenings to going over several thousand letters from correspondents. While many brought a smile and a chuckle, I was obliged to envision tragedy all too frequently. For the most part disastrous results were due to the natural tendency which many of us exhibit to postpone a trip to the doctor.

One communication was from a grief stricken husband, whose wife had detected a lump in her breast three years ago. She knew about the possibility of cancer but she hid her secret. In time the growth became more adherent and firmer. Her family noted that she was going down in weight and appeared nervous. They finally persuaded her to consult a competent surgeon, who discovered the cause of her trouble. Altho the breast was removed, many precious months were lost. After nearly two years of comfort the symptoms returned in adjacent vital organs quite beyond the reach of surgery.

Reading a score of similar experiences emphasized my firm conviction that not only should a routine checkup be made once or twice a year but that the visit should be wholly devoid of fear. Physicians themselves have much to learn about allaying apprehension.

The primary essential is an honest practitioner who, at the same time, is well trained. By and large, devotees of the healing art are skilful. Some, however, seem to have forsaken the human side of their calling. The majority will never lose genuine sympathy and understanding. A few will never acquire it.

One woman wrote that she was examined by an alleged expert. He advised her that she had a mass of fibroids and that she needed an immediate operation. The news came as a shock, particularly after he named his fee, which was sizable. His parting injunction was, "I will make arrangements for your admission to the hospital today. Otherwise I will not be responsible for your life."

Fortunately a friend to whom she went in her distress counseled her to see a well known specialist. The verdict was: not a sign of fibroids; absolutely nothing wrong with the pelvic organs. Her symptoms were traced to a mild colitis, which cleared up within a few weeks under proper management. This led me to wonder how much of this sort of thing goes on. I feel sure it is the exception and not the rule.

There are many sources of information concerning the reputation and standing of the physicians of every community. Hospital authorities usually can be depended upon for reliable data regarding their staffs. Officers of the local medical society have a greater responsibility to the public in answering questions about their colleagues than they have to the individual members of the group.

Medical men of character are not afraid to say, "I don't know." Every puzzling problem, however, can be referred to some one who is letter perfect in its solution.

BLOCKED BILE DUCTS.

F. W. writes: After one attack of jaundice, is it likely to recur?

REPLY.

Not if the causative infection has been eradicated. Sometimes mechanical obstruction to the outflow of bile is responsible. Unless the dam is removed, the symptom may return.

RELAXATION.

K. S. writes: After I spend some time at the beach I become tired and sleepy. What should I do?

REPLY.

We can do no better than to heed nature. If drowsiness comes—yield to the urge and sleep. This will refill your energy reservoirs.

BLEEDING GUMS.

C. M. writes: What can be done for weak gums? They bleed whenever I brush my teeth.

REPLY.

Find the cause, which may be a food deficiency. Anemia, likewise, may be responsible. Your dentist can take care of any infection that may be present.

EXPANSION.

W. L. writes: When do people stop growing in height? When do they cease putting on weight?

REPLY.

Full stature is attained at approximately age 20. Weight varies thruout life, depending upon nutrition, activity, etc.

Familiar Sight.

A young naval lieutenant, just back from the Pacific, reports that three-fourths of the sailors on destroyers are young boys who have never before been to sea. The first time his ship was attacked by Jap planes a young sailor from Brooklyn, whose battle station was beside the lieutenant, turned to him wide-eyed and said, "Chee, Mr. Beatty, it's just like the newsreels, ain't it?"

Soul and Body.

A great golden moon bathed the open air concert hall of Grant park the other night. A soft breeze from the lake fanned the heated brows of the crowds listening to Lucille Manners warble Massenet's "Il est doux, il est bon." A sense of well being and gratitude for the quiet beauty of Chicago's front lawn permeated the throng. And then the mood collapsed. A large decided blonde turned in a loud stage whisper to her meek, sport-shirted escort with: "Gee, I wish it ud rain. We won't have no corn or tomatoes left if this keeps up."

A Boy Sees the World.

From E. H. Llewellyn comes the story of George, 5, who lives with his parents on a large farm, and usually follows his father around at work. One rainy day, however, he was told to stay at the house because his father had some plowing to do and didn't want George walking thru the wet ground.

But George had ideas of his own. He gruffly told his father that if he could not be with him, he would leave home forever, would go out into the world and get along somehow.

So George started out down the country road. His father watched him, a tiny, slender boy going out into the world.

An hour passed, and no sight of George. The father was just beginning to worry when, from his plow seat, he saw a small figure crawling under the fence and making his way toward him. "Hello, Dad," George called. "How are things going on the old farm?" "O, fine," the father said. "Do you see many changes here since you went away?" George considered this thoughtfully. "Yes," came his studied reply, "but I see you still have the same old dog."

Numerical Charms.

The public seeks consolation all sorts of ways these days. One lady around town can't get thru her day's work unless she plays a number game that tells her what the day's prospects are. Not long ago it spelled out for her the word "wedding." She sat there aghast, staring at the word. She was married, and happily so. None of her children was of marriageable age in any region except the border states. The word was a supreme test of her loyalty to the game, and the game lost. She pushed it away in disgust. Just then the telephone rang. It was her husband. His secretary for the last 10 years was going to be married. "And," he added, "I told her she could have the wedding in our house." The lady now is off numbers for good.

Song Fest.

Mr. H. J. Kent of Wautoma, Wisconsin, some time ago prepared a revised version of "The Star Spangled Banner," trying to get it into a key that some one beside a mezzo-soprano could master. Of his futile attempts to get somewhere with it, he writes:

"Nothing further has been done with the version of the national anthem, altho the Society of the Sons and Daughters of the First Settlers of Newbury, Mass., proposed to hold a large celebration this summer to bring it out."

That should cinch it.

SHORT SIGHTED ECONOMY.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—The announcement in today's TRIBUNE that the air lines' engineering committee has selected the Douglas airport near Park Ridge for Chicago's post-war air terminal is a most disappointing bit of news. By the committee's own statement, a lake front airport is considered desirable from every standpoint except its initial cost.

According to the recommendation of this committee, it is proposed to build an airport 27.4 minutes travel time from the loop compared with 36 minutes travel time from the present Municipal airport to the loop—an improvement of only 8.6 minutes. The new and larger post-war airplanes also will be faster so that it still would take almost as long to get to this proposed airport as it does to fly to Detroit. All shorter trips would, of course, be completely impractical from such an airport.

It seems to me that the time has come when the only consideration in determining such a vital question as the location of Chicago's post-war airport should be: "Which is the best location for Chicago and its future growth?" The answer, of course, is the lake front. There should be many ways of financing such an airport which would be a permanent addition to Chicago's many wonders located along our lake front. It could be made a recreation center second to none, with restaurants and other entertainment features in a setting comparable to Treasure Island in San Francisco bay. Let's hope that Chicago will awaken in time to assure selection of the proper site for our post-war airport which will guarantee the continued growth and development of our great city.

DISPUTES A QUOTATION.

La Grange, Ill., Aug. 1.—In a letter dated July 19 from Evanston, Ill., by Madeline S. Day, I notice two discrepancies. Reference is made to Mrs. Phillips, whereas actually the lady was Mrs. Chas. W. Tillet, assistant chairman of the National Democratic committee.

The writer went on to quote the speaker and attributes to her by quotation a reference to, "President—our master." Actually what Mrs. Tillet said was, "That man, our President, our veteran commander in chief, our matchless leader, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

My authority for the statement which I have just quoted is the report made by the United States news of the proceedings of the Democratic convention here in Chicago.

NO CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS ABROAD.

Warren, Pa., Aug. 2.—I am a conscientious objector. Many people criticize me and my friends because we are doing relatively safe work here while other fellows are overseas on the battlefronts.

What people do not know is that there is a congressional ban on overseas service for c. o.'s, passed in the form of an inconspicuous rider to a military affairs appropriation at a time when the Quakers had 70 men fully trained and equipped with ambulances for service in China, and 150 more in training.

Many of us are eager to serve in accord with our faith in the danger areas overseas, if congressmen will repeal this restrictive law.

C. ROBERT CHAPMAN.

THEY DON'T WANT ANOTHER DOLE.

Freeport, Ill., Aug. 2.—It won't be long now until about 10 million G. I. Joes will be back home. Many of them will have wives and children to support. All of them will want jobs. Mr. Roosevelt tells them that if he is reelected, he will see that they have jobs. How does he propose to do this? Already he has made it plain that he proposes to keep this promise in the same way he tried to keep the same promise made to the unemployed in 1932—by a gigantic scheme of public works, paid for out of borrowed money; in other words by a revival of the WPA, with its incompetence, waste, and graft.

Do our new veterans want WPA jobs? I have talked with several of them, home on furlough, and with the mothers and fathers of others, and without exception they have made it plain that they do not. They know that such jobs rob them of personal initiative and limit their freedom of choice. They know, too, that such jobs mean a still larger public debt, which they and their children must eventually pay.

The jobs our G. I. Joes want are in private business, jobs that have a future and promise security and a chance for advancement, and those jobs Mr. Roosevelt and his buroerats do not know how to provide. Their WPA, despite the billions it spent from 1933 till 1940, did not provide work for the great mass of the unemployed. According to the American Federation of Labor, there were still 10 million men and women out of work in 1940. Surely our soldiers and their friends will not vote to continue in power an administration which has shown such an amazing, malignant hostility toward private enterprise, the only source of worthwhile employment.

HEAR 4TH TERM BOSS EXPECTS REWARD BY F. D. R.

Report Flynn Hopes to Be Envoy to Vatican.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—One of the three political machine bosses who masterminded President Roosevelt's fourth term draft and perpetrated the political demise of Vice President Wallace, is expecting a diplomatic post as his reward, it was reported in political circles here today.

Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn, boss of the Bronx, whose quest for ambassadorial robes was given a staggering setback 18 months ago, has reportedly been promised the post of minister to the Vatican to be created after the war.

Flynn's previous diplomatic ambitions ended in disaster. On Jan. 9, 1943, Flynn announced at a press conference in New York that he had been appointed President Roosevelt's "ambassador and personal representative" to Australia. For several days the White House was silent on the appointment altho the President finally sent the nomination of "Dear Eddie" to the senate.

In announcing his impending nomination Flynn resigned as chairman of the Democratic national committee and as Democratic leader of the Bronx. When he was rebuffed he took back the latter post.

Called Unfit for Job.

Flynn's nomination was attacked in the senate on the ground that he was unfit. Emphasis was laid on the use of New York City paving blocks to pave a courtyard at his country estate and his appointment of the late gangster Dutch Schultz as a deputy sheriff when Flynn was sheriff of Bronx county.

On Feb. 1, 1943, Flynn asked Mr. Roosevelt to withdraw his nomination, an act without precedent in American diplomatic history. The request was made after Flynn was bluntly told that the overwhelmingly Democratic senate would not confirm his nomination.

Flynn has not given up hopes of attaining diplomatic rank, however, and now hopes to be the representative to the Vatican. According to his intimates, Flynn has been promised the Vatican post when and if the post is created after the war and on the highly problematical condition that the New Deal continues in power.

He's Still Hopeful.

At present this government has no official representative at the Vatican. President Roosevelt has sent Myron Taylor, former steel executive, to the Vatican from time to time as a personal representative to Pope Pius XII.

Edward J. Kelly, mayor of Chicago, another of the fourth term masterminds, was reported angling for the post of ambassador to Mexico. No promises have been made to the mayor, it was said, but it was reported that he is hopeful that his services in the third and fourth term conventions will be recognized.

The third member of the machine triumvirate which worked with remnants of the Tom Pendergast machine in Missouri to replace Wallace with Sen. Truman [D., Mo.] reportedly has no appointment ambitions. He is Frank Hague, mayor of Jersey City, N. J., and all he wants from the New Deal is to be allowed to run his city, county, and state as he pleases.

Reports of Kelley's ambitions to be ambassador to Mexico drew smiles in the state department. It was recalled that Mexico City was Flynn's first choice, but he was forced to bow to state department opposition, which emphasized the need for an experienced diplomat in the post.

Need for an experienced diplomat still exists in Mexico City, it was said at the state department. Altho state department officials declined to conmment on the need, it was assumed that the situation in Mexico City is complicated in part by the large Russian embassy there. It has been reported that there are hundreds of Russians attached to the embassy there preparing for various posts in South America after the war.

"BALONEY," SAYS KELLY.

Mayor Kelly, when asked last night about reports linking his name with the ambassadorship to Mexico, said:

"That is really baloney. There is always a lot of that stuff going around; this is really a dandy. I have heard nothing of the sort. I wouldn't think of it a minute if it was offered to me. I have a job here to fill out my term. Who would live in Mexico when he could live in Chicago?"

The mayor is in Eagle River, Wis.

THE QUESTION.

What is your favorite remedy for hiccups?

WHERE ASKED.

Michigan Boulevard building, 30 N. Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS.

Martha Snow, stenographer, Crystal Lake—Just take a half teaspoon of salt and put it in a glass of warm water and drink it. It works every time for me. It doesn't taste so good tho, and I don't know which is worse — having the hiccups or drinking hot salt water. I guess the thought of drinking it scares them away.

Ensley Hooker, general office, 849 Hill rd., Winnetka—If you have the hiccups just have any stranger [preferably the opposite sex] hold your ears while you drink a glass of water. It makes you feel so foolish and strange to have some one you don't know holding your ears that your blood pressure goes up and the hiccups stop.

Mrs. David E. Nusbaum, housewife, 410 N. St. Louis av.—Hold your breath as long as you can and keep concentrating on your hiccups. I always say to myself, "I wonder when another hiccup is coming." You wait and wonder and another one doesn't come along. The more you wonder the scarcer they are.

Mrs. C. Jacobsen, housewife, 424 E. Roosevelt rd., Wheaton—Peel a potato and slice it. Sprinkle salt on it and eat it raw. If you don't like raw potatoes I'd suggest you try something else, but I like them. I don't really think there's anything that can be done but it makes you feel better to try to cure them.

Mrs. Gerald Bolger, housewife, 324 E. Roosevelt rd., Wheaton — When I get the hiccups I hold my hands over my head and count to 10. That's supposed to make you stop choking, too. I can remember when I was a child my mother used to give me a sugar lump to suck and the hiccups would disappear.

Wallace Nimer, managing editor, 336 N. Menard av. — The best way I know of to get rid of them is to have some one give you a good scare — such as telling a shocking untruth about yourself. You get so involved in trying to find out who started the story, how many people know it, etc., and soon the hiccups are gone.

WOMAN STABBED FATALLY IN PARK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6 [Special].—Stabbed thru the heart by a heavy set Negro, Miss Frances N. Erickson, 35, of Washington, D. C., today staggered from the bushes bordering a footpath in Rock Creek park and died in the arms of a park policeman.

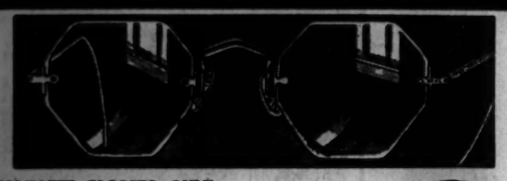

Miss Erickson, an architect, gasped out a story of being robbed and knifed by the Negro in the few moments she lived after the assault.

Police arrested a Negro, 18, for questioning after noting what appeared to be a trail of blood near the scene of the slaying. Several other suspects also were rounded up and were being questioned tonight.

'Miss Lieutenant'

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

(Copyright: 1944: By Ines Eliot.)

SYNOPSIS: Lt. Carol Melton of Kansas, an army nurse in North Africa, overhears a military conference in which the need for maps and photographs of the crooked little towns along the Riviera is discussed. She tells Col. Barlow that her identical twin, Lita, is married to a Frenchman who has a collection of maps, drawings, and photographs of all the secret passageways along the coast, that she was educated at Nice, speaks French fluently, and knows every inch of the coastline. She persuades the colonel, who is in love with her, to recommend her for the mission. Carol is called to American headquarters, warned of the danger, and transferred to intelligence. Two experienced Commandos will accompany her. Col. Barlow confides to her that information known only to trusted officials about the troops in Africa has been leaking out. The informer knows the Riviera well. Taken by ferry to a submarine, Carol discovers one of the commandos is Bright Stoner of Kansas, a childhood sweetheart, who has always stood between her and other men. From the submarine they go by fishing smack to the shore. Carol will lead the way to Le Bastion, home of Lita and Jacques Cassard.

INSTALMENT VII.
AT BROCHARDS.

At last the sentry's back was toward them and he began his slow pacing again.

A second later Bright was gone, silently, swiftly. The German made no outcry as the knife struck home—just a queer little grunt like that of a surprised animal. Then Dugan had her by the hand and they were running for the alley. As they passed the silent figure on the ground Bright joined them.

Once in the alley they paused, listening intently, but there was nothing to be heard except the incessant rolling of the strong beach under the sucking waves and the crying of a sick baby.

"There is only one more risky spot," Carol found herself telling them. "The market place. It's about 50 yards wide and just at the end of the alley. Then we go into the old city by the first opening to the left."

Again Bright went ahead, and Dugan kept hold of her hand, keeping her behind him. The long narrow market place was flooded by whiteness of the moon except where the center sheds make a strip of impenetrable blackness which might hide anything.

Bright searched both ways, peering around th corner, and then signaled. The men moved so fast that she could scarcely keep up with them. They had barely reached the shelter of the dark and odoriferous La Vieille Rue des Petits Morts — the Old Street of the Little Dead—when a platoon of soldiers under the command of a harsh voiced young lieutenant turned into the market place. Huddled into a doorway the three held their breath while a perfunctory flashlight swept the narrow, cobbled way at their feet, slid upward along the opposite wall and then vanished as the guard continued on its way. Carol aroused herself from the numbness of that moment of suspense.

"Follow me, now, fellers!" she said. "I know the way—I hope!"

The old feeling of enchantment with which she, first as a child and later as a leisurely, rich, and idle visitor had felt for the old quarter, returned faintly as she led the way. An occasional street lamp furnished its only concession to modernity and now even these were extinguished and she had to find her way by the shape of the tall buildings which leaned against a narrow strip of sky. Once she had a frightened moment when she thought she had lost her way. Then the sound of water dripping from an old wall fountain told her that she had the right corner — that of St. Agnes the Virgin — and then a left hand plunge brought them to the doorway she was looking for.

"This is it," she said in a low tone. "Now to see if there is any one here."

There was nothing but a creaking sign overhead to indicate that the place was a restaurant. Carol tried the door. It was securely locked. Then she went to the one small window beside it and tapped, softly but insistently. They waited for a long while and nothing happened.

"Nobody home," said Bright, "or else they're playing good Indian."

"There must be somebody!" Carol listened again and seemed to hear a faint stirring inside. She rattled the door handle eagerly and risked a small cry.

"Papa Brochard! It is I — let me in!"

Again silence as she stood there bewildered and frustrated. Then at last the door was opened a crack and three feet from the floor an unearthly face looked up at them, the weird features dancing in the flickering light of a single candle.

The creature who held the soft, homemade candle was obviously one of those misshapen, half idiot monstrosities of which inbreeding on the mountain farms had produced far too many. He was an ageless being with large hands and head and the body of a small, strong child. At sight of Carol his face lit up with something resembling a smile and his eyes took on a look of doglike devotion. An inarticulate noise came hoarsely from his thick set throat.

"It is Georges le chein!" Carol explained. "The son of Papa Brochard's sister. The Brochards would never have left him alone so they must be here."

She stepped inside, motioning the two men to follow her, and the door clanged heavily behind them. Then from an inner room a great bulk of a man emerged. At sight of Carol he stopped in his tracks and his pendulous lower lip thrust out aggressively.

"Madame comes very late!" he said coldly in his thick local patois. "May I ask what warrants it?"

It was like a slap in the face. Carol had counted on a warm welcome and now here was strange hostility instead. Then it dawned upon her that Papa Brochard was mistaking her for Lita, a Lita with whom for some inconceivable reason he was not on any too friendly terms. The dwarf was dancing up and down in front of Brochard, waving the candle and jabbering, pointing now to his uncle, now at Carol. Something, altho she could not make out a word the little creature said, told her that he knew who she was, his simple instinct having distinguished her identity.

"Papa Brochard!" she said quietly. "I am not Mme, Lita — I am your petite Carol — la chante de Noel! Don't you really know me?"

"But that is not possible!" he exclaimed. "You are in America. What could you be doing here?"

Carol drew a long breath, almost in a whisper, trying to make it casual in case it was not understood, she sang the first bars of the song.

"Frere Jacques, frere Jacques, Dormez-vous?"

"Stop! It is enough!" cried the old man. "Now I understand. You have indeed come to the right place. Entrez! Entrez, mam'zelle et messieurs!"

It was all just as Carol had remembered it. First the blind little entry which had been the porter's room of this ancient building, Brochard's office, and then the big, low ceilinged kitchen which served also as the restaurant. There was the rack behind the cashier's desk where the customers' napkins hung rolled, each in a wooden ring marked with the owner's name — for this was a place where people once ate en pension every day. Now the clients who had once tucked these same napkins under their chins with gusto were scattered to who could say what far places?

Papa Brochard explained sadly. "We in the city fare poorly indeed, while those swine, les sales Boches . . . !" Then he set out a thin local red wine, while Carol cautiously disclosed something of their intentions. The old man nodded solemnly while she talked.

"And my sister — she is still at Le Bastion?"

"Madame is still at the castle."

"And Mme. Victorine, your wife?"

"Still at the castle, also!" He was curiously brief about it.

"You were very cool to me when you thought I was Lita," she stated boldly. "Why? Do you not like her any longer?"

36 BALLOONS GO UP TOMORROW IN COSMIC RAY TEST

The 20th flight of balloons carrying cosmic ray detection apparatus will be released from Stagg field at the University of Chicago tomorrow, weather permitting, Marcel Schein, assistant professor of physics, said yesterday. The high altitude flight of the cluster of 36 balloons is one of a series conducted during the last four years by the department of physics, which is headed by Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner.

Prof. Schein said that speedier recovery of the apparatus will be facilitated by radio signals, which when first used in the June 10 flight enabled physicists to approximate within a few miles the area in which the apparatus fell.

The balloons carrying the recording devices have ascended more than 16 miles, and usually drift over Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio. A reward of $15 is offered by the university's physics department for the return of the apparatus.

HOTEL PROWLER INJURED IN LEAP FROM 5TH FLOOR

A hotel prowler who leaped from a fifth floor window when he was surprised by policemen in a room of the Cleveland Apartment hotel, 2244 Cleveland av., was in serious condition yesterday in the Bridewell hospital. Detectives Frank Eckert and Anthony Cella of the Hudson av. station said the man refused to tell his name but that he carried cards with the name of Paul Jungick, 30, of 2486 N. Clark st. Mrs. Anna Kominski, a resident of the hotel, summoned police when she saw a man trying doors in the fifth floor corridor. When the policemen arrived he had just entered a room with a pass key. He leaped from the window, landing in an ash heap, when the policemen followed him into the room.

NATIVE TOWN HAILS 'KID' WHO SMACKED JAPS

State Joins Tribute to Naval Ace Vraciu.

BY JUNE GESERICK.

East Chicago, Ind., turned out en masse to pay homage yesterday to Lt. Alexander Vraciu, who grew up in the shadows of the steel mills to become the top ranking ace of naval aviation.

To the man, rather than to the hero, hats were raised and cheers given along the parade that wound thru Indiana Harbor and East Chicago to Block stadium. To these people, the ace was the kid who worked with them in the mills during a summer vacation; the boy next door who was always around when fresh cookies were taken out of the oven.

Tribute Paid by Governor.

Gov. Schricker of Indiana, speaking before 5,000 persons who gathered in the stadium, said that Lt. Vraciu "added a glorious page to Indiana's history." The ace, he said, is representative of 300,000 men serving in uniform from Indiana and his heroic service reminds those at home that they have a duty to perform; a duty without which Lt. Vraciu and his comrades would be unable to succeed.

Mayor Frank Migas of East Chicago paid tribute to the 25 year old navy flyer with the words "He brought honor to us in East Chicago." A similar sentiment was expressed by Rep. Madden [D., Ind.].

Lt. Vraciu was introduced by Fred M. Gillies, superintendent of the Inland Steel company, where the ace formerly worked, and Walter Conroy, East Chicago's chief of police.

Lt. Vraciu, who shot down 19 Japanese planes and smashed 18 on the ground, arrived in Chicago a week ago, and was greeted by his parents and an East Chicago delegation. By request, however, he did not return to his home at 3553 Pennsylvania av., East Chicago, but stayed away to give the community time to prepare for the homecoming celebration.

Greeted at State Line.

The young navy ace was met at the Illinois-Indiana state line at Indianapolis blvd. yesterday and took his place in the lead parade automobile with Comdr. Lewis Lee of the naval air technical training command in Chicago, and R. F. Robinson, principal of Washington High school in East Chicago, from which Lt. Vraciu was graduated in 1937.

Part of the homecoming celebration was the presentation to Lt. Vraciu of $1,500 in war bonds. He also received $1,900 in war bonds from an uncle, John Tincu, a Chicago manufacturer, who offered the ace $100 for every plane he shot down before the flyer went overseas. Lt. Vraciu's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Vraciu Sr. The father is an East Chicago policeman.

MONTREALERS AFOOT 4TH DAY IN TRAM STRIKE

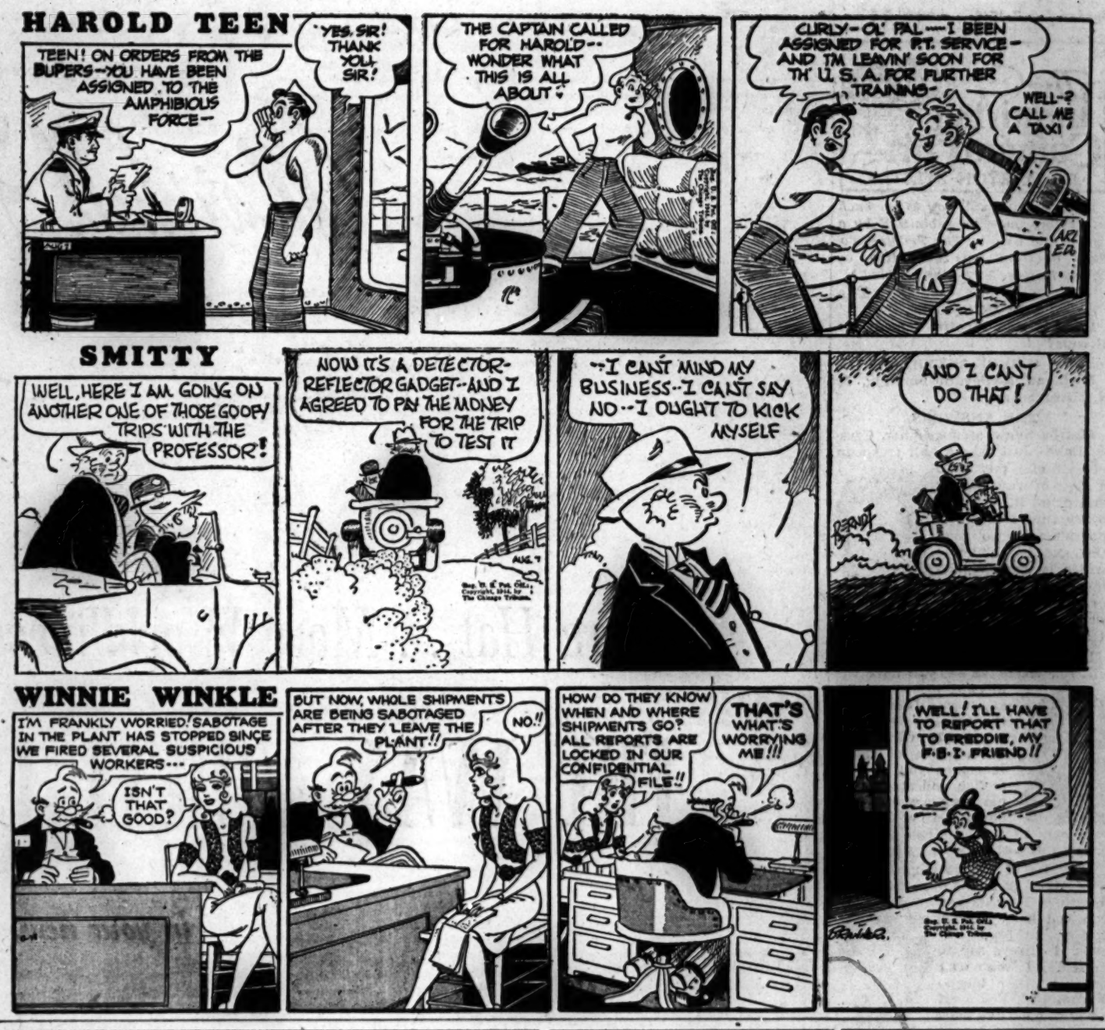

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 6 (AP).—As a strike of employes of Montreal tramways passed thru its fourth day, most residents stayed close to home and many streets were practically deserted.

A mass meeting of strikers called for midnight tonight was considered the most likely place for an indication of what will happen next in the walk out of 4,000 tram and bus operators, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes, a Canadian Congress of Labor affiliate.

Union officials repeated previous requests to citizens to press the federal government for a ruling on the legality of the union-shop clause which precipitated the strike. President R. N. Watt of Montreal Tramways reiterated that the proposed clause is illegal.

FATALLY STRICKEN IN HOME.

Mrs. Sarah Halfer, 56, of 3257 Grenshaw st. died yesterday in her home after a cerebral hemorrhage, despite efforts of Lt. Charles Bratt and fire department rescue squad 7 to revive her.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

Aug. 6, 1944.

MOST of us like to eat our meals in the standard way, but a group of sweet corn fanciers on the Wheaton farm insists on eating it at an outdoor table, without benefit of cooking, and without the usual treatment of butter, salt, and pepper; and tho they aren't feeble-minded they wear fur coats while they nibble on the tender kernels under an August sun.

This group of sweet corn addicts is composed of squirrels, and so far they've consumed most of three rows of tender ears from the farm garden.

Squirrels Hungrier in '44.

We had our troubles with squirrels in the garden last season, but this year they're three times as hungry. They sneak out of the center woodlot, walk thru a patch of late planted field corn, and step into the garden for their harvest session.

They're excellent judges of corn maturity, too, according to the farm gardener. Rarely do they molest an immature ear, but wait until the corn is almost ready for the table and then strip the husks and start their feast.

Foragers Baffle Traps.

Some of the ears are eaten from the stalk, others are pulled from the stem and carried to the bushtails' private dining room—the top of a near-by rail fence.

When the squirrels raided the garden last season the men built special box traps with clear glass in one end, guaranteed to fool any squirrel in existence. After baiting the traps with everything from shelled pecans to ground corn, and getting no squirrels, the traps were abandoned.

How to Repel Raiders.

First plantings of sweet corn should be the only patches attacked on the farm, because the furbearers probably will do their raiding in the field corn after another week or so. Gardeners having an excessive amount of trouble with squirrels in small patches of corn can partially repel them with napthalene flakes or common moth balls scattered around the edge of the planting.

The napthalene provides an invisible fence against the squirrels because they do not like its odor. This gives only temporary protection, however, because the materials soon dissipate into the air; therefore, the applications must be repeated often to be effective.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who have regular infestations of aphis [plant lice] on peas, tomatoes, and other vegetables can help eliminate this problem by finding and destroying ant hills near the garden. Ants are not destructive to vegetable plantings, but they serve as hosts to the lice, which attack vegetables by sucking out the plant juices.

Many commercially packaged products are effective for killing the ants in hills. Carbon disulphide, available at drug stores, also can be dropped into the hill entrances to produce a gas that kills the ants.

There are some reports of aphis infestation on tomato plants now. The specific insecticide for use against these lice is nicotine sulphate, thoroly sprayed on the stems and undersides of the leaves.

Fort Dearborn Day Set by Mayor for Aug. 15

Mayor Kelly has proclaimed Tuesday, Aug. 15, Fort Dearborn day to commemorate the 132nd anniversary of the battle of Chicago, which was fought on the lake shore after the evacuation of Fort Deaborn by United States troops. "It is particularly fitting during this period of war," he stated, "that we pay honor and homage to those brave men who gave their lives on the frontier on Aug. 15, 1812, in order that our community as we know it today might become established."

LINE UR SENATE ASPIRANTS FOR NEW YORK FIGHT

Pawling, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP).—Gov. Dewey spent a quiet day at Dappleмere farm today, preparatory to a conference on selection of a United States senate candidate in New York state.

The Republican Presidential nominee devoted the day to complete rest after his strenuous 2,350 mile campaign trip to the conference of 26 Republican governors in St. Louis.

Dewey will arrive in Albany early tomorrow afternoon and expects to confer with state leaders on the senate nomination. The nominee will be chosen by the Republican state committee, Tuesday. Democrats, meeting in New York City the same day, were expected to renominate Sen. Wagner.

Among those mentioned for the Republican nomination are Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran, State Sen. Frederick R. Coudert, Manhattan; W. Kingsland Macy, Suffolk county leader; State Assembly Majority Leader Irving M. Ives, Norwich, and Rep. Bernard W. Kearney, Gloversville.

Pvt. Robert E. Smith, 42, of Townsend, Mass., had his right leg amputated at the Gardiner General hospital yesterday after it was crushed in a closing railroad bridge at 22d and Canal sts. Lt. Alton Farber, army public relations officer, said the soldier had been sitting at the river's edge when the bridge was lowered and caught his leg.

Soldier's $10 Bill, Gone with the Wind, Returns

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 6 (AP).—A stiff wind whipped a $10 bill from Pvt. Edward R. Clie's hand as he was bound for a port of embarkation. Russell McClain, the train conductor, promised Clie he would try to find it at his first opportunity. Accordingly, on his return trip he stopped and searched the near-by field for the bill. He found it.

MOBILIZE 3,000 BOY SCOUTS TO SALVAGE PAPER

Approximately 3,000 Boy Scouts will be mobilized this week for waste paper collection at the curb on Saturday thruout Chicago and in more than 50 suburban communities. The Scouts will help load more than 600 trucks supplied by the army and the paper industry to cover 18,700 blocks in the city.

Scout officials have asked each troop in Chicago to provide at least five Scouts and a team captain for every truck. On Friday the Scouts will remind the city's home owners to prepare the waste paper, to be stacked at the curb as early as possible Saturday morning. Members of the office of civilian defense and veterans' organizations also will help in the salvage drive.

A goal of 5,000 tons of waste paper has been set for Chicago by William L. McFetridge, campaign chairman. Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, chairman of the OCD tin salvage committee, appealed yesterday for increased tin can contributions from housewives, restaurants, hotels, and institutions.

JOHN WARNER SAYS TO THE MAN WHO DOESN'T WANT TO BE BALD . . .

"We'll gladly examine your hair and scalp and tell you its exact condition—and without charge for one very good reason. Because there may be nothing wrong with your scalp, or there may be so much wrong with it that we just can't help you at all. But if you have the usual local hair and scalp conditions such as excessive oiliness, dryness or itchiness that cause as much as 85% of all baldness then, undoubtedly, we can help you.

Our examinations are always without charge to give you a chance to learn the truth about your hair and scalp and to let you decide if you want treatment.

We do not and cannot re-grow hair on bald heads, and we will not accept your case for treatment unless improvement is reasonably certain. We have grown rapidly from year to year because of our satisfied clientele."

Ex-Chicagoan to Wed Miss Longworth

BY JUDITH CASS.

The many new friends that Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and her daughter, Miss Paulina Longworth, made when they were here for the national Republican convention, as well as all their old friends, will be interested in the announcement that Mrs. Longworth of Washington, D. C., and Cincinnati, O., is making today of Paulina's engagement to Alexander McCormick Sturm. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Justin C. Sturm of Westport, Conn., formerly of Chicago. The wedding is expected to take place later this summer at Magnolia, Mass., where Mrs. Longworth and her daughter are spending the month of August.

Paulina Longworth.

Miss Longworth's father had served six years as speaker of the house of representatives at the time of his death in 1941. Her mother is the former Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the late President Theodore Roosevelt and his first wife, the late Alice Lee Roosevelt. The Longworths were married in the White House in February, 1906.

Miss Longworth was born in Chicago's Lying-In hospital on St. Valentine's day in 1925 and promptly was called a "second Princess Alice" because family friends saw a strong resemblance to her mother. Three months later the baby received her first wedding present, a check for $1,000 from the late Mrs. Marshall Field, who said she was making the gift then because she felt that she would not be here to select one at the proper time.

Miss Longworth attended schools in Cincinnati, the Madeira school, and Vassar college, and made her debut in Cincinnati in 1942. Her fiancé was graduated from the Avon school and from Davenport college at Yale university last November. He is a grandson of Mrs. Alexander A. McCormick and the late Mr. McCormick of Chicago, who was editor and publisher of the Chicago Evening Post and other newspapers.

Young Mr. Sturm has written and illustrated two books—"The Problem Fox," which was published four years ago when he was 17, and "Ambush to Zig-Zag," published a year later. His mother is the former Katherine McCormick. She and Mr. Sturm, a well known sculptor, author and playwright, were married near London in 1922, with Mrs. Sturm's cousin, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr., among the attendants. They lived in Lake Forest until Mr. Sturm's first book, "The Bad Samaritan," was published in 1926.

Wedding News.

Miss Nancy Brown Scribner and Lt. William Thompson Kirk IV. have set Aug. 19 as their wedding date, now that he has returned from duty overseas as an army air force bombardier. He recently won the distinguished flying cross. Because Miss Scribner's brothers, Lt. Gilbert Hilton Scribner Jr. of the naval reserve and Lt. William Van Dyke Scribner of the army, and Lt. Kirk's father, Comdr. Kirk III., all are overseas, the wedding at the Fox Point Meeting house, Fox Point, Wis., will be small. A reception will follow at the Fox Point summer home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scribner of Winnetka.

Miss Scribner will return to Fox Point on Wednesday from Morristown, N. J., where she has been visiting Lt. Kirk's mother. Mrs. Kirk and her four sons will come west for the wedding.

Formal announcements of the marriage of Mrs. Frances Canfield Mitchell and Gilbert E. Keebler will be received in the mail today by their Chicago friends. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Canfield of the Seneca hotel, are making the announcement. The wedding took place over the week-end, and Mr. Keebler and his bride have gone to New York.

Before going east, they entertained members of the families at a breakfast yesterday in Camellia House of the Drake hotel. Mrs. Keebler's 8 year old son, Bob Mitchell, accompanied his mother and stepfather east, and will remain in New York for a visit with his grandmother, Mrs. Lawrence Gould, until the Keeblers return to the Drake after Sept. 1. Missing from the family breakfast yesterday was the bride's twin sister, Mrs. Robert T. Kingsley, who is with her husband, Lt. Kingsley of the army air forces, in Denver, Colo.

Here and There.

The return on leave of three Lake Forest naval officers, Lt. Comdr. Clifford T. Rodman, Lt. [j.g.] Gerald V. Hollins Jr., and Lt. Sewall Gardner, has been the occasion for a round of entertaining by their friends and neighbors. Comdr. Rodman was home only a few days before reporting to the west coast for further sea duty. Lt. Hollins, who has also just returned from more than a year in the Pacific, will take Mrs. Hollins and their two children, Peter and Danny, with him when he reports to San Diego at the end of his 30 day leave. Lt. and Mrs. Gardner are leaving today for the west coast. Mrs. Gardner will return to Lake Forest when her husband goes to sea.

Mrs. William Sherwood Howe and her new daughter, Beatrice Blair, who was born on July 14 in Passavant hospital, are at home in Winnetka with Mrs. Howe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Barrett. They and Beatrice's young sisters, Barrett Anne and Bellany, will be living there while Lt. Howe is on duty with the navy in South America. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony L. Howe of Pelham Manor, N. Y., are the children's paternal grandparents.

When the Children's Civic theater opens the summer season with a costumed performance tonight of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and the circus ballet, "Man Who Lost His Head," the audience will be generously sprinkled with members of the Chicago Drama league, who sponsor the free theater project. The show will open at 8 p. m. in Thorne hall of the Northwestern university downtown campus, Lake Shore dr. and Superior st. Among those entertaining beforehand and bringing friends to view the results of their young proteges' weeks of intensive training, will be the league's president, Mrs. Alvin W. Jenkisson, Mrs. William E. Vogelback, and Mrs. Victor L. Schrager. On hand to greet arriving guests and assist the youthful actors will be Mrs. William Haywood, the theater chairman, and committee members, Miss Florence Flickinger, Mrs. John Dammers, Mrs. George B. Wendt, Mrs. Cora Jepson, Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, Mrs. Leon B. Logan, Mrs. George A. Sanford, and Mrs. Ira Humphrey.

Thru the Looking Glass

Hot weather is a hard task master for women who like to be well groomed.

If you're young enough to face the world sans makeup it's a cinch, but if you've reached the age where you must maintain a facade of suavely madeup face and well coiffed hair you have to battle relentlessly against the wilting effect of heat. There is just no other course. The only thing worse for the woman of 30 or more than a face without makeup is a face on which the makeup has melted and slipped! It adds ten years to your age and brings your grooming score down to zero.

In humid weather the best makeup base in the world is going to crumble a little faster than it ordinarily would, and the most perfectly textured lipstick is going to slither beyond the mouth outlines. If you're normally healthy you're going to perspire, too, and that plays heck with your face powder. And your hair will go limp.

The solution is just to make up oftener in the course of a day and to do a good repair job as often as you efficiently can. Use a light makeup base, and above all, use a skin lotion or freshener before you apply any makeup at all. The faintest smidge of greasy cream left on your skin will play havoc. Using a brisk lotion after cleansing cream will erase every bit of cream, visible and invisible, and give you a cleaner, cooler surface on which to apply your makeup. The latter will last longer.

Brush your hair more, too, in hot weather, and shampoo it oftener. Lank locks are dreadful. A mildly astringent lotion used between shampoos will remove a lot of the excess oil, perspiration, and dust from scalp and hair.

In hot weather it's looking cool and clean that earns you a reputation for attractiveness.

Trim Fashions Replace Loose College Attire

BY REA SEEGER.

All the college shops are now open! Crammed with new ideas for campus wardrobes and staffed with counselors from virtually every well known college in the country, these gay haunts of the freshman to be and her cash are going full blast. Since a college wardrobe rates second in importance only to a wedding trousseau, and since the first impression gained by this most impressionable crowd is usually the one that lingers, this college wardrobe assembling stunt is no casual shopping expedition.

This year brings a big change in college clothes. Sloppy ill-fitting sweaters, too large jackets and cardigans, and sagging and unpressed skirts are definitely frowned upon by critics. Neatness registers—with a capital N. Sleek, streamlined silhouettes are a necessity, the shambling walk is also out. The brisk snap of a well assembled costume, trim as the uniforms of men and women in service, is as carefully cultivated as was the casual nonchalance of former years.

One American designer has the honor of bringing about this sensational change. Assuming that the college girl will recognize the new and snappy outfit hours sooner than others, Claire McCardell will have earned the credit for introducing it. In her line are stunning jumper wrap-overs, wild, strong colors, stripes in long sleeved blouses and shirts, and clever Scotch plaids, woven—of all places—right down in Kentucky.

Miss McGuire Wed Today to Col. Henebry

Before a small family group gathered at 10 a. m. today in St. Laurence's Catholic church, Miss Mary Elizabeth McGuire and Col. John P. Henebry will be married by the bride's uncle, the Rev. Patrick J. McGuire, pastor of the church. Another uncle, the Rev. Henry McGuire, will say the mass. The bride, one of the seven children of Dr. Walter G. McGuire of Ellis av., will be attended by her sister, Frances, Walter G. McGuire Jr. is to be the best man.

Col. Henebry, son of Mrs. Joseph A. Henebry of Plainfield, Ill., is in this country after serving in the South Pacific, where he heads a light bomber squadron and has completed 142 missions. He attended the University of Notre Dame, and Miss McGuire studied at Sacred Heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Sheridan have returned to Highland Park from St. Petersburg, Fla., where their son, Lt. Donald Tilden Sheridan of the army air forces, and Miss Patricia Haynes were married on July 23. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Haynes of Highland Park were unable to make the trip south, but Lt. Sheridan's brother-in-law and sister, Lt. and Mrs. Daniel Cunningham [Irene Sheridan] went from Jacksonville, Fla. Lt. Sheridan and his bride are living in St. Petersburg near his post, Pinellas field.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Stuart Niles of Evanston announce the marriage of their daughter, Marjorie, to Lt. Robert C. Kime, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Kime of Orlando, Fla., on July 15 in St. John's Episcopal church, Fayetteville, N. C. Lt. Kime and his bride will live in Fayetteville while he is stationed at Fort Bragg. The bride graduated from the Ward-Belmont school and from Northwestern university. Lt. Kime received his degree from the University of Florida.

Announcement is made of the marriage on June 23 in the Winnetka Congregational church of Miss Eleanor Annette Roys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Roys of Oak Park, to Lt. [j. g.] Frederick Homer Haye of Rockford. Mrs. Don Hayden Rose of Winnetka was matron of honor, and B. Jay Knight of Rockford, the bridegroom's uncle, was best man. Lt. Haye, who has been serving for 18 months in the South Pacific with the naval reserve, has taken his bride to his new post in Seattle, Wash. She was graduated from the University of Illinois, and he received degrees from Lake Forest college and from Kent College of Law.

Progress.

Last Monday morning on the Humboldt Park "L" a WCG sat across from me absorbed in "Essentials of Italian Grammar." Tuesday she was reading "Il Risorgimento," and the next morning it was Giacosa's "Tristi Amori," both of which are fairly heavy reading. That's what I call progress!

Shopper's Special.

You buy rayon and once you used to buy nylon. If you want to know how rayon and nylon fabrics are made, if you'd like to learn about leather goods, woolens, silverware, glassware, etc., read "Know Your Merchandise," by Wingate, Gillespie, and Addison, published by Harper, a new book to safeguard your pay check.

Librarian's Day.

At the beginning of the day little Willie comes in to the branch library with a playmate, Willie crying, the playmate explaining: "He cut his hand with a piece of glass." I take him to the washroom, rinse his hand and, poised with a bottle of mercurochrome, ask: "Where does it hurt?" He looks down at his surprisingly clean hand, smiles and says, "Hurt's all gone now."

A steady patron comes up to the desk with a sheet of paper and envelope. Will I be so kind as to write a few words for him? I get a blotter and pen and say, "Okay, let's go." He begins laboriously, "Dear George: Thank you again for the money you sent. Am feeling better." And so on and so forth, ending, "Your dear brother."

This seems to be my red letter day. A distraught creature with an unfinished letter approaches me. "Please, just add a few words to this. Write, 'Don't forget, Max, I don't want you to argue with your wife. After all there are many fellows who would be glad to have a wife like her. Your place is with your wife. Your mother only wants things for your good'." Poor woman! She tries to kiss my hand in gratitude.

At the end of the day a rattled individual rushes in to demand why the book she reserved hasn't come. "What book?" I ask wearily. "O, I don't remember exactly—something like 'Over-the-Covers.' I check the list waiting for "Under Cover," acknowledge her thanks, grab my hat and sing "praise be!" for closing time.

Woman's Symphony Plays in Windswept Grant Park

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Grant park last night resembled a combination of the north pole and the Oklahoma dust bowl, but these trifling discomfitures did not discourage an audience that appeared to fill all available seats. Luckily for the performers it was a north wind, and altho the members of the Woman's Symphony orchestra, snuggling cosily in the protecting shell, had their difficulties, they could not be blamed on the weather.

The orchestra brought its own soloists, and the result was at least as happy as some of the summer's importations. One was featured: Evelyn Davis, the concertmistress of the orchestra. The other played anonymously from the ranks. But Margaret Jean Cree's warm and vibrant way with the cello solo in Victor Herbert's "Irish Rhapsody" was one of the most enjoyable moments of the evening, and gave rise to regret that some one had seen fit to excise the solo at the end of Strauss' "Emperor" waltz.

Mrs. Davis, a towen of strength in the Woman's Symphony, played Wieniawski's bag of tricks on the ancient Russian tune, "The Red Sarafan," which he called "Souvenir de Moscow." It is pure 19th century, but it enabled the composer to get more out of a fiddle than most of his latter day successors have been able to, and Mrs. Davis overlooked none of the opportunities. It was solid, capable, and likable violin playing, and the audience seemed to agree, for it demanded two encores: Kreisler's "Tambourin Chinois" and what sounded to this reporter, retreating in the distance, like Kreisler's arrangement of Heuberger's "Midnight Bells."

The orchestra under Jerzy Bojanowski had its ups and downs. The overture to Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra," tho scarcely flawless, was perhaps the best, for it was spirited and achieved some well calculated Rossinian crescendos. In both the prelude to "Lohengrin" and the "Emperor" waltz, Mr. Bojanowski's movements seemed to get in the way of his conducting. Something, at least, impeded the normal rhythmical flow of these pieces.

Harms park will be the setting today for the 70th Old Settlers' picnic and reunion, which annually draws 5,000 pioneers of Chicago and Cook county for contests, games, and reminiscence.

Ravinia Again Exceeds Self—86,040 Attend

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw, conductor. Presented at Ravinia Sunday afternoon, Aug. 6, 1944. The program:

Ballet Suite, from "Céphale and Procris" ..... Gretry-Mottl
Symphony No. 3, E-flat major, "Rhenish" ..... Schumann
Symphonic Poem, "Le Chasseur Maudit" ..... Franck
Roumanian Rhapsody No. 1..... Enesco
Overture to "Tannhäuser"..... Wagner

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Despite the troubles of travelers in war time, the ninth Ravinia festival set a new attendance record of 86,040 customers at 25 concerts—24 of them by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and one by the Paulist choir—during the season which ended yesterday afternoon. The good news was given to the Ravinia "family" of trustees, guarantors and faithful ticket sellers last night by Howell W. Murray, chairman of the guaranty committee, speaking at the annual Ravinia roundup.

This is not only a new attendance record, topping last season's previous high of 80,593 for 24 concerts, but it also set a new average per concert of 3,442, an increase over last season's figure of 3,358. The largest 1944 attendance at a concert was for that played by Alexander Brailowsky and Desire Defauw last Saturday night when 7,686 people thronged the park. That figure will take third place in the festival compilation, exceeded only by Artur Rubinstein's 8,423 last season and by the late George Gershwin's 7,831 in 1936.

Altho the Chicago Symphony orchestra played two concerts Sunday, last night's was a private affair, more party than concert. Another of its speakers was Percy Eckhart, chairman of the festival, who presented to Mrs. Louis Eckstein a scroll bearing the trustees' resolution of gratitude for her gift of Ravinia Park to the community, and dedicated the granite boulder which has been placed in the petunia bed as a memorial to the late Louis Eckstein.

The festival proper ended with the afternoon's concert under the direction of Mr. Defauw, altho there will be the usual four post-season concerts by the Budapest string quartet, opening Thursday night. Only two of the afternoon's selections were new to Mr. Defauw's Chicago repertory, Enesco's first Roumanian Rhapsody and the overture to "Tannhauser," neither precisely in the novelty class.

The Enesco, which usually sounds as if Smetana had written it, had more than a touch of Sousa in Mr. Defauw's lively lunges, and it was well played in that style despite a misunderstanding in the winds. Wagner has long been one of our orchestra's strong points, and the "Tannhauser" had its beautiful moments, altho there was a good deal of transitional awkwardness in reaching them. The best of the concert was a deft performance of the music from the Gretry-Mottl ballet suite, "Cephale and Procris." The Schumann "Rhenish" symphony was thick as molasses in January, and "Le Chausseur Maudit" was precisely the Franckian flourish Mr. Defauw made of it the last time. Depends on how much you like it.

47 Adelines Compete This Week in Trials

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Preliminary trials in the "Sweet Adeline" contest of the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival will open at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Trianon ballroom, 62d st. and Cottage Grove av. Twenty-two contestants living on the south and southwest sides and within 40 miles of Chicago will compete at the Trianon. On Wednesday night the 25 Adelines living west, northwest, and north will compete at the Aragon ballroom, Lawrence av. and Broadway.

Lawrence Welk [top] and Eddy Howard.

The entrants all have the name of Adeline and are working in war plants. From the 47 a "queen" will be chosen, and she and a court of honor of nine runners-up will appear in Soldiers' field on Aug. 19 at the Festival concert. The "Queen" will be crowned by Harry Armstrong, who wrote the popular song, "Sweet Adeline."

At each of the ballrooms 10 Adelines will be selected by the guests, and these 20 will appear in the semi-finals on Aug. 12 at The Chicago Theater of the Air in Grant park. There the audience will choose 10 favorites, who will compete in the finals at the Festival luncheon, Aug. 18, in the Terrace Cassino of the Morrison hotel.

At the Trianon, Lawrence Welk and his orchestra will provide a musical setting for the contest, with Carl Craven leading in community singing, and the Sparkaliers, singing trio, providing special numbers. At the Aragon, Eddy Howard and his orchestra will be featured during the "Sweet Adeline" ceremony. Frank Bennett will lead community singing.

On Wednesday night, Aug. 16, all the Adelines participating in the two ballroom contests will be guests of the Cleveland and Buffalo Steamship company on the City of Grand Rapids for a moonlight excursion, sailing at 9:30 o'clock from the Michigan av. bridge.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Approximately 11,000 women may justifiably take pride in the third anniversary today of the Chicago service men's center No. 1, 176 W. Washington st. They are the volunteers who devote many hours to duty at that center, as well as those in the former Auditorium hotel, at 50 E. 49th st., and the summer center at Fullerton av. and the lake in Lincoln park.

Center No. 1 was opened four months before Pearl Harbor, in three floors of the former Elks' club building. Now it occupies all 14 floors. Since its founding at the inspiration of Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of the mayor, and under the jurisdiction of the Chicago commission on national defense, the center has served to men and women in uniform almost 7,000,000 frankfurters, 7,000,000 sandwiches, 5,000,000 cups of coffee, and monumental amounts of cookies, cake, candy, cigarets, soft drinks, and ice cream, largely contributed by generous Chicagoans.

Recreational facilities also have attracted more than 12,000,000 uniformed visitors to the center. They may send home recordings of their voices, take lessons in new dance steps, bowl on the 12 alleys, play pool or billiards, read best sellers or their hometown newspapers, and obtain tickets to plays provided by the amusement and recreation division, composed of representatives of Chicago theaters.

Soldiers, sailors, marines, and coast guardsmen also find at the center a craft shop, a photo studio, free optical, sewing, and stenographic services, nursing care, and the companionship of young women for turns around the dance floor.

The Chicago metropolitan unit of the American Women's Voluntary Services, participating in the national A. W. V. S. war time clothing conservation program, will present a series of style shows with the cooperation of Marshall Field & Co. on the second floor fabrics section of the store twice daily for three days beginning next Monday.

The "sew, serve, and save" program will be demonstrated with "before and after" fashions, showing how last year's dress or coat may be remade into a smart garment for the 1944 autumn season. A. W. V. S. also will have a workshop in conjunction with the parade fo mannequins.

Mrs. Lawrence Nelson Jr. is general chairman of the Chicago unit. Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh will be directing chairman of the fashion program, with Mrs. Frank E. Clark heading the workshop. Other A. W. V. S. members working on the project are Mrs. Duane Watts, Mrs. William Wolf, Miss Priscilla Payne, Mrs. Roy Olin, Miss Elise Runyan, Miss Hazel Erwin, and Miss Mary Louise Laird.

The Chicago Y. W. C. A. has taken a forward step in war time vocational counseling for women. Mrs. I. Roberta Bell has been assigned to work directly with Negro women and girls thru the Y. W.'s South Park way center. Recognizing the problems of the Negro woman, unaccustomed to factory work, city life, and the tempo of war industry, Mrs. Bell will help the women to adjust to their new vocational role, and to interpret their problems to personnel managers of plants.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 6.—Veronica Lake is so angelic these days she's a cross between Shirley Temple and Little Eva. She's even ahead of time for her appointments. What she's trying for is the lead in the Wilder-Brackett picture "Lost Week-End." She may get it, too. . . . What's this? Mickey Rooney is trying to form his own producing organization when he's out of the army. I hear his friends have already filed papers for him in Arizona. . . . Buddy de Sylva is dancing in jig-time. He's got Leo McCarey signed on the dotted line to do his second picture. . . . Hal Wallis has bought his fifth story. It's "Don't Ever Grieve Me" by Robert M. Smith, a light comedy about three returned flyers and a girl whom all corresponded with like mad. Each flyer thinks he's head man. Hal's also put 19 year old Charles Cooper under contract. He was a handsome lifeguard at Santa Monica. . . . You'd double up if you knew the reason Mimi Forsythe Bogeaus won't ask for damages from the Santa Fe railroad for that broken wrist she suffered in the wreck.

Think Nothing of It.

Barbara Stanwyck's name as the girl in "God Is My Co-Pilot" was a slip of the typewriter. Barbara's just finished one. Andrea King, newcomer, plays the part. The other day Robert Buckner, who's producing that picture, was listening to the story of a pilot who did some miraculous things but never flew unless his pet monkey was sitting on his shoulder. One of Buckner's assistants said, "Wouldn't that be a swell stunt to put in the picture?" Buckner replied, "Maybe, but haven't you forgotten the title of this picture?" . . . It isn't a blonde Artie Shaw's interested in—it's a beautiful brunette. . . . Fred MacMurray's first picture for William Perlberg at Twentieth, "Where Do We Go from Here," starts rolling tomorrow with newcomer Jean Sheldon playing the comedy role.

It's a Swell Book.

Tommy Treanor's book, "One Damn Thing After Another," came out at the right time. A chapter is devoted to him in Curt Riess' book, "They Were There," and a magazine is running a story of Tommy's this week. For a correspondent who wasn't supposed to be at the front, Treanor gets around, and he packs a terrific wallop. I like especially the stuff he wrote about India, and the dedication: "To my wife, who had to stay home with the children." When his son read that, he said, "Why didn't he write 'To my wife and children, who stayed home'?" He's 11. . . . Richard Whorf's admonition to his actors the day he started directing "Autumn Fever" ran: "Kids, if you'll all pitch in and help, the studio will release the picture instead of me."

This Lady Has Plans.

Loretta Young's first present was a baby bonnet sent by Lily Dache. Loretta says it's so frilly Christopher will balk at wearing it, so she's putting it away for his sister. . . . Arthur Walsh did a quick change from a sad sailor in "Two Girls and a Sailor." He's been demoted to a bus boy in "Autumn Fever." . . . Henry Daniels, the tennis player who turned actor at Katharine Hepburn's suggestion, plays a navy bomber pilot in "Airship Squadron 4" and razzes Wallace Beery because he's a blimp pilot. . . . Ingrid Bergman paid $65,000 for her new home, which Charles Hopper built as a playhouse. Paul Granard furnished it. It has a living room 120 feet long. I've attended many happy parties there when the Hoppers had it.

Doubling in Grease Paint.

Wallace Ford bought himself a bicycle and is pedaling his way between "The Great John L." and "The House of Dr. Edwardes." He's also busy with Pat O'Brien and James Cagney working up a play to take around to hospitals and army camps. He'd like "Broadway," in which he starred years ago. . . . Esther Fernandez packs a whole new Edith Head wardrobe back to Mexico with her. Edith also designed Betty Hutton's clothes for her personal appearance tour. When Betty's finished with that, she hops overseas. When I asked her about it, she said, "I'm not going to have my grandchildren saying, 'Why didn't you go over to entertain the fellows?'" Then she turned to me and said, "Do you think I look like a Japanese spy, Hedda? The FBI wants to know." . . . David Rose, Paramount's London man, lingered in our town long enough to have his nose rebuilt. It was broken by a bomb in a London raid. He has made 19 trans-Atlantic crossings since the war started.

West led the spade 10. Declarer won with the jack and returned a club. West's failure to follow was a blow, but declarer took a long view of the situation and still put in dummy's jack. East won and, as South had feared, shifted to a diamond. Declarer held up the ace while West won with the eight and queen of diamonds, but then took the next diamond lead.

Now declarer entered dummy with a spade and tried a finesse to the heart jack. It lost to West, but when no diamond return was forthcoming, declarer saw the light. Obviously, East had started with five diamonds; he had shown four clubs and two spades, hence could have only two hearts. The heart suit, then, could not break, but another line of play was guaranteed to succeed.

West, after winning the heart queen, led a spade. Declarer discarded a heart from dummy as he won in his own hand, then cashed the king and ace of hearts, in that order. Inevitably, East was squeezed. He had to keep all three of his remaining clubs to guard dummy's suit, hence could not hold a diamond. Declarer cashed the diamond seven, then collected his two club tricks.

No Denying It: The Date Rules Have Changed

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

On the Solid Side

Maybe it's because many of the local joes have gone G. I. and the date-bait selection is more choice for those fellows still around; maybe it's because honeychiles have slipped up somewhere—but the fact remains that the old boy-dates-girl rules have changed. It is a rare young character these days who rates a jackson who will make a date seven evenings ahead of schedule and prefaces his visits with flowers and candy. Here's a letter from two gals which sums up the sad situation:

"We are two 16 year old girls, and we have often wondered what we could do to counteract a certain idea which boys in our school have. They seem to take us all for granted, and when dances come along they give us a moment's notice when asking for a date. In what way can we show them that they aren't the bosses and that we have equal rights as the fairer sex?"

Young jackson may change his ways if he finds himself without a date for one of his last minute evenings. Most fellows don't mean to be discourteous, but if gals are available at 7:30 any evening, why bother making arrangements earlier? There is a fine shade of difference between being a "good sport" and an "easy date."

Next time a joe asks you for a date on the deadline, think it over. If it is to be a coke-and-a-walk or a malt-and-movie evening [something that might be last-minute in his planning, too], you can accept and still be a particular pigeon. But if the invitation is for a dance or a pre-planned party, tell him your schedule already is filled.

If a boy really thinks a girl is in the slightly wonderful department, he should be willing to make his date plans earlier—for a good gal, is that asking too much?

'Four Jills in a Jeep,' as Movie, Tries Hard but It Gets Nowhere

"FOUR JILLS IN A JEEP."

A 20th Century-Fox picture, directed by William A. Seiter, featuring Kay Francis, Carole Landis, Martha Raye, and Mitzi Mayfair, and presented at the Chicago.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

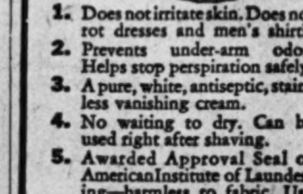

I shall immediately fortify myself against the accusation of being a lady heel by declaring my admiration for the "Jills" of this picture and their actual war work. They have been brave and fine and enduring, and many a service man blesses them for the cheer their smiles and entertainment brought during their tour of overseas camps. BUT I DON'T LIKE THIS PICTURE based on their travels.

It tries so hard and gets so nowhere! Supposedly a chronicle of the girls' tour, it is just a conglomeration of everything in the world you could think of and plenty that wouldn't occur to you. . . . It is forced, it is unbelievable, it is tiresome—

And I hope you like it! I really do.

See you tomorrow.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Women are at last learning how to cook spinach, and, as a result fewer children and husbands refuse to eat it; more of them ask to have it for supper.

Spinach steamed or cooked covered with only the water which clings to the leaves after washing is deep green in color, fresh looking, and fresh tasting. It doesn't even faintly resemble the faded, drab, slippery, soft stuff which once came out of the kettle, having boiled for an hour or so, until it had lost all character. That was the spinach that gave itself a bad reputation.

Liking my vegetables in a near natural state, I have a preference for cooked spinach served plain, or with only a little butter or bacon drippings helping out the salt and pepper. But any family which has a bumper spinach crop to harvest this summer will want to supplement spinach plain with spinach in other dress.

Spinach ring is a handsome dish, the center of which may be filled with creamed new potatoes—sprinkled with paprika, or with cooked carrots.

Spinach Ring.

- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cups cooked, chopped spinach
- ½ cup soft bread crumbs
- 2 cups white sauce
- 2 eggs, separated
- Salt, pepper

Brown the onion in butter. Make the white sauce, using ¼ cup butter or margarine, 5 tablespoons flour and 2 cups milk. Combine sauce, onion, spinach, crumbs, and beaten egg yolks. Season with salt and pepper and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in greased ring mold in pan of hot water for 45 minutes, or until set. Oven temperature should be 375 degrees. Unmold onto hot platter. Fill center of ring with another vegetable contrasting in color, or with a creamed food, if desired.

Here's a good variation for cooked spinach. While the vegetable is cooking, melt ¼ cup margarine [if you're serving four to six] and add ½ cup fine, dry crumbs. Let the crumbs brown. When the spinach is ready, stir it into the crumb mixture, add the juice of half a lemon and salt and pepper to season.

Don't forget how good spinach is with eggs as a luncheon dish. Hard cooked eggs often are served with it, but one of the most attractive of spinach and egg combinations is the baked egg in spinach nest. To prepare the dish, partly fill greased muffin cups with cooked spinach. Make hollows in the greens and break an egg into each nest. Cover each egg with a tablespoon of cream, sprinkle with salt and pepper and with grated cheese, if liked; then bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set.

Omelet may be folded or not, but should be served at once.

Afghan Pattern

For those who desire that touch of "utter femininity" in their crocheted afghans, this tiny flower design is a perfect selection. The minute medallions are crocheted separately and may be joined as the work progresses, or when afghan is completed.

Child's Fears Often Related to His Health

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My little boy has developed a sort of nervous fearfulness, which worries me a great deal. He never used to be afraid—there has been no change in his home life or surroundings—but now he is actually timid, and if we urge him to do something he fears [and we stay close to him at the time], he bursts into tears and holds back firmly. Can you give us any suggestions?"

It has been said that a person who has a nervous breakdown or who is in a mental state that predisposes him to fearfulness, may fix upon almost anything as an object for fear. Furthermore, if he is argued out of that particular one, his emotional state will make him fix upon something else to be afraid of.

Some times we see this in a mild form in children. A little child will draw back from every unfamiliar experience with fear. He may show timidity where he hasn't shown it before. He may cry at the prospect of going to the dentist, or when you go out and leave him. You may notice a number of fears or a general apprehensiveness.

If you observe that your child is in such a state, it is an excellent plan to look well into his general physical condition. Low physical tone often manifests itself in nervousness, and when the organism is in that state a child is predisposed to fear. On the other hand, a child who is "top notch" is not inclined to general fearfulness.

So, a health examination is suggested. Then, if nothing specific is found to be wrong, let your doctor decide whether he thinks your child is in a state of positive health, because just discovering that no one thing is wrong, is decidedly not enough.

To help our children to live heartily, happily, and in a normal frame of mind, we should try to secure for them positive abundant health. To accomplish this, we should look to their food and their rest, as well as to their exercise, fresh air, their busy-ness, and their diversion. Frequently, a special emphasis on certain vitamins is needed.

Of course there are many childhood fears which disappear with growth and experience, but my advice is, if your child is generally fearful or apprehensive in many small ways, to ask your doctor to help you to build your child up to the maximum of health.

Child Agency Asks Sally for 2 Buggies and Play Pen

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A child-placing agency has sent the following request:

"Would it be possible for you to make an appeal to your readers asking for a play pen and two baby buggies for two of our wards now in foster homes? One of these children is now 1 year old, and has been in our care only since July 24. Her father is a prisoner of war overseas, and she and her sister were abandoned by their mother. We found them in the home of grandparents who had rejected them. Since the baby has been in the foster home, she has given an immediate response to the love and care of the foster mother. She is very active and needs both the play pen and the buggy badly. At present it is impossible for the foster mother to take her out, and she is too heavy to carry.

"The second child is a 10 month old girl who has been in our care since February. This child's mother walked out of the hospital 48 hours after delivery, and has not given any response to published appeals. The baby needs to be taken out for walks, and she, too, is much too heavy to be carried.

"We do hope some of your readers will be able to supply these three badly needed articles."

Further information will be provided to any interested readers.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Stuffed Pork Chops with Scalloped Potatoes.

[Serves six.]

- 6 double thick pork chops, slit to form pocket
- 18 large or 24 small prunes, soaked
- Salt and pepper
- 6 medium potatoes
- Flour
- 3 cups milk [about]

Stuff pork chops with soaked and pitted prunes; sprinkle with salt and pepper and trim off excess fat. Fry out fat in skillet and brown chops in the fat. Meanwhile, peel and slice potatoes thinly and arrange in large casserole or baking dish. Sprinkle each layer of potatoes lightly with salt, pepper, and flour. Remove chops from skillet and pour off all except about 2 tablespoons of the fat. Add milk and heat to boiling, stirring to prevent scorching. Pour milk over potatoes and top with browned chops. Cover and bake in moderate [350 degrees] oven for 45 minutes; removing cover last 10 minutes to allow potatoes to brown. MRS. W. H. OATWAY,

The women who wouldn't sit and wait

IT ISN'T EASY to say "good-by" to the family, and to friends, and to nice long week ends.

It may not be natural for a woman to salute and stand at attention and say "Yes, sir"...

But ask any Wac if she'd change places with anyone in the world—and the answer would be "No!"

For deep down inside, every Wac knows the enormous satisfaction of being truly useful at a time of critical need.

The Wac spirit is a gallant spirit. The spirit of women who would rather be in the war, than sitting and waiting for it to end.

The Wac pride is an honest pride. In a job well done. In being part of the Army of the U. S.

You really have to hand it to the women of the WAC....

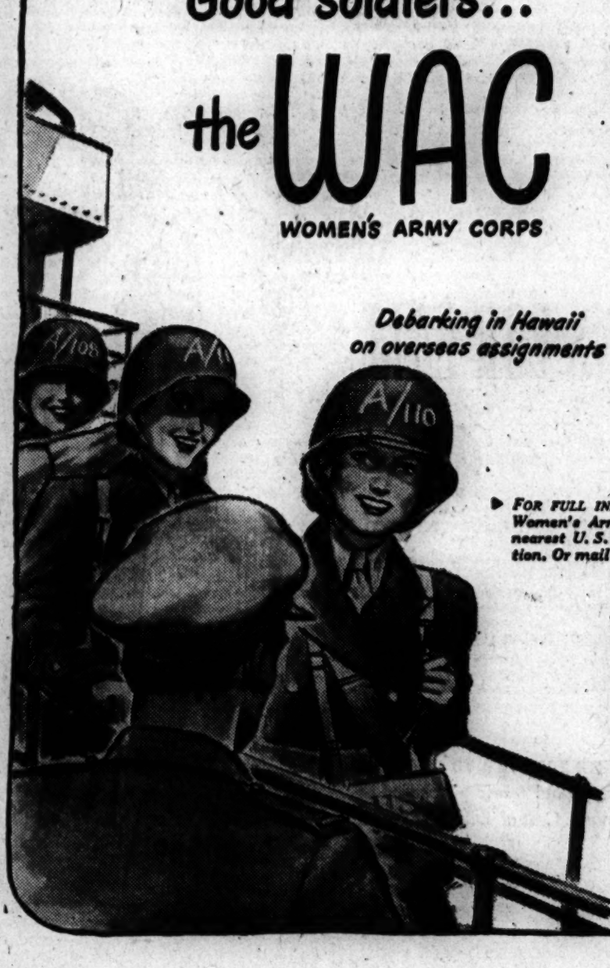

For they symbolize everything that is America.

TIGERS GIVE SOX AND 18,801 TWO JOLTS, 10-3, 3-1

Trout Pitches, Hits for 17th Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The 18,801 fans who yesterday brought Comiskey park attendance for 52 games to 474,077, saw the White Sox take two more whippings from the Detroit Tigers, 10 to 3 in the first game, and 3 to 1 in the second.

Dizzy Trout.

Thus the Detroiters swept the series, a series in which the Sox, perhaps frightened by having reached the .500 mark in a sweep of their series with the Cleveland Indians, made 12 errors—five Saturday night, five in the first game yesterday, and two in the second game.

The Sox, if they pursue their in-and-out habits, will kick the stuffing out of their next foes, the Red Sox, whom they will meet in Boston Wednesday in the first of a four game series. However, the Chicagoans haven't won a game in Boston this year and trail in the over-all Boston season series, two victories to 12 for Joe Cronin's boys.

Trout Hits Homer, Double.

The score of the first game yesterday, 10 to 3, was much closer than the actual play. The Tigers looked at least 50 scores stronger than the Sox as they pounded out 19 hits. The second game was a contest, tho practically a one man performance by Dizzy Trout, who wasn't dizzy at all. The Sox batsmen were dizzy as he pitched and so was poor Orval Grove when Dizzy wielded his bat to help win his 17th game of the season.

To the Tigers' total of six hits, Trout contributed a homer, which broke a scoreless tie with two out in the fifth inning, and a double, which drove in the winning run with two out in the seventh. He yielded only five hits and had a shutout until the seventh when singles by Ralph Hodgin and Hal Trosky and a fly by Thurman Tucker gave the Sox their run.

Overmire Likes the Sox.

Stub Overmire was the winning pitcher in the painful first game and was credited with his sixth success of the season against 11 losses. He has pushed over the Sox three times and the run in the fifth inning was the first they had scored off the little lefty in 23 innings of somewhat pathetic struggling.

Bill Dietrich tried, and briefly, for his 14th victory of the season. He fled during a five run first inning in which the Tigers made four hits and the fumbling Sox made three of their five errors.

Doc Cramer and Eddie Mayo singled to open the ludicrous first inning, Cramer scoring on Jimmy Outlaw's fly to Guy Curtright. Singles by Joe Orengo and Dick Wakefield scored Mayo. When Wakefield's drive got away from Eddie Carnett Orengo also scored and Wakefield reached third.

Tigers' Fun Continues.

Pinky Higgins grounded to Cass Michaels, who made a low throw to first, which the scorer thought Trosky should have caught, Wakefield scoring. Paul Richards walked and Eddie Lopat replaced Dietrich. Joe Hoover forced Richards. While Tresh was holding the ball after a pitch to Overmire, Hoover broke for second and was safe when Schalk dropped Tresh's throw. Higgins scored on this error. Overmire then flied to Curtright.

A single by Orengo, a double by Higgins, and a single by Hoover netted the Tigers two runs in the third.

The battling Sox rammed thru for a run in the fifth. Curtright beat out an infield single, and raced to third on two infield outs. Guy pranced proudly home on Tresh's single to left.

And More Sox Errors.

The Tigers added three runs in the ninth on two errors by Michaels, Orengo's third single, Higgins' second double, and a single by Richards. The Sox rallied bravely in the ninth. Doubles by Curtright and Michaels, wrapped around a pass, produced two runs.

It was Vince Castino day and friends of half of the Sox catching staff gave Vince a $1,000 war bond and other gifts.

142 Women to Tee Off Today at Onwentsia

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Women's Western Golf association this morning will begin its 44th annual amateur tournament at the Onwentsia club, continuing thru Saturday's 36 hole championship match. Today will see a field of 142 players from every section of the country teeing off in twosomes from 8 a. m. until 3:55 p. m. The low 32 scorers for today's round will qualify for match play in the championship bracket, which will get under way tomorrow. All other entrants beyond these 32 will be paired in subsidiary flights.

One hundred per cent of the gate receipts will be turned over to the recreation fund of the new Vaughan General hospital for wounded veterans of World War II., as were those of the association's Open tournament, held at Park Ridge in June.

Miss Germain Hits 'Em.

Heading the field will be Dorothy Germain, the Philadelphia collegian who captured the 1943 championship at Evanston, thereby becoming the first easterner to win the trophy. Since Miss Germain's home club is not a member of the W. W. G. A., she is registering temporarily from the St. Charles [Ill.] Country club. Dot, a powerful driver, was also runner-up for the 1944 Western Open crown, losing to the combination of putting and recovery shots with which Mrs. Mildred Didrikson Zaharias eventually won. Mrs. Zaharias is not entered in the current tournament.

Vying with Miss Germain will be a talented cast that includes the other three semi-finalists of the 1943 meet, and the co-medalists. Sharing this latter honor at Evanston were Catherine Fox, English born daughter of a Glen Ridge N. J., professional, who will register from Glen Oak for this event, and Kay Byrne, the New York singer whose tournament address will be Tam O' Shanter.

Miss Cline to Play.

The returning semi-finalists are Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., runner-up to Miss Germain; Miss Fox, and Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O. All of the remaining quarter-finalists of last summer also are returning. This includes Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., 1944 Illinois state title holder and a W. W. G. A. Open semi-finalist; Ann Casey of Mason City, Ia.; Marjorie Row of Detroit, and Betty Jean Rucker of Spokane, Wash.

Ted Wilks, Card Pitcher, Hit in Head by Line Drive

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 6 (AP).—A line drive from Steve Mesner's bat felled Ted Wilks, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher currently leading the National league, in the 13th inning of today's baseball game with the Cincinnati Reds, and he was sent to Christ hospital for X-ray examination. The ball hit Wilks on the left side of his head.

PIRATES STOP CUBS; CAPTURE PAIR, 13-5, 5-4

Chicago's 11 Game String Broken.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 6. — The Cubs' winning streak that had reached 11 game proportions fell apart today with an ear-splitting explosion and a second blast blew them back into the second division. The Pirates ended the streak by a devastating 13 to 5 count in the front half of a double header and then proceeded to upholster their third place position by taking the second affair, 5 to 4, thanks to the fact that the Chicagoans couldn't get the tying run home from third base with one out in the ninth.

The first argument was principally a display of pitchers and more pitchers. The Pirates shook off Hy Vanderberg in a hurry so Boss Charley Grimm, wishing to conserve his staff, turned to the ailing Ed Hanyzewski and Japhet Lynn. But when the Cubs rose up with a three run tying sixth that banished Elwin Cuccurullo, the expert services of Paul Derringer were summoned.

Pirates Gain 5-0 Lead.

Due to southpawing infirmities developed by the usually steady Ben Chipman, the Pirates weren't long in making themselves comfortable with a 5 to 0 leading in the second game, a matter that made it easy for them to swallow five subsequent innings of one hit pitching during Vandenberg's second appearance.

Meanwhile the Cubs were docile until the sixth when they ousted Nick Strincevich with two runs. They added another in the seventh against Preacher Roe, also playing a return performance, and their only other outbreak was that ninth inning effort that sputtered out as quickly as it started.

Vandenberg Routed.

The Pirates got a three run lead over Vandenberg in the first game when a single by Russell and passes to the next two filled the bases with one out. A single by Dahlgren drove in two of the runs and the third scored when Lopez singled off Rescuer Hanyzewski. The Cubs broke into the scoring with a run on Hughes' double and Novikoff's single in the fourth, but the Pirates recovered their three run lead when Barrett tripled against Lynn and scored on an infield out.

Two were out in the sixth before the Cubs started to make their reentry into the argument with the three tying runs for which Nicholson's double, Novikoff's single, Pafko's double, and a single by Johnson were responsibe.

Then came the terrifying nine run seventh against Derringer and Stewart. With one out Barrett walked, Elliott doubled, and Dahlgren was passed, filling the bases. Pinchman Frank Colman drove the three of 'em home by doubling, and subsequently there were other things, notably a two run homer by Barrett after Stewart had relieved Derringer.

Chipman Driven to Cover.

The decline of Chipman in the evening battle began when Dahlgren singled and Di Maggio tripled at the start of the second inning. With the aid of a single by Camelli, who soon thereafter was bounced for speaking unkindly to Umpire Larry Goetz, two runs were accumulated. It was about the same only worse in the third. Rubeling led off with a scratch single and beat an attempt to force him at second on O'Brien's tap to Johnson. A triple by Dahlgren and a single by Di Maggio made it 5 to 0 and also pulled the curtain on Chipman.

Hughes, Cavarretta, Nicholson, and Dallessandro dispatched singles with none out in the sixth, but Roe stepped in and a double play on Pafko and Johnson's fly out held the uprising to two runs. In the next inning Vandenberg, Hack, and Hughes singled in succession with one out, but Roe recovered his balance in time to limit the dividend to one run. This was all until the ninth when with one out Hack and Hughes singled, the former scoring and the latter taking third on an error by Barrett, but Cavarretta grounded to Coscarart and Nicholson was called out on strikes.

Baksi, Savold Meet Tonight; Lou Woods Faces Angelucci

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Joe Baksi, foremost civilian heavyweight challenger from Kulpmont, Pa., and Lee Savold, popular member of the United States maritime service at Hoffman Island, N. Y., will meet in a 10 round bout topping the first major outdoor boxing show of the season in Wrigley field tonight.

It will be their third meeting. Savold was given a split decision over his 210 pound rival in 10 rounds in Madison Square Garden on March 10. Baksi evened the score when he decisively defeated Lee, who weighs 196 pounds, in a rematch of 12 rounds, also in the Garden, two months later.

The achievement was Baksi's 38th victory in 45 starts in his five year campaign. Joe scored points in 10 of the rounds, Savold claiming he was off form due to boot training he had just finished at Hoffman Island.

Had Record of Five Straight.

Savold, who has a record of four straight knockouts in Chicago, is confident he will make it two out of three from Joe this evening. Lee has worked hard for this rubber match and as a result his backers predict he will score a knockout within eight rounds.

Since Baksi never has been knocked out, Lee has a tough chore ahead of him.

Georgie Parks, Washington, D. C., heavyweight, will be in quest of his fifth consecutive triumph at the expense of Larry Lane of Trenton, N. J., in an eight round semi-windup.

Schott to Face Roper.

Freddy Schott, Akron, O., heavyweight stablemate of Savold, will make his first Chicago start in a five round event against Buddy Roper of Indianapolis. Schott will be after his 24th success in a row.

Robert Earl, Roosevelt Thomas, Johnny Flannagan, Doll Rafferty, and Jimmy Sherrer, all Golden Gloves graduates, will appear in three other five round contests on the card. Earl is matched with Rafferty, Milwaukee lightweight; Thomas with Flannagan, Chicago heavyweight, and Sherrer with Sparky Reynolds, Indianapolis welterweight.

A crowd of 18,000 is expected to attend the show, an estimated 8,000 being service men and women guests of the Coliseum Boxing club, sponsor of the program, and the Chicago Amusement commission on national defense.

Sgt. Lou Woods, Camp Grant boxer, who stopped Tommy James a month ago, will return to action in an eight round bout against Lou Angelucci, 1940 city Golden Gloves middleweight champion, tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace st.

The match is an important one for Woods since he will be matched with Ray [Sugar] Robinson in Chicago Stadium Sept. 15 if he wins impressively.

Looked Good Against LaMotta.

In his first test against topnotch competition, Woods made a fine showing while losing a split decision in 10 rounds to Jake LaMotta of New York in the Stadium on March 31. It was Lou's first defeat in 10 contests.

Angelucci has not been beaten since he made his first Chicago start as a money fighter by stopping George Sapolich on the Woods-James program. He followed up that achievement by knocking out Joe Conrad and Eddie Lipsky, beating Bishop Murphy, and fighting a draw with Mike Edwards.

Brown to Face Taylor.

Collins Brown, 1944 Chicagoland Golden Gloves 160 pound title holder, is paired with Tito Taylor in an eight round secondary feature. Brown is undefeated in six starts as a money fighter, winning all except his last appearance against Al Clark, Detroit boxer, who held him on even terms in five rounds. Taylor scored a first round knockout over Bishop Murphy on July 12.

Johnny Bratton, Golden Gloves lightweight finalist, will meet Ted Christie of New York in an eight round preliminary encounter. An eight round opener will bring together Jimmy Hunt, former city Golden Gloves welterweight winner, and Mike Sopko of Indiana Harbor. Sopko lost a disputed verdict to Hunt in an earlier meeting.

Promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun will admit all service men and women without charge.

Rowe, Sailors Defeat Lafayette Nine, 15 to 4

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 6 (AP).—Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe pitched and batted Great Lakes' Bluejackets to a 15 to 4 triumph over the semi-pro Lafayette Red Sox tonight before a record crowd of 6,000. Score:

Great Lakes	203	101	530	15	20	2

Batteries—Rowe and Millies, Cochrane; De Lion, Davis, Keck and Van Antwerp.

[ALL-STAR ROSTER ON NEXT PAGE.]

Henry Frnka of the University of Tulsa, one of the most experienced young coaches in intercollegiate football, will represent the southwest on the All-Star staff. He will arrive at Northwestern university Saturday to help prepare a squad of 65 collegians for their meeting with the Chicago Bears, champions of the National Football league, at Dyche stadium the night of Aug. 30.

Among the All-Star players will be two of Tulsa's all-time greats, Lt. Glenn Dobbs, whose forward passing marksmanship helped rout the Washington Redskins, 27 to 7, in last year's game, and Ellis Jones, one armed guard of the 1943 Tulsa eleven, whose only defeat was a 20 to 18 setback by Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl contest.

Welcomes Luckman as Foe.

Head coach of the Golden Hurricane for the last three years, Frnka's teams have been beaten only three times in that span, two of the defeats coming in Bowl games. In accepting appointment to the All-Star staff Frnka said:

"I've had a lot of fun out of football, but I'm looking forward to service on the All-Star staff as the big thrill of my life. Imagine having 65 players who have starred on the nation's strongest elevens! I'm afraid I'll never be satisfied to settle down with the kind of material we have at Tulsa. I hope the Bears will have Sid Luckman for the All-Star game. He's a great passer, but in Glenn Dobbs we'll show the fans a better one."

The spectacular success of Frnka's Tulsa teams is the result of his hard work and study as a high school coach for 10 years, an assistant on college staffs for four years, and as a scholar of football at all times between seasons. He has taught or been a director in 30 coaching schools.

Starts Career in Texas.

Frnka began his career as a player at Texas Military institute in San Antonio. He continued at Austin college where he played guard and full back under Pete Cawthon, now head coach of the Brooklyn Tigers. He first coached at Lubbock, Tex., High school, 1928 to 1930, and then moved to Greenville. His 10 year high school coaching record included 103 victories, eight defeats, and seven ties. At Greenville he lost only two games and during four of those seasons his teams were undefeated.

Frnka went to Vanderbilt university in 1936 as assistant to Ray Morrison. After three years Morrison moved to Temple and took Frnka with him. One year later Tulsa offered Frnka the combined job of football coach and athletic director.

He Makes Tulsa a Winner.

Tulsa lost only two football games its first year under Frnka and went on to win, 6 to 0, over Texas Tech in the Sun bowl. In 1942 Tulsa played 10 games without a defeat or tie, but lost to Tennessee, 14 to 7, in the Sugar bowl. Tulsa last year was undefeated in its regular schedule, but lost to Georgia Tech by a two point margin in the Sugar bowl.

All-Star players, some of whom will head for Chicago tomorrow and Wednesday, will be quartered in Dyche stadium. Special quarters have been prepared by Tug Wilson and Ade Schumacher of the Wildcats' staff. The first workout is scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Carl Erickson, Northwestern trainer who has served in that capacity for every All-Star squad, again will be on the job.

The applications for tickets are growing apace. There are indications that every seat in the stadium will be sold in advance of the game.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP).—The Boston Braves swept a double header from the Brooklyn Dodgers, 14 to 4 and 8 to 7, today, winning each game as a result of one big inning. Week's Racing Card Headed by 2 Stakes

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Two of the most important stake races of the 70 day coördinated Arlington Park-Washington Park meeting, the $10,000 Meadowland handicap and the $15,000 Dick Welles handicap, are on this week's program at the Homewood plant.

They are numbers 16 and 17 on the schedule of 24 stake events, the Meadowland being slated for Thursday at a mile and a quarter on the turf course and the Dick Welles Saturday at a mile for 3 year olds. Seventeen horses, including four holders of American records on grass courses, have been nominated for the Meadowland. The record holders are Put In, Take Wing, Beautiful II, and Valdina Foe.

Assign Weights Today.

The field is completed by Pirate, Ended, Welcome Pass, Olympus, Bric-a-Bac, Martian, Devalue, Fire Dust, Bolo's Choice, Maejames, Winter Rules, Blueberry Pie, and Son of Peace. Weights will be assigned by Racing Secretary Webb Everett today.

Six horses, including John Marsch's Occupy, are entered for today's feature, the $3,000 Duke of Magenta handicap at 6 furlongs. Occupy, the only 3 year old nominated, will have as his opponents the Brolite farm's Roman Sox, Hal Price Headley's Tellmenow, Ruth Sidell's Burgoo Maid, D. V. McClure's Gold Princess, and Jules Fink's African Sun, which has been assigned top weight of 116 pounds.

Party for Horsemen.

Celebrities of stage and screen will coöperate with Arlington and Washington Parks in entertaining horsemen and their families at a dinner in the clubhouse dining room tomorrow evening. One of the purposes is the coördination of the war bond purchasing power of the horsemen, many of whom already have made substantial efforts in that direction.

T. W. KIMBALL, 54, OF INVESTMENT BANK FIRM, DIES

Collapses After Tennis Game at Exmoor.

T. Weller Kimball, 54, of 330 Willow rd., Winnetka, a partner in the investment banking firm of Glore, Forgan & Co., died of a heart attack yesterday afternoon shortly after finishing a tennis match on the courts of the exclusive Exmoor Country club in Highland Park, of which he was a member.

T. Weller Kimball.

He had been playing in the club's annual invitation match doubles with Miss Marjorie Lindsay against Mrs. Winfield Ellis and Miles Warner. After the match, he retired to a chair at the edge of the courts, and in a few moments collapsed and died before a physician could administer aid.

Long Active in Finance.

Mr. Kimball had been active in Chicago financial circles since a few years after his graduation from the University of Chicago. His connection with Glore, Forgan & Co., dated back to the organization in 1920 of the original firm, Glore, Ward & Co., which became Field, Glore & Co.

Previously Mr. Kimball had been connected with Swift & Co., from 1910 to 1914, and with A. B. Leach & Co., from 1914 to 1920.

He was a member of the Chicago Stock exchange, and a former governor of the Investment Bankers Association of America. He served on the association's legislative and uniformity committees, and was made a vice president in 1937.

President of Bond Men's Club.

In 1931 he was elected president of the Bond Men's club of Chicago, after a term as treasurer.

Mr. Kimball is survived by his widow, the former Helene E. Alling, by a son, Donald E. Kimball II., of Wilmette, and by two daughters, Mrs. Doris Sidell-Fish of Winnetka and Helene Weller Kimball.

The body was removed from the Exmoor club to the chapel at 27 N. Sheridan rd., Highland Park.

Services will be held tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. in the home at Winnetka.

Engineer Dies in Lake; Wife Tries to Aid Him

Swept off his feet in 5 feet of water at the south end of North av. beach, John Flowers, 31, of 3143 Fulton st., was drowned yesterday afternoon as his wife, Florence, 25, tried vainly to help him. An inhalator squad worked almost an hour trying to revive him. Mrs. Flowers said her husband, an industrial engineer, had been in poor health and that he might have suffered a heart attack during the struggle with the waves.

SEIZE SOLDIER AFTER BATTLE ON HOUSETOP

Sitting on the roof of the building in which he lives at 1315 Fillmore st., James [Red] Prindiville, 23, who said he had been absent without leave for 40 days from Fort Benning, Ga., tossed a brick thru a neighbor's window early yesterday. Frank Icabelli, 1319 Fillmore st., whose home was the target, notified Maxwell st. police and Policemen John O'Connor and Joseph Schinker tried to arrest Prindiville. He almost pushed O'Connor off the roof. Then he fled thru the skylight and took the ladder with him.

Rushing to overtake Prindiville, O'Connor didn't notice the ladder was gone and fell from the roof to the third floor. He and Schinker, who fired four shots during the melee, finally arrested Prindiville on the first floor. He said that he had had a tiff with Icabelli's 19 year old daughter and added, "This is a personal affair." The police said it had now become public and locked him up.

SENATORS PROBE ARMY DEALS FOR LUXURY HOTELS

Reasons for Realty Switches Asked.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6 (AP).—Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] today said army officials will be called on soon to explain "an apparent inconsistency" in real estate transfers.

Kilgore said Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich. and he, as members of the senate committee investigating the national defense program, are "making a thoro check" of the matter. The committee already has issued one report sharply critical on the subject.

"We are investigating reports the army is trying to secure several large hotels to convert into rest centers for war veterans, and at the same time is disposing of some luxury hotels already converted," Kilgore told a reporter.

Urges Transfer Be Halted.

He said the committee will be asked this week to urge the army to reconsider its decision to return to the owners the former Breakers hotel, now the Ream General hospital, at Palm Beach, Fla.

"They'll have to show us it's cheaper to obtain other properties and convert them into hospitals than it is to keep one already in full use," Kilgore asserted. "We are not satisfied with this situation."

The Breakers hotel was the subject of considerable controversy this spring, and Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.] once asked President Roosevelt to intervene, contending the army was catering to "special interests" by returning the property to the owners.

Studies Other Projects.

The army at that time reconsidered its decision, but after study by a special board announced that the Breakers would be returned to the owners Dec. 11.

The committeemen also expect to study interest of the army in hotels at several other places including Asheville, N. C., Hot Springs, Ark., Lake Placid, N. Y., and San Francisco.

The senate committee has charged "there have been too many changes of mind. The army negotiations were conducted in a manner which was overbearing and inconsistent with fair dealing."

Kilgore said the committee probably would consider the issue this week at its first meeting since Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.] succeeded Sen. Truman [D., Mo.] as chairman.

PLANS TOLD BY TRIBUNE.

Plans of the army to take over many resort hotels as rest centers were disclosed in a story in THE TRIBUNE Aug. 4.

The story said that in Miami Beach, Fla., the army service forces are acquiring 24 hotels for use of servicemen returning from overseas duty. These are in addition to 23 ocean front hotels and eight other buildings recently taken over by the army air forces, which will continue to occupy 14 hotels and one mess hall in use since October, 1943.

In Hot Springs, Ark., the army was reported negotiating leases on the Majestic, De Soto, Park and Arlington hotels as rest centers.

THE TRIBUNE story disclosed that the San Francisco, Cal., chamber of commerce had protested the army's plan to acquire four major hotels there — Mark Hopkins, Fairmont, Sir Francis Drake and the Palace —to house battle fatigued soldiers.

CARRIER TO USE ELECTRONICS IN TRAIN CONTROL

Combines Principle of Radio, Phone.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

An electronic telephone system, providing instantaneous and continuous voice communication between moving passenger and freight trains and wayside towers—and between moving trains themselves—is to be installed on the two main line four track divisions of the Pennsylvania railroad between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, officials of the road announced last night.

Combining principles of both radio and the wire telephone, the installation is designed as an extensive communications laboratory to advance the safety and efficiency of railroad operation. Approximately 300 passenger and freight locomotives, 90 freight cabin cars [cabooses], and six wayside towers along the 245 mile track stretch will be equipped with the train telephones.

The new installation, to cost 1 million dollars, was developed in association with the Union Switch and Signal company. The system has been in experimental use on the Trenton-Phillipsburg branch of the road in New Jersey since 1942.

Heavy Traffic Area Involved.

Road officials now will have an opportunity to adapt it to conditions in one of the heaviest railroad traffic areas of the nation.

This comunications system will enable towermen in wayside stations to talk with all train crews moving in their areas, even tho many miles distant, for the transmission of instructions, reports, and information pertaining to train operations.

On freight trains the conductor in the caboose and the engineer in the cab may talk to each other or with the crew of a train several miles distant. On passenger trains the system phones will be installed only in locomotives, the air whistle train signal taking care of intra-train communication. The passenger enginemen also will use the phones to reach other trains and towermen.

This radionic system utilizes high frequency alternating currents transmitted by induction to the rails and wires on poles paralleling the tracks.

Radio Paths Confined.

The transmission paths are confined entirely to railroad property, instead of the universal paths of nature over which radio waves would travel. This system obviates the necessity of assigning radio frequencies from the limited range available in war time.

The system employs frequency modulation and so-called "carrier" currents for transmission. These currents remove any possible handicap in high static localities, such as electrified trackage or dense industrial areas.

No change will be made in the rules governing the movements of trains when the telephone system is used. The system will tie in with the most modern signaling and safety devices, including automatic block signals. In the New Jersey test it has reduced delays and is expected to do the same on the main line.

The General Electric company contributed to the research.

Central Soya Registers 2¼ Million of Debentures

Central Soya Company, Inc., Fort Wayne, Ind., has registered with the securities and exchange commission an issue of $2,250,000 of sinking fund debentures maturing Aug. 1, 1959, the company announced yesterday. Proceeds will be applied to the redemption of the first mortgage bonds, due 1952, outstanding in the amount of $1,400,000, and replenishment of working capital.

ORE MOVEMENT PAST ITS PEAK; BEATS 1943 RATE

Cleveland, O., Aug. 6 [Special].—The Great Lakes ore movement has passed its peak and shipments will taper off from now until the close of the season, vessel men said today.

July shipments of 12,908,972 gross tons increased the season's movement to 42,285,902 tons, compared with 38,382,704 tons in the corresponding period last year. Since for general purposes Aug. 1 is considered the midway point in the lake shipping season, the 1944 movement would total approximately 84½ million tons if shipments hold the present pace.

Vessel men estimated that 81 million tons would be more than ample for requirements of war manufacturing plants in the Great Lakes area.

MEAT DEALERS TO DISCUSS OPA POLICIES TODAY

The scarcity of choice beef and pork cuts in retail markets and meat regulations of the OPA and other federal agencies will be discussed by the 1,200 delegates to the 59th annual meeting of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, which opens today in the Palmer House. Officials of the association said that they expect the delegates to draft resolutions asking federal action to increase the flow of choicer grades of meat to consumers, and also to remove lower grades of beef from the ration list.

OPA Lifts Manufacturers' Ceilings for Bed Sheets

Washington, D. C. Aug. 6 (AP).—The OPA tonight increased manufacturers' ceiling prices for the four grades of bed sheets and pillow cases in greatest demand. Whether the increases, retroactive to June 30, will be passed on at wholesale and retail has not been decided, the agency said.

BUENOS AIRES BONDS.

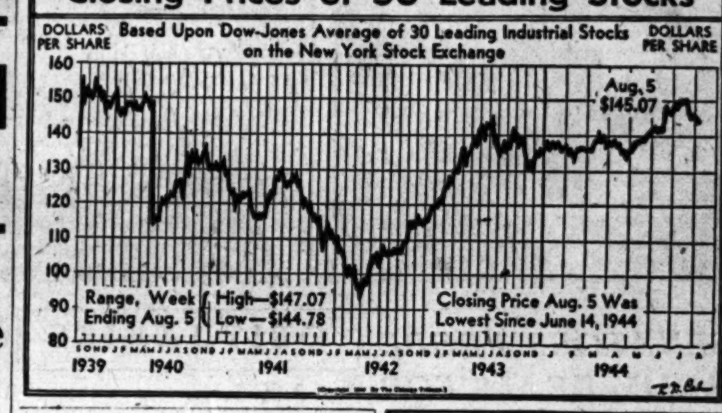

I would appreciate information on the following Buenos Aires province bonds: 4⅜s, 1977; 4½s, August, 1976; and 4⅜s, 1975.—F. S.

Answer: Altho the Argentine republic met punctually the interest obligations on its own dollar bonds during the depression of the early 1930's, the province of Buenos Aires suspended regular interest payments in dollars for a three year period ended Dec. 31, 1935, on its external bonds sold in the United States. In 1935 the province issued in exchange new bonds carrying lower interest rates. The bonds referred to in the question were issued under the 1935 readjustment plan.

Principal and interest on all three issues are payable in dollars. The bonds are a direct obligation of the province of Buenos Aires and are specifically secured by pledge of certain revenues. Interest has been paid promptly. An annual sinking fund of 1⅛ per cent is provided.

The dollar bonds of the province outstanding in March this year totaled $53,065,100. With a population of 3.5 millions and an area of 117,800 square miles, it is described as the largest and richest of the Argentine provinces. Grain and live stock growing and meat packing are important industries. The city of Buenos Aires is outside of, but adjoins, the province.

G. M. Strikers Vote to Work; Truckers Idle

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The over-all strike situation brightened yesterday as 7,000 striking employes of five General Motors corporation plants voted to return to their jobs today, but approximately 20,000 were idle in labor disputes thruout the United States and Canada.

The G. M. vote ends a 12 day tie-up which had threatened to close five other G. M. plants in St. Louis, Norwood, O.; Atlanta, Ga.; Tonawanda, N. Y., and Pontiac, Mich.

Previously the strikers had ignored orders to return to work from both their international officers of the United Automobile Workers [CIO] and the national war labor board. The international board last week ousted the 10 officers of local 235 because of the unauthorized walkout.

Truck Operation Stalled.

Meanwhile all over-the-road truckers in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha, and Kansas City remained idle in a dispute over wage demands. Approximately 5,000 workers were involved in the dispute with the Midwest Operators' association, whose spokesmen said the operators would make no attempts to run the vehicles during the tie-up.

M. M. Krupinsky, Nebraska spokesman for the operators, said that Chairman William Wilson, Sioux Falls, S. D., and Secretary Lou Hoskins, St. Paul, had gone to Washington to confer with government officials. The operators in the area, covering Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, and the Dakotas, also planned meetings at "key points" today, Krupinsky said.

Tank Output Held Up.

A walkout of 1,200 employes in the St. Louis Car company plant, termed unauthorized by a CIO union spokesman, continued as a result of a dispute between the management and members of the United Steel Workers over a piece-work pay scale in a department. The walkout halted tank construction at the plant.

At Montreal, Que., a transportation tie-up continued with an estimated 4,000 workers idle. In Pennsylvania 750 workers in three war plants voted to return to work, but 1,700 strikers in four other plants in central and western Pennsylvania remained out. Three hundred employes who walked out Friday at the Van Lear, Ky., mine of the Consolidated Coal company settled a dispute and union officials said the men would start work on the first shift today.

Ottawa Strikers Return.

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 6 [Special].—Fourteen hundred employes of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, who walked off their jobs in a CIO wildcat strike Thursday in a dispute over a woman employe, have agreed to return to work tomorrow morning, R. R. Nickerson, general manager of the plant, announced today. The company is engaged in critical work for the army air forces.

Trouble in the plant was precipitated over the purported slapping of a woman employe by a foreman. Pete Neurohr, the foreman, denied the accusation but said the woman was loafing on the job and he told her to get to work. She has resigned her job.

CASTINGS LACK LAID TO POLICIES OF U. S. AGENCIES

Whether the production of heavy military trucks is being retarded to the extent stated by government officials because of inability to obtain an adequate supply of gray iron and malleable castings "is a moot question, but the fact remains that most foundries have a man power problem that so far has defied solution," Steel, Cleveland, O., said yesterday in its current issue.

"For this situation, foundrymen place the primary responsibility on the government war agencies," the trade journal asserted. "These agencies, they charge, woke up too late to the importance of castings in the war program. Foundries were not given adequate consideration by the war man power commission in labor recruitment; the office of price administration has been reluctant to afford price relief; the base wages, often offered as a reason for the casting shops' labor shortage, are frozen by the war labor board; the army apparently was slow to realize the size of the truck program required; selective service granted too few deferments in this critical industry."

Coddling of labor unions also has contributed to the shortage, the magazine said, and "even now, with commanders on all fronts reporting damaging deficiencies in heavy trucks and other military items, foundries are prevented from hiring prisoners of war—simply because the unions object."

People and Events

O. J. Engle, controler of the ordnance division of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, has been appointed the company's director of termination, C. A. Liddle, president, announced yesterday. Engle will represent the company in such matters as contract cancellations, terminations, and cutbacks and supervise inventory controls and production schedules.

The Railroad Yardmasters of America, coöperating with an office of defense transportation request, will hold a business meeting Wednesday in the Stevens hotel instead of their usual large convention.

Norman Siskin, formerly a sales executive of General Electric Supply corporation, has been appointed sales manager of Ashbach & Rubloff, jobbers and distributors of electronics equipment, radios, and appliances.

Britain, U. S. Ready to Sign Oil Compact

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6 (AP).—Great Britain and the United States are due to sign the first formal agreement on post-war international trade early this week when the final seal is put on the oil pact.

Delegations headed by Secretary of State Hull for this country and Lord Privy Seal Beaverbrook for the British have been discussing oil policy for a little over a week, and agreement is understood to have been quickly reached.

Reports to Be Advisory.

Main result will be the establishment of an Anglo-American commission on oil moving in international trade. There was some diversity of opinion on the powers of the commission, with the British contending that it should be able to enforce its recommendations on oil production and markets and the Americans holding that the commission's views should be merely advisory.

The final decision was to give the commission purely advisory powers, and the plan is that it will make recommendations to each government, which can then pass them along to private oil producing companies either as advisable plans or as law, if congress or parliament sees fit.

Hope Other Nations Will Join.

The Anglo-American agreement, which aims at orderly development of the world's oil resources within the framework of free competition but with safeguards against competitive waste, is considered primarily an interim pact until other nations can be brought in. Moves toward talks with Russia, Venezuela, Colombia, and other oil-interested countries will get under way as soon as the ink is dry on the Anglo-American pact.

The United States already has begun exploratory talks with Britain and the Netherlands on synthetic rubber, and such commodities as wheat and cotton probably will be reviewed later.

START NEW WEST COAST PROJECTS TO AID JAP WAR

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 6 (AP). — Two hundred ninety hitherto unannounced military and naval construction projects, costing "substantially in excess" of 100 million dollars, have been or quickly will be started in the Puget Sound area, the area labor supply committee of the chamber of commerce disclosed today.

At the same time the committee announced drastic measures to meet a labor shortage set at a minimum of 37,000 workers and termed a major crisis for the area. Indefinite postponement of all civilian construction and repair was ordered.

Of the new projects, Clarence R. Innis, committee chairman said, "These are all in connection with the war in the Pacific. If the war with Germany had ended yesterday it would have had no effect on these projects."

ASSOCIATED GAS INCOME BALANCE TOPS 10 MILLIONS

New York, Aug. 6 [Special].—The annual report for 1943 of the trustees in reorganization of the Associated Gas and Electric corporation, released today, showed a consolidated balance of income after expenses and charges, but before deductions, of $10,401,358, compared with $8,248,713 on the same basis in 1942.

Gross operating revenues of the system for the year were $128,733,869, against $120,426,000 the year before. The report gave a summary of developments pertaining to the operation, financing and reorganization of the system during the year, the details of which previously had been announced.

AIR FORCE MEN TO AID WAR JOB TERMINATIONS

Assign 25 Officers to Chicago Area.

Twenty-five additional officers have been assigned to the army air forces material command's Chicago headquarters to expedite contract terminations and disposal of surplus and obsolete equipment, Lt. Col. Evan A. Mattison, readjustment executive of the midcentral procurement district, announced yesterday. Another 15 or 20 officers will be added in a few weeks, he said.

Lt. Col. Mattison. [Moffett Photo.]

Col. Mattison warned that altho the additional personnel was obtained to cut termination time and eliminate many accompanying problems, the action should not be regarded as a sign of the war's end, but rather a "preparation for the time when it will be necessary to convert quickly" from a war to peace basis.

Model Program Set Up.

"The material command is pioneering in this program in the Chicago area, and it is expected to become a model for other services and the rest of the country," Mattison said.

"Each prime contractor will be assigned a terminations officer who will visit the plant within the next two weeks, explaining in detail the procedures to be followed when and if a contract is terminated. The ground work will be so well laid that such terminations can be successfully completed within a matter of only two or three weeks after the contractor files his claim.

"The ABC of termination is simply that the contractor must present his bill, and detail the material on hand, both in finished and unfinished form. Upon presentation of the claim, it must be checked for its reasonableness and accuracy, and if found in order, payment will be made promptly. Settlements need not be delayed until the property has been disposed of, but contractors are expected to coöperate in every way in moving surplus items."

Connant Named Chief.

Lt. Col. S. O. Connant has been appointed chief of the readjustment training section of the A. A. F. material command in this district.

The command, in coöperation with other army service branches and the Chicago Association of Commerce, will hold a series of termination meetings in Edison building auditorium, beginning Aug. 10. Other sessions will be held on succeeding Thursday for the next four or five weeks. Similar meetings will be held later at Duluth, Minn., and Des Moines, Ia.

Cost of Living Up in More Cities than Down in June

New York, Aug. 6 (AP).—Increases in the cost of living of wage earners and lower-salaried clerical workers during June in 33 of 63 cities surveyed were reported today by the national industrial conference board, which found declines in 23 cities and costs unchanged in seven. The largest gain, 1.8 per cent, was reported for Indianapolis.

Public Groups Ask First Call on Surpluses

Local governmental units should receive preference over civilian buyers in the disposal of federally owned surplus war commodities expected to exceed 100 billion dollars by the war's end, in the opinions of officials of cities, counties, and other units of local government.

Among many surplus items which would be of value to local governments are trucks, construction machinery, hospital equipment, hardware, building maintenance materials, and dismantled buildings.

The opinions were made public yesterday in reports to the Municipal Finance Officers association from local finance and purchasing officials and in a statement of the American Municipal association's board of directors.

Taxpayers Foot Bills.

"Since the surpluses have been paid for by the taxpayers, the local units of government, which are supported by these same taxpayers, should receive preference in the disposal of these surpluses," officials contended.

Among other proposals by the two associations were that all offerings be made in terms of units rather than on lot basis, that tax supported agencies be given a price preference, that materials offered for sale be adequately described in catalogs, and that all agencies designated to sell surpluses maintain uniform policies.

Asks Congress to Be Specific.

In addition, congress was asked to enact legislation containing specific directives on policy and operation to any agency charged with disposition of surplus property.

The federal government should establish an appropriate state agency for distribution in states where such agencies did not exist, and time preference should be given governmental subdivisions in the disposition of surplus property, it was suggested.

G. I. HOME LOANS TIED UP BY STATE MORTGAGE LAWS

Ruling Awaited on Vets' Free Tuition.

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—Conflicting state mortgage laws and the demands of educational institutions for post-war federal subsidies have delayed government attorneys in their attempts to translate the provisions of the service men's readjustment law [GI bill of rights] into action, THE TRIBUNE learned today.

More than 1,500,000 honorably discharged men, who have served in the army and navy 90 days, are eligible for benefits under the law. Principal benefits to which they, and men discharged for disabilities incurred in service, are entitled are:

1. Federal guarantee of 50 per cent of the amount of loans made for the purchase of homes, farms, and business property.

Entitled to Education.

2. Educational benefits for veterans whose schooling was interrupted. Maximum benefits are $500 annually for tuition and $75 per month subsistence for veterans with dependents.

3. Unemployment benefits up to $20 per week for returning veterans who are completely unemployed or who are partially employed at wages of less than $23 per week.

The loan provision makes it possible for a veteran to go to a bank, building and loan association, or other agency and borrow any amount up to $4,000 with the federal government guaranteeing half of the loan. It would be up to the lending agency to determine the veteran's ability to repay the loan.

Uncertain of Guarantee.

Attorneys of the veterans' administration and other government agencies have not yet developed a procedure for government guarantee of veterans' loans because mortgage and loan laws vary from state to state, a veterans' administration official said today, and lending agencies are undecided whether government guarantees can be accepted under the law.

More than 1,000 applications for educational benefits already have been received, with 46 having been approved up to July 24. As the fall opening of schools and colleges approaches, veterans' administration offices will be flooded with applications, officials anticipate.

Altho the educational provisions of the GI bill were planned solely for the benefit of veterans, many institutions look upon it as a way to get federal subsidies, a veterans' administration official said today. State and city institutions which give free tuition to residents of their areas are seeking federal funds for the tuition fees of veterans, the official said.

No Policy Announced.

No policy has been announced regarding payment of tuition to public institutions. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, has told associates that each case should be decided on its own merits.

Unemployment compensation benefits for veterans under the GI bill will not start until Sept. 3. Provisions of the law appear clear and no difficulty is anticipated in its administration.

Veterans' discontent with the unemployment compensation provisions are anticipated by some members of congress, however, because the CIO-sponsored reconversion bill to be considered by the senate next week provides benefits for demobilized war plant workers as high as $35 a week—compared with $20 for returning soldiers.

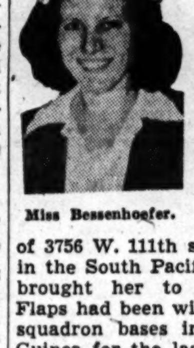

Lt. Charles T. Waldy, 22, Missing Over Germany

Lt. Charles T. Waldy, 22, of 4728 Kenwood av., has been missing in action over Germany since July 20, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Dorcas F. Waldy, yesterday. Lt. Waldy, a bomber pilot, entered the air forces in August, 1942, and has been overseas since last December. He attended Hyde Park High school.

SIGHT OF HORSE AWES DOG USED TO ROAR OF WAR

Flaps, a cocker spaniel with ears as sensitive to the sound of airplane engines as an electronic hearing device, is finding a Chicago milk wagon horse a more awesome object than the Jap bombing planes that chased her into slit trenches for the last year.

Miss Bessenhoefer.

Her master, Tech. Sgt. Marshall Kappel, 26, of 3756 W. 111th st., who had been in the South Pacific for 31 months, brought her to Chicago Friday. Flaps had been with him at fighter squadron bases in and near New Guinea for the last year.

Sight of Horse Excites Her.

"Cows and horses were the most exciting things Flaps saw when we reached this country," Kappel said. "Even now she goes into a dither when she sees a horse in the street. She saw plenty of jeeps and planes in the last year, but no horses."

Air Minded Dog

Sgt. Marshal Kappell and Flaps, cocker spaniel he brought back from Australia.

The dog, a gift of friends in Australia, was only a pup when she flew with Kappel from Sydney to New Guinea last August. Her pedigree name was Blue Bonnet Carramba but her ears reminded the flyers of the air brakes on a plane and they named her Flaps. "It didn't take her long to learn the difference between the closely synchronized hum of American plane engines and the rough sound of Jap motors," Kappel said.

Knows When Raid Is Near.

"She didn't have to wait for an air raid alarm to duck for a slit trench. She usually was waiting there when I dashed in. Sometimes she started acting up even before electric devices picked up the sound of approaching enemy planes."

During assignments at several fighter bases where Kappel was a ground crew member, Flaps ate food from the regular mess—and developed a dislike for corned beef. "The only time she ever growled at me," Kappel said, "was when I gave her a plate of corned beef hash."

Flaps was strictly a Yanks' dog. She growled at Australian soldiers and chased natives into the woods, Kappel said.

War at an End for Her.

During his 22 day furlough, Sgt. Kappel will be married to Miss Anne Bessenhoefer, 24, of 611 W. 57th st., then will leave for reassignment. Flaps won't go with him this time. Her combat days are over and she will stay with Kappel's parents.

"Flaps will miss the soldiers," Kappel said. "She still gets excited when she sees a man in uniform. But she is developing new interests here. You see, my brother's dog, Curly, also lives with my folks."

BLACK-OUT ENDS FOR HOSPITALS AFTER 24 HOURS

Electricity was restored in the County hospital last night, nearly 24 hours after five buildings were plunged into a black-out by the failure of a power cable. Lights went off in the main building, the children's and men's buildings, and the contagious and tuberculosis hospitals, forcing doctors and nurses to work by candlelight and air raid lanterns.

Electric service was restored to four of the buildings early yesterday, but a crew of engineers and electricians worked for several hours before repairs were completed in the tuberculosis hospital. Joseph E. Moulden, building superintendent, ascribed the black-out to the short circuit of a feeder cable into the tuberculosis hospital.
